Await Fair Rush

Chicago today will pay tribute to the heroes who served the nation on the field of battle.

The chief public event of Memorial day will be the parade down Michigan avenue, starting at 2 o'clock. But to thousands of mothers and fathers Memorial day is more than a public tribute. It will be observed by them when they drop a flower and a tear on a son's grave.

Participants in the parade will assemble in Ohio, Erie, Huron, and Superior streets and Chicago avenue on both sides of the boulevard. They will march down the avenue, sixteen abreast, past the reviewing stand in Grant park, and will turn west at 11th street to Wabash avenue, where most of the units will disband.

Sixty-seventh Parade.

The parade will be the sixty-seventh renewal of this event, and the plans announced by Grand Marshal James H. Campbell, former state commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, are for the greatest memorial parade that Chicago has ever seen.

But there will be one impressive figure missing this year. For the last three years the parade has been led by Capt. William P. Wright, commander in chief of the G. A. R. He led his last parade a year ago. Little more than two weeks later, on June 15, 1933, taps was sounded over his grave.

Program Honors Wright.

To his memory the program of events today is dedicated, by orders of Grand Marshal Campbell, his successor.

Other comrades who answered the call in 1861 and wore the blue of the Union to victory have also passed on since the last Memorial day was celebrated. In Chicago and Cook county there are only sixty-eight left alive.

On last Memorial day, in all of Illinois, there were 839 G. A. R. members. This year the official figures showed but 625 still standing in that thinning line of blue. Those few are the survivors of the army that had 32,984 members in Illinois in 1891.

Veterans Will Ride.

The year of 1934 will see only about forty of the union veterans still able to join the parade. Even they must ride in automobiles. Three years have passed since any were able to march.

They will head the first division of the parade, under the leadership of Arthur Dawson, chief of staf of the department of Illinois, G. A. R. A platoon of uniformed Sons of Union Veterans will form an honorary escort to their cars.

Behind them will come the Woman's Relief corps, the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, the Daughters of Union Veterans, and the auxiliary to the Sons of Union Veterans.

The second division of the parade will be composed of the Spanish war veterans and their auxiliary organizations. Middle aged, most of them gray, but still younger than the veterans in blue who precede them, will be this group.

Boys Will Be Escorts.

The marshal will be Sam M. Arting, president of the municipal council of United Spanish War Veterans, and the honorary escort will be the R. O. T. C. band from Calumet High school and the R. O. T. C. unit of the same school.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars will be next in line, and back of them will come the platoons of American Legionnaires and affiliated groups.

Gov. Henry Horner will be the reviewing officer in chief before whom the ranks will pass, and on the stand with him will be Mayor Edward J. Kelly, Maj. Gen. Preston Brown, Rear Admiral Watt T. Cluverius, Brig. Gen. Frank Bolles, Gen. Charles G. Dawes, Col. Tenney Ross, Capt. Ira A. Correll, and Maj. F. W. Milburne.

When the reviewing stand has been passed the impressive service for the soldier dead will be held at the Logan monument at the foot of 9th street. The firing squad of the Board of Trade post No. 304, American Legion, Dr. Lester Johnson commanding, will fire three volleys in salute.

The band of the same post, led by Armin Hand, will play the "Star Spangled Banner" and the Drum and Bugle corps will sound taps. The echo of "Taps" will be sounded by Bugler Fred L. Pollachek.

EXPECT SENATE RATIFICATION IN FEW DAYS' TIME

Committee May O.K. Decision Today.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt's long heralded project to free Cuba from every vestige of American suzerainty materialized today.

At the state department plenipotentiaries of the United States and Cuba signed a treaty abrogating the famous Platt amendment providing for the maintenance of the independence and territorial and financial integrity of the iland republic and authorizing the United States to intervene therein for the protection of the country and the preservation of order.

The treaty, as soon as it was signed, was transmitted to the senate and referred to the foreign relations committee, which probably will report it favorably tomorrow. The prospect is that it will be ratified without delay.

President Sends Treaty.

In transmitting the treaty the President sent the senate a message in which he said:

"I have publicly declared 'that the definite policy of the United States from now on is one opposed to armed intervention.' In this new treaty with Cuba, the contractural right to intervene in Cuba which had been granted to the United States in the earlier treaty of 1903 is abolished, and those further rights, likewise granted to the United States in the same instrument, involving participation in the determination of such domestic policies of the republic of Cuba as those relating to finance and to sanitation are omitted therefrom.

"By the consummation of this treaty this government will make it clear that it not only opposes the policy of armed interference, but that it renounces those rights of intervention and interference in Cuba, which have been bestowed upon it by treaty.

Relations Are Close.

"Our relations with Cuba have been and must always be especially close. They are based not only upon geographical proximity, but likewise upon the fact that American blood was shed as well as Cuban blood to gain the liberty of the Cuban people and to establish the republic of Cuba as an independent power in the family of nations.

"I believe that this treaty will further maintain those good relations upon enduring foundation of sovereign equality and friendship between our two peoples, and I consequently recommend to the senate its ratification."

In taking this step the President fulfilled a pledge to Cuba of a year's standing and carried forward his plan for a completely new deal in the relations of the United States and the other American republics.

At the Woodrow Wilson birthday dinner last year he announced a virtual shelving of the Monroe Doctrine, the implications of which were developed by Secretary of State Olney in the Cleveland administration and by President Theodore Roosevelt and his successors in such manner as to make the United States the policeman of the western hemisphere.

Severs Cords to Cuba.

The President withdrew Uncle Sam from that rôle and promised that the United States will not henceforth intervene with armed forces in any of its sister republics. In consonance with his views of changed conditions in the western hemisphere he now severs the cords that have made Cuba a virtual dependency of the United States.

A majority of the senate foreign relations committee, including Senators Key Pittman [Dem., Nev.], chairman; William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], James Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.], Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.], William H. King [Dem., Utah], and Frederick Walcott [Rep., Conn.], declared in favor of the new treaty, asserting the Platt amendment should have been abrogated long ago. Senator Hiram Johnson [Rad., Cal.] declined to commit himself.

Senator Pittman takes the position that the abrogation of the Platt amendment, together with the new policy announced by the President at the Wilson dinner, effectually puts the Monroe Doctrine into the discard.

"The Monroe Doctrine," he said, "was pronounced for the purpose of protecting the Latin-American republics from being taken back by the countries that had colonized them. It was developed to such a point that we had to control these countries in order to prevent other countries from controling them. That was contrary to democracy.

BRITAIN STAGES BIG BLOODHOUND HUNT FOR MAN WHO SHOT COP

LONDON, May 29.—(AP)—Aroused officials and citizens searched the Southern Downs section today for a man who yesterday committed the almost unheard of crime of shooting a British policeman.

Bloodhounds, airplanes, motorcycles, automobiles, and bicycles were seen on the little used roads as armed policemen, firemen, blackshirted fascists and hundreds of volunteers took part in the search.

Although the policeman, Arthur Jex, was not seriously wounded when he was shot by a burglar suspect he was questioning near Worthing, the British public was shocked at the use of firearms by a criminal.

The fact that policemen sent to look for the suspect were given arms was considered worthy of eight column headlines in British newspapers. Only under extraordinary circumstances are weapons distributed to the police force.

CORD FAMILY FOILS KIDNAPERS, FLEES TO BRITAIN

New York, May 29.—(AP)—The World Telegram says kidnaping threats against his children caused E. L. Cord, motor and aviation magnate, to decide on a long cruise aboard his yacht Virginia.

The yacht loaded with provisions for a year, says the newspaper, sailed today for England. There Cord, his wife, and four children are reported to have lived under guard for some time.

Last March, however, when reports of kidnaping threats against Cord's two sons by a former marriage were first published he denied them vigorously.

At that time the boys, Charles and Bill, students at the Culver [Ind.] Military academy, were met by two motorcycle policemen on their arrival at Pasadena, Cal., en route to their home in Beverly Hills.

The World Telegram says numerous threats have been received by Cord in the last year, but that he paid no attention to them until the recent kidnaping of William F. Gettle, whose California estate is not far from his.

Following the Gettle kidnaping, says the newspaper, Cord and his wife, the former Virginia Kirk Thorpe, and their two children, Sally, 3 years old, and Betty, six months, together with his two sons, came to New York, accompanied by guards, and sailed secretly for England.

Doctor Fights to Save Lives of Quintuplets

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Canada, May 29. — A country physician struggled today to save the lives of five baby girls, who together weigh but 13 pounds six ounces. They were born yesterday morning to the 24 year old wife of Ernest Dionne, in a four room farm home near Corbell, Ont.

Physicians here expressed amazement at the added strength shown by the quintuplets as they started on their second day of life. The infants cried lustily most of the night, which was regarded as another good sign of health.

Rare for All to Live.

The history of similar cases, which are rare in medical annals, indicates that at least one of the children will die, however. Dr. A. R. Dafoe of Callander, the attending physician, admitted this, but declared that only history, and not the condition of the children, indicates this will occur.

"Give me two weeks, or the time necessary to bring them to their normal birth time," he said. "They are doing much better than I expected. I really thought they would die yesterday morning. This morning, however, I was impressed by the strength they showed and the fact that their organs functioned normally."

Fed With Eye Dropper.

All five were able to take a mixture of corn sirup, milk and water administered today with an eye dropper. They lay in a clothes basket which they share for a bed. Neither the basket nor the home's two bedrooms, occupied by the parents and five other Dionne children, allow adequate care for the infants, and Dr. Dafoe has sent out a call for aid.

"This morning I found one of the little lassies crowded into a small space in one corner of their improvised bed," the doctor said.

Among the many calls received by the physician was one from an American Medical association official in Chicago who said he could hardly believe that the children were gaining and would live.

THREE "QUADS" STILL ALIVE.

Three of the Ormsby quadruplets, born in Chicago in 1901 to Charles and Mrs. Josephine Ormsby, are still alive, it was learned yesterday. Mrs. Ormsby died three months ago at the age of 74. Her husband died in 1912.

The three surviving children, now 33 years old, are John, Theodore and William Ormsby. The fourth, a girl, Edith, died three years ago after an appendicitis operation. Until her death Mrs. Ormsby had lived on a farm at 159th street and Western avenue in the village of Markham. John now resides at this address and is employed on a public works administration project. Theodore works on a farm near Crown Point, Ind., and William lives with his wife and two children at 7739 Fielding avenue, Chicago.

Before the birth of the quadruplets, two sets of twins, one set of triplets and three other children had arrived at the Ormsby home. John Ormsby said that two of the triplets are still living and are now 37 years old, while all of the other children are dead.

PLANE, WIRES, LAKE, AND TRAIN TANGLE; PILOT PROVES HERO

GRAZ, Austria, May 29.—(AP)—Aviation, railroading, and electric superpower all tangled at once today, but a man swam out of the mess and rescued everybody.

An airplane took off from the flying school field near here. It crashed into high tension wires, spilling the pilot and a student, uninjured, into a lake. The pilot, a swimmer, saw his student safely ashore. Then he saw that the high tension wires had fallen across railroad tracks. The Vienna Express was due. He heard it thundering down the tracks in the distance, headed straight for the high voltage lines.

Dripping water, the flyer ran up the ties and flagged the express just before it touched the wires.

BANDIT IS SLAIN BY A WATCHMAN GETTING HAIR CUT

Antone Amschlinger, 22 years old, 2038 School street, was shot and fatally wounded last night when he tried to hold up a barber shop at 2904 Lincoln avenue, owned by James Ferrol. Amschlinger was shot by Arthur Steuben, 1313 Wellington avenue, a private watchman, who was having his hair cut. After the shooting Ferrol continued cutting Steuben's hair until the police arrived.

Ferrol told Lieut. Stephen J. Barry and Sergt. George Melican of the Sheffield avenue police that Amschlinger entered the shop and asked to be directed to the washroom. Becoming suspicious, Steuben reached for his gun under cover of the apron the barber placed over him. When Amschlinger returned from the washroom he pointed a gun at Ferrol. Steuben then fired three times from the apron.

As Amschlinger fell he fired twice at Steuben, but the shots went wild. Amschlinger was taken to the Alexian Brothers' hospital, where he died.

Police Wreck Opening Night at the Dells

The orchestra was playing snappily in the dining room of the Dells roadhouse in Morton Grove at 9 o'clock last night. The chefs had prepared something like a ton of food and the waiters were awaiting to carry it in and collect the generous tips that a "grand opening" traditionally brings to their craft.

But no guests arrived in the Dells. Some 900 who had paid $3.50 each for their advance reservations reached the front gates, but got no farther. On guard there were Lieut. Frank Johnson and two squads of policemen from the state's attorney's office.

Orders from Courtney.

"You can't go in," was the only comment of the policemen as the would be patrons of the grand opening drove up. "We've got our orders from Mr. Courtney and until he gives the word there'll be no dining and dancing and certainly no drinking here."

Sam Hare and Louis Silversmith, owners of the place, disconsolately protested that the state's attorney had no right to do what he was doing. They got in touch with their attorney, Simon Herr, but said Mr. Herr told them he didn't know what he could do to relieve the blockade last night.

State Liquor Permit Revoked.

Mr. Courtney has made no secret of the fact that he was anxious to keep the Dells from opening. At his request the Illinois liquor control commission yesterday revoked the permit of the roadhouse to sell alcoholic beverages. The state's attorney also had written to the officials of Morton Grove and other suburban communities to request that they bar Hare and Silversmith from operating any places in their boundaries.

During the day Attorney Herr went before Judge Harry M. Fisher and requested that an injunction be issued to restrain the state's attorney, the police, and Knowlton L. Ames, state director of finance, from taking any action to stop the grand opening. Judge Fisher ruled then that even if Mr. Courtney had announced the intention of harassing and annoying the Dells' owners he had not done anything—so far—that would justify a court order.

Factor Kidnaping Recalled.

Mr. Courtney refused to explain exactly why he is so wrathful against Hare and Silversmith, but it was learned he based his enmity on files in his office. It was after leaving the Dells that John Factor, now awaiting extradition to England, was kidnaped last August by Touhy gangsters, four of whom have been sent to prison for the crime.

Although Hare and Silversmith claimed they still held Morton Grove licenses to run their roadhouse, Herbert Dilg, who is both village president and police chief, made no move toward requesting that the state's attorney's police let the Dells operate. It was reported that the village officials were maintaining neutrality. If the place is kept closed the village will have to refund to Hare and Silversmith more than $500 they have paid for various kinds of licenses.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—[Special.]—Nature is working the greatest paradox of the paradoxical new deal, and while many thousands of farmers look upon hot cloudless skies and withered fields, the agricultural administration of the federal government pursues its schemes to let many fertile fields lie unplowed and unsown.

Until now the worst plague of the drouth, which has fastened down upon 11 midwestern states, is the misery and want which has come to parched localities. Farmers look ahead to a year of charity from neighbors and government.

Wheat Lands Bare.

In the wheat lands the fields are bare; there is little spring wheat, and only time will tell whether the heavens will relent and send rain for the winter plantings.

In the cattle country the farmers look upon their stock panting and dying for lack of water and withering for lack of food.

But just today the federal relief administration has advertised for bids on processing of cattle which are to be bought by the thousands in the drouth areas and slaughtered and given to the poor of the cities, all because there is not water and feed to prepare them better for the market.

Tugwell Still Hopeful.

Though conceding the local terrors and miseries visited by the drouth, the officials of the department of agriculture do not, as yet, see any dire effect upon the national food supply, nor upon the price situation.

In an interview today Prof. Rexford Guy Tugwell, acting secretary of agriculture during the vacation of Secretary Wallace, declared that the department was not concerned with the effect of the drouth upon the national crop situation, and was limiting its activities to relieving conditions in the drouth areas.

"The only major damage that has been done," he added, "has been to spring wheat." Despite the drouth, however, he sees no present possibility of a wheat crop below 600 million bushels.

Points to the Carryover.

"Besides this crop we have a carryover this year of 250 million bushels. Consequently, since the consumption of wheat in this country is about 625 million bushels, the effect of the drouth nationally will be no more than to reduce the carryover by perhaps 25 million bushels."

He said the drouth had had some effect thus far, but not a great deal, upon some other crops, including corn, oats and barley, and that in his opinion there was no danger of a food shortage, nor an inordinately high price level in those crops.

Asked what the effect might be if the drouth continued indefinitly, Dr. Tugwell shrugged his shoulders.

"Nobody can foresee what will happen with the weather," he observed.

Government vs. Nature.

The drouth has forced wheat futures up to the dollar level. Although this is good news for the wheat raiser, blessed with a generous fall of moisture, it is not good news to those farmers whose fields are utterly barren.

Some farm people are said to be whispering about the federal government's efforts to circumvent the laws of nature, to punish the land by forcing or inducing farmers to let it lie fallow when it might produce food for man and beast.

They see something unnatural in a program which keeps land from the plow, and in their woes of these hours of drouth they have grown superstitious, awed before what many of them see as a visitation of God upon those who would interfere with the natural laws of plenty.

The farm people, whose closeness to religion has always appeared above their city brethren, are said to believe they are witnessing the wrath of God upon those who would experiment against him. They see a sign in the drouth, and a command that they must no longer withhold the seed from their lands.

Some reports have come to the federal officials that enemies of their programs have printed pamphlets and handbills, by the hundred thousand, containing the scriptural inhibitions against tampering with the land.

Weather Bureau Stumped.

On the coldly scientific side of the problem, the weather bureau holds no hope for or against relief. Drouths have come and drouths have gone, of varied severity and length, and the weather prognosticators state frankly they have no idea as to how and when and why weather is what it is, so far as cycles go.

However, Dr. J. B. Kincer, chief of the climate and crop weather division at the weather bureau, pointed out today that in the northwest, particularly in Minnesota, there has been a long trend toward dryness.

It is in Minnesota, the Dakotas, and Wisconsin that the present drouth has plagued the worst. Dr. Kincer pointed out that in Minnesota the average rainfall for the ten years ending in 1908 was 29.5 inches, and for the decade ending with 1933 the fall has been "just a little more than 23 inches."

Fears for Agriculture.

Conceding that this decrease was of such major proportions as to cause much apprehension as to its effect on agriculture in the immediate future, Dr. Kincer declared that the northwestern decline in precipitation, while centering in Minnesota, also covers the northern plains to the west, especially the Dakotas, and extends to the western lake region on the east.

Three severe drouths have been visited upon the northwest in the last century, the first ending in 1848, the second in 1894, and the present one, which is 10 years in progress now and has reached an intensity which impoverishes many thousands.

No data is available here as to what sufferings occurred during the previous drouths, nor will the weather bureau stand for a prediction that this one will go on to worse dimensions.

Looking for Knowledge.

For many years the weather bureau officials have been studying cycles of the elements, all in the hope of seeking to wrest from nature its precious secret which would open the way to better agricultural planning. Many signs have been investigated, such as sun spots, tree rings, earthquakes, floods, lake levels, planetary positions, solar prominences, crop yields, and the like.

"Most of these alleged cycles have attracted little or no attention," Dr. Kincer said. "But a few have attained wide publicity, possibly because they are claimed to be associated with other natural phenomena, such as the sun spot period of 11 years, or its double, the 23 year period.

"However, we do not hesitate to say very definitly that the cold facts so far developed by impartial investigations show conclusively that not one weather cycle, aside from the annual or diurnal, that has been claimed to exist, has any practical value whatever as a means of long range weather forecasting in the United States."

Science's Hands Tied.

So it cannot be foretold scientifically whether the drouth of today will go on undiminished and produce the famine of Biblical days or whether it will suddenly give way to a sufficiency of moisture.

The agricultural program of the AAA will go on, however, and the officials' only activity will be in relief of those directly afflicted. A total of 264 counties in 12 states have been designated as drouth areas for relief purposes.

In 121 of these counties, located in the Dakotas and Minnesota, cattle buying by the government will commence within a few days. These are the worst struck counties of the whole drouth area. In the remaining counties, in Kansas, Nebraska, Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Wyoming, New Mexico, Wisconsin, and Montana, the AAA has permitted farmers to sow forage crops on the acres taken out of wheat and corn production. The farmers may even sow corn, but only for fodder, and never for grain.

Church Voted $3,000 Fund for Damage in Civil War

Washington, D. C., May 29.—(AP)—The house voted tonight to settle a claim for $3,000 which St. Ludgers Catholic church of Germantown, Mo., has had against the United States since the civil war. According to the claim, the Iowa troops, and later a Missouri company, were quartered in the church and damaged the premises by shooting through the roof and walls, and also damaging the altar and benches. The bill was sent to the senate.

DOLLAR WHEAT; DISASTER GROWS IN GRAIN BELT

Rainless Weeks Turning Farms to Desert.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Pushed upward by increasingly alarming news of the drouth, wheat futures crossed the dollar mark yesterday in Minneapolis and hovered just below the dollar line on the Chicago Board of Trade. This is the first time since late last summer that dollar wheat has been a reality. May and July wheat closed above a dollar in Minneapolis.

The six cent rise in the price of wheat during the last two days, however, has been only one phase of what crop experts agree is the worst spring drouth on record. Oats, hay, and other feed crops are in worse condition than wheat and all crops are suffering from lack of moisture.

Farm Areas Are Deserts.

Wide areas in South Dakota, central North Dakota, and parts of other states have been reduced to dusty deserts with all crops dried up. In these sections farm animals are reported to be starving and much live stock is being removed to places where there is still some pasture.

Adding to the farmers' trouble the drouth in some sections has fostered the hatching of the lustiest swarms of chinch bugs and grasshoppers in years. Chinch bugs are most prevalent in Illinois, eastern Iowa, and eastern Missouri. The brood now hatching is expected to be the most harmful. It will be starting to work in about ten days. Grasshoppers are the worst in North Dakota, Montana, and sections of western Canada.

One ever present hope keeps the farmers from despair. It is that the long looked for rains will come. Rain, whenever it comes, will do some good, but as each rainless day goes by hopes drop just that much farther.

Still Hope for Corn.

The hope of the middle west lies in corn. It is the late crop, and with plenty of rain during June, July, and August the corn crop could still be a good one.

Already gone by the boards is the hay crop. Rain will help hay little now. Crop observers doubt that this crop will reach 50 million tons, compared with a normal crop of 70 million tons. And the need for hay is greater than ever because of the dried up pastures and the exceedingly poor prospects for oats and other feed crops.

This is the second year of short crops and the third year of insufficient moisture. Experts in the grain trade say prospects are that 1934 crops will be as short or shorter than last year on the whole. And, whereas last year large carryovers of almost all crops compensated for the poor production, this year there is no substantial carryover except in wheat.

Damage Beats Surveys.

So rapidly are growing things deteriorating that crop reports are out of date even before they are issued. Ten days elapse between the compilation of data for government reports and the announcement of the results. In the interim the drying up process continues so rapidly that when the figures are given out traders on the commodity exchanges are already looking at something else.

In addition to the damage done to crops whose production can be estimated with fair accuracy, drouth had caused untold damage to vegetable production.

"I don't believe people realize what has happened," said Nat C. Murray, crop expert for Clement, Curtis & Co. "This has been the severest spring drouth we've ever had. The wheat and oats country in Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, Western Minnesota, and central and eastern Montana is in very bad shape. In large areas in the Dakotas everything is completely dead. The corn crop is the farmers' hope, but under the agricultural adjustment administration program the corn acreage has been reduced 8 to 10 per cent. Good rains through the summer would help the corn crop, but much reseeding will be necessary. Oats are worse off than wheat. Ninety per cent of the oats area is still going backward."

Shortage of Rain Shown.

Mr. Murray has compiled the following figures on the number of inches of rainfall in 14 central western states from May 1 up to yesterday morning, compared with normal for the period:

	Rainfall May 1 to 29.	Normal for the Period.
Ohio	0.72	3.76
Indiana	1.14	4.01
Illinois	0.87	4.00
Michigan	1.21	3.12
Wisconsin	1.93	3.75
Minnesota	0.85	3.23
Iowa	1.02	4.58
Missouri	2.12	4.67
Oklahoma	2.09	4.80
Kansas	2.91	3.76
Nebraska	0.83	3.53
S. Dakota	0.82	3.21
N. Dakota	0.44	2.55
Montana	0.71	2.23

Failure of wheat to soar higher on the strength of the recent drouth news has been attributed to lack of speculation by the public and to the fact that wheat is a world commodity and its price in the world's markets is influenced by crop conditions throughout the world.

What the Brokers Hear.

Private wires of grain commission houses throughout the country keep buzzing with drouth news all day long. Here are quotations from some of the reports that passed over brokers' wires yesterday:

"Carl Gray, president of Union Pacific railroad, says drouth conditions in the country are without precedent."

"Detailed government report for Nebraska says: 'The spring drouth ranks with the worst in the history of the state. Rainfall for the state, January to April inclusive, averages only 47 per cent of normal. So far it appears the May rainfall will be still lower. Winter wheat has been severely injured and the spring grain is being threatened. The drouth covers a large portion of the corn belt.'"

"'The area involved in this drouth is so great that if it goes on much longer it might assume the proportions of a national calamity instead of having merely a local significance,' says a letter from a Minneapolis elevator operator to Harvey Williams of Eastman, Dillon & Co."

FARM AID PLEAS SWELL AS DROUTH DAMAGE GROWS

Mercury Soars to 108° in North Dakota.

With the mercury soaring to record heights in some areas and no abatement in the drouth, conditions of all crops and pastures in the north central states were growing more desperate yesterday. Pleas were made to federal officials to aid the farmers by expediting the purchase of feed for live stock.

A three inch rain fell at Tripp, S. D., and there were scattered showers in other parts of the state. La Crosse, Wis., and Winona, Minn., had light rains.

The highest official temperature in the north central states yesterday was recorded at Oakes, N. D., where the mercury reached 108 degrees. At Norfolk, Neb., the mercury registered a new all time high for May of 105.5 degrees. Other high readings were 104 degrees at Campbell and Hankinson, Minn.; 102 at Sioux City, Ia., and 100 at New Ulm and St. Cloud, Minn. The mercury reached 104 degrees at Des Moines, Ia., and in many parts of western Kansas it reached 100. It hovered around 95 in eastern Kansas.

Abandon Winter Wheat.

The abandonment of winter wheat in Nebraska was described yesterday by farm officials as the worst ever caused by a drouth in the history of the state. A. F. Anderson, state and federal statistician at Lincoln, Neb., said that 30 per cent of the wheat was being used for pasture because of the extreme shortage of feed for cattle.

At Topeka, Kans., the Kaw river dropped to 2.1 feet yesterday, the lowest level ever recorded in May, according to S. D. Flora, federal meteorologist.

Forest fires, abetted by the drouth and heat, cropped up in several regions.

Airplane Trip Today.

Dr. E. W. Sheets, emergency relief director; Dr. Lawrence Westbrook, assistant relief administrator, and Dr. O. E. Reed, head of the bureau of dairy industry, who arrived early yesterday in St. Paul for a study of farm conditions, planned to leave last night for a swift airplane trip through the drouth stricken area.

L. M. Mullooty of Clinton, Wis., and John Case of Naperville, Ill., directors of the Pure Milk association, asked yesterday that the farm credit administration loan the association $350,000 for the purchase of feed for cows in the Chicago milk shed. A congressional delegation from Wisconsin asked the relief administration for a direct grant for feed and seed.

LAKE WIND IN CHICAGO

A cooling lake breeze yesterday afternoon caused a drop in the mercury in Chicago. The official reading at 8 a. m. at the University of Chicago weather station was 68 degrees. The temperature rose to 86 degrees at noon, the maximum for the day, falling steadily until it was in the low 60s in the evening. Today will be fair.

C. A. Donnel, government forecaster, said that a sunshine record for May appears certain this month. The sun has shone during 85 per cent of the maximum possible time, he said, while the previous record for May in this respect was in 1895, when the sunshine averaged 83 per cent.

J. Frank Lyman, superintendent of Lincoln park, said that the police force on the beach will warn male bathers that they cannot strip to the waist.

ENDS FIGHT ON NRA; GIVES HIS EMPLOYES $6,276 AS BACK PAY

New York, May 29.—[Special.]—A repentent foe of the NRA, an upstate department store owner, "feels better" today after having sent Nathan Straus Jr., state director of the National Emergency council, a check for $6,276 to be distributed as back pay among his employés.

The merchant, whose name Mr. Straus refused to reveal, last October openly defied the NRA and threatened to liquidate if he was forced to raise salaries which he asserted he could not afford to do.

Mr. Straus declared today that the merchant finally signed the code, which puts the minimum pay at $14, after "considerable pressure" by the NRA. The check, the largest yet received, will be distributed among the several hundred employés of the store, the largest slice to any employé being $366.

The merchant, Mr. Straus said, has been paying some of his workers as low as $6 and $8 for a 48 hour week.

CAN'T BORROW ON FARM; FIND 2 DEAD IN CAR

Albany, La., May 29.—(AP)—A Tennessee farmer and his wife, locked in each other's embrace, were found dead in their car in a wooded section near here today, apparently suicide victims because "banks would not lend on the farm."

The bodies of the couple were identified from two notes as those of Mr. and Mrs. Julius N. Fischer of Pikeville, Tenn. A tube had been run inside the tightly closed machine from the exhaust pipe.

"Had a nice 1,223 acre farm and needed a loan," one of the notes stated. "The Federal Land bank in Louisville granted us a loan, but would not give us the money. Red tape and political interference. . . . We have been well to do, and it is a shame that banks full of money should not make a loan on good collateral. . . .

"We are American people. Had a good start in life till old man depression came along. Then we were persecuted till we could not longer stand up under the heavy load."

DROUTH TO BRING IOWA PLEA FOR RELEASE BY AAA

Sioux City, Ia., May 29.—(AP)—With the small grain crop almost a total loss from drouth and grave concern already being felt over the corn crop, the board of directors of the Sioux City Chamber of Commerce today decided to ask President Roosevelt and Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace to release signers of corn-hog contracts from all crop reduction obligations.

The plan would be for the government to pay the farmers what it has agreed to pay them on contracts but, in view of weather conditions, not to insist on farmers withholding land from cultivation, as there appears to be need for all the crop that can be raised on farm lands this year.

WALLACE'S CORN DOLE NETS IOWA BUT LITTLE CASH

Only 6 Per Cent Goes to Purchases.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Des Moines, Ia., May 29.—[Special.]—Corn sealing, it appeared today, made hardly a dent in helping to restore the purchasing power of Iowa farmers as Secretary of Agriculture Wallace hoped it would. The result of a poll of farmers in representative counties disclosed that only 6 per cent of the sealing dole was available to stimulate retail trade.

This was one of the first of the visionary plans approved by Mr. Wallace to hoist the farmers of his native state out of the depression. Another was the corn-hog reduction program. Neither seems to have done much good, judging from the complaints heard about the state.

Many farmers are almost desperate for forage. The drouth has so retarded the crops that live stock feed is dwindling rapidly. And yet upon thousands of farms are cribs loaded with corn which would fatten the animals for market—if only the farmer could get at it. But he can't, for it is under government seal until Aug. 1.

Tell How Money Was Spent.

How corn sealing money was spent by 51 farmers in 31 Iowa counties was revealed by results of a questionnaire sent out by the farm holiday association. Replies came in during May.

As the farmers understood corn sealing, it was touted by the Agricultural Adjustment administration with Mr. Wallace's blessings as a means of aiding purchasing power and to permit reduction of the farmer's debt.

The second cause was served, to some extent, but it left the farmer virtually nothing with which to buy groceries, make repairs and paint his home, purchase a greatly needed car or furniture, and put new clothes on the backs of his family.

But trusting the new dealers and the brain trust, of which Secretary Wallace is a leading member, the farmer put his grain under seal, took the 45 cents per bushel dole from Washington, and then sat down to figure out where the money had to go.

61 Per Cent to Mortgages.

The 51 farmers covered in the poll drew a total of $51,539.91 from the government for holding their corn. And this is where the money went:

Taxes and interest on mortgages and loans, $31,347.75, or 61 per cent.

Rents, $13,585.86, or 26 per cent.

Other debts, $3,649, or 7 per cent.

Remaining [purchasing power], $3,143.82, or 6 per cent.

Farmers who held their corn and then signed the corn-hog reduction contract believed that the government dole for the latter concession would follow soon after the sealing money was received.

But that part of the Wallace plan has also proved slow of realization, the farmers say. More than 175,000 farmers in Iowa will eventually receive $70,000,000, it is believed here, when the corn-hog machinery can check production claims and the money can be sent. This vast sum tops by eight millions the entire dole given to date to the cotton farmers in the south.

The slowness of payment and the new troubles and problems brought with the drouth are giving the farmers little peace. They have sealed their corn and cut acreage and hog production. Some bought "Wallace corn," the seed produced by the Hi-Bred company of Grimes, Ia., in which the principal individual stockholder is Mrs. Wallace.

Her husband founded the company and was its president until he joined the brain trust. The seed will increase corn production almost 20 per cent, which happens to be just the figure Wallace and the AAA set as the necessary reduction in acreage.

IMPEACHMENT ACTION AGAINST 2 JUDGES FAILS

House Inquirers, However, Ask Further Inquiry.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—[Special.]—The impeachment cases against Federal Judges James H. Wilkerson and Walter C. Lindley of Chicago, definitly blew up today as far as this session of congress is concerned,

But they faced the prospect of a new investigation during the recess, with the possibility of impeachment action next session if evidence sufficient to warant a recommendation for their removal from the bench is disclosed.

On the evidence already presented against them after a year's investigation, both judges were virtually cleared by the house judiciary committee today. But the special McKeown subcommittee, which conducted the original inquiry into Chicago receiverships, voted to demand a further opportunity to make its case against them stand up.

Committee Lacks Evidence.

Late today, the subcommittee agreed to propose a formal resolution authorizing it to go to Chicago during the recess of congress with the special purpose of gathering new evidence in the Wilkerson and Lindley cases. The proposition will be laid before the full committee at an executive session tomorrow morning, and, if approved, will be submitted to the house.

The subcommittee action followed an earlier session at which the full judiciary committee found the evidence against Judges Wilkerson and Lindley insufficient to warant impeachment action, and remanded both cases back to the McKeown subcommittee. The full committee refrained from taking a vote which probably would have cleared the two Chicago jurists, preferring to give the subcommittee an opportunity to recommend further steps before taking final action.

According to Chairman Tom McKeown [Dem., Okla.], of the investigating subcommittee, the purpose of the proposed recess inquiry is to delve more thoroughly into the "personal affairs" of Judges Wilkerson and Lindley.

Several for Vindication.

From the beginning, Mr. McKeown has insisted on the impeachment of the two judges, and it was largely his influence, it was understood, which caused the subcommittee to suggest a further investigation. Several members, it was reported, held out strongly for a vote to clear the accused jurists.

What effect today's developments in the Wilkerson and Lindley cases will have upon the pending impeachment action against Judge Charles E. Woodward could not be determined.

Representative McKeown has previously indicated that the formal resolution to impeach Judge Woodward, already voted by the judiciary committee, will not be brought into the house until a final decision has been made regarding Judge Wilkerson and Judge Lindley.

With their cases delayed until next session, however, it was considered probable that the committee will go ahead with the presentation of formal specifications against Judge Woodward.

FRENCH FLYERS TO CONTINUE ON TO WEST COAST

New York, May 29.—Special.]—Maurice Rossi and Paul Codos, the French airmen, learned today that they will continue their 6,300 mile flight from Paris to the Pacific coast as soon as their monoplane, the Joseph Le Brix, can be repaired.

They will proceed by leisurely stages to San Francisco or San Diego as good will emissaries of the French government. Departure from Floyd Bennett field will be delayed, however, until French mechanics have time to come here and overhaul the plane.

The flyers were informed of the decision of the French air ministry just before the official reception tendered to them at the city hall this afternoon. They had just inspected their ship at Floyd Bennett field and concluded that the persistent vibration which forced them down midway on their flight was caused by damaged propeller tips.

Tonight the flyers left by train for Washington, to be received at the White House and lay a wreath on the tomb of the unknown soldier in Arlington cemetery.

NEPTUNE GIVES FAIR SUBSTITUTE FOR FAN DANCES

In a Fair minus fan dancers, this year's seekers of shapely limbs may find them in 30 young swimming and diving girls, who compose the cast of "Neptune's Follies" near 24th street at A Century of Progress.

As the spectators enter this fantastic grotto, they step onto a moving platform which gently propels them into the home of Neptune. Red and white coral, hanging moss, swans, waterfalls, and a large illuminated tank are included in the scene. A pleasant mystery of the show is the disappearance of Neptune and his princess in the middle of the pool and their subsequent return.

The designer of the unusual scenic and lighting effects is Nicholas Remisoff, who came to America in 1922 with the Russian Chauve Souris show. Mr. Remisoff designed the background for Rimsky Korsakoff's ballet opera, "Coque D'Or," when it was presented in San Francisco last fall.

WIDOW GETS OUT OF DEBT CELL AS LAWYER PAYS UP

Mrs. Kristine Rasmussen, a widow, of 6155 North Maplewood avenue, was locked up in the county jail as a debtor yesterday, but was released a few hours later when her attorney paid $436.50, the amount due on a default judgment to Niels Jorgenson, 63 years old, of 4039 North Moody avenue.

As a result of the payment Jorgenson will be taken off the relief rolls, it was announced by Joseph L. Moss, head of the Cook county bureau of public welfare.

Willing to Stay in Jail.

Mrs. Rasmussen's attorney, Ralph Obenchain, paid up after his client had been placed in a cell on the fifth floor, across from the one where Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop had been held during her murder trial. The attorney was quoted as saying that he did not wish a client to suffer because of a default judgment.

"Well, if Mr. Obenchain wanted to do it, it's all right with me," Mrs. Rasmussen said as she left the jail. "I certainly wouldn't have paid one cent of it. I was willing to stay in jail."

Pays $4 for Board.

Jorgenson obtained a $500 judgment against Mrs. Rasmussen in a false arrest suit, had her arrested for failure to pay, and produced $4 to pay for her first week's board at the jail. There Mrs. Rasmussen bitterly denounced him, relating again that she caused his arrest because she thought him responsible for the loss of $2,500 in a mining stock investment.

"He was acquitted because of political pull," she said, "and then sued me. So I didn't get my money back, and on top of that I'm going to jail. I'm giving Shylock his pound of flesh."

A few hours later Attorney Obenchain notified George Hellman, chief clerk in the sheriff's office, that he had paid $436.50 to satisfy the balance of the judgment, plus court costs. A payment of $100 previously had been made.

ROOSEVELT WILL GIVE GETTYSBURG MEMORIAL TALK

Washington, D. C., May 29.—(AP)—President Roosevelt arranged to leave tomorrow for a trip up the Atlantic coast, but with congress pressing toward adjournment he changed his previous schedule to return to Washington next Monday.

The President will take with him tomorrow on his way to Gettysburg, Pa., and New York City, the data for his long planned message to congress on war debts. This probably will be submitted Friday.

After speaking tomorrow in Gettysburg at the Memorial day exercises, the night will be spent at the family home in New York City, and early Thursday the President will board the cruiser Indianapolis and sail down the harbor to review the fleet, which is coming back to New York from the Pacific.

FRENCH OCEAN FLYERS INVITED TO WORLD FAIR

A Century of Progress yesterday extended a telegraphic invitation to Capt. Maurice Rossi and Lieut. Paul Codos, the French trans-Atlantic flyers, to attend the World's Fair.

The telegram, signed by Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of the Fair, read as follows:

"A Century of Progress Exposition congratulates you on your successful flight from Paris to New York. It is hoped that you will be able to visit Chicago and, if you do, A Century of Progress extends you a most cordial invitation to the Exposition."

It had not been learned early last night if the flyers would be able to accept the invitation.

Vincent Bendix, one of the Fair's trustees, called on the flyers in New York and reinforced the telegram with a personal invitation. The French airmen expressed a lively interest in the Fair and said they hoped that they would be able to visit it.

12 AUTOS NEEDED TO CARRY G. A. R. MEN IN PARADE

Twelve more open or convertible automobiles are urgently needed for the use of Grand Army of the Republic veterans in the Memorial day parade today, it was reported last place, when he saw Weber leaning night by Thomas Beem, transportation officer for the parade committee. A plea sent out a few days ago for such cars has met with no response thus far, he said, and he asked that Chicagoans who can lend these machines have them at the Public Library building, where the G. A. R. headquarters are located, before 11 o'clock today.

DRIVERS WARNED TO BE CAUTIOUS IN HOLIDAY TRAFIC

A warning to use especial caution in driving in and around in Chicago on Memorial Day, when some 200,000 automobiles are expected to be on the highways in this area, was issued yesterday by Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club.

"If drivers will follow the rule of keeping to the right, except when passing, many accidents will be eliminated," he said. "Weaving in and out of trafic, particularly on 40 foot highways, always is serious, but at a time like this the driver who fails to heed the injunction is a menace."

MEMORIAL DAY VISITORS' RUSH AWAITED AT FAIR

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

Members of the Grand Army of the Republic will see themselves as they were in civil war days when they followed Grant and Sherman at the performances of Wings of a Century at the World's Fair, which are dedicated today to the veterans and their families.

Throughout the grounds of A Century of Progress exposition preparations were being made yesterday to handle a great holiday crowd today. It is hoped that today's attendance at the Fair will exceed that of Memorial day last year, when 101,952 paid admissions were recorded. Officials of the Fair say they are not discouraged by the light attendance on Monday and yesterday.

They realize that vacation seasons will not start until June and that the rush of attendance will probably follow the pattern of last year. Today, however, they expect another such crowd as invaded the grounds last week-end, when attendance surpassed the first two days of last year by 36 per cent.

To Honor War Heroes.

In addition to the civil war touch in Wings of a Century, the American Legion will stage a musical program this evening in honor of the G. A. R. and American heroes of all wars.

Wings of a Century, the pageant depicting America's conquest of its roadways, waterways, and skyways, from the early days of the Republic to the present age of 200-mile an hour planes and streamline trains, is under the direct management of the Fair authorities this year, as it was in 1933, when it proved one of the most dramatic and successful of the Fair's attractions.

From the crude travois of the Indians the prologue carries you through the ox-cart period of the pioneers to the actual development of machine transportation in the last century. Then you are shown the development of water-borne commerce, on the Erie canal boats, the early river steamboats, and the clipper ships which sailed from Atlantic ports to girdle the globe in the pre-civil war period.

A new scene introduced this year in the show is set on the Mississippi levee in New Orleans in the '60s, when the Father of Waters was the transportation outlet of the great agricultural area of the middle west, and New Orleans the home port of sidewheelers.

Depicts Civil War Scene.

A second new scene in the pageant depicts the struggle for unification of the nation, in which the G. A. R. veterans took part. The first part of the scene is a martial one. Across the stage files a horse drawn Union supply train, guarded by a handful of cavalrymen and a detail of infantry in blue.

The Memorial day program arranged for this evening by the American Legion will be held from 8:30 to 10 p. m. in the Court of States. The Legion's chorus of 400 voices, the Woodlawn post's band and the Mel Tierney post's drum and bugle corps will participate, along with Reinald Werrenrath, baritone; Wright Edrus Cook, tenor; Gladys Easter, soprano, and Alice O'Brien, pianist.

Five hundred disabled war veterans will be guests of the Illinois commission of the Fair at an entertainment program at the Illinois Host house.

Tomorrow is to be children's day at the Fair. Chicago public schools, as well as the county and parochial institutions, will close for the day, and the gate admission for school children will be reduced to 5 cents. A number of concessions will also lower prices for the young guests.

Italian Prince Dedicates His Country's Fair Exhibit

The Italian government dedicated its buildings and displays for the 1934 World's Fair with a luncheon yesterday in the Italian restaurant at the south end of the Avenue of Flags. The occasion was also a farewell for Prince Potenziani, Italian royal commissioner to the Exposition, who will leave for Italy today.

More than 100 persons attended the luncheon, during which the prince decorated five Chicagoans for noteworthy contributions to Italy.

The first medal was for Commander Eugene McDonald, who last year entertained Senator Guglielmo Marconi and other Italian notables on his yacht, the Mizpah. He was absent, so Mrs. McDonald was called forward. Amid applause, Prince Potenziani kissed her on both cheeks and strung the decoration, commander of the crown of Italy, about her neck.

Other Decorations Presented.

The other decorations were as follows: Alexander V. Capraro, for designing the Italian pavilion, cavalier of the crown; Charles Morgan, for decorating the buildings, cavalier; Prof. Henry Crew, for organization of the Hall of Science, cavalier, and Horatio Tocco, for legal assistance, officer of the crown.

Prince Potenziani, who is returning to Italy for a meeting of the International Agricultural congress, of which he is president, expressed his appreciation of the cooperation and cordiality shown him in Chicago. A resplendent blue uniform he was wearing, the prince said, had been worn by Gen. Italo Balbo who led the air fleet from Italy to Chicago last year and symbolized the tie between the nations.

"It was not only my mission to build a structure on the sands of Lake Michigan," said the prince, "but to sow the seed of sympathy and friendship."

Horner and Dawes Speak.

Gov. Horner complimented the prince and drew a laugh when he said that this modern Italian had crossed the water more times than Columbus but received a warmer welcome. Other speeches were given by Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Exposition, and Edward F. Dunne, United States commissioner to the Fair.

Consul General Giuseppe Castruccio acted as toastmaster and Signora Antonio Ferme, wife of the vice consul, as hostess. After the luncheon the guests inspected the wine pavilion with 600 wines on display and the Venetian glass factory where skilled artisans from Venice demonstrate their art daily.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

When plans were made for the Dutch village early this spring an ornamental dyke was to be one of the exhibits. Space was allotted and the buildings were under construction when Harbour Belcher, manager of the village, thought of adding another bit of realism to the World' Fair Holland. The opening of the village today will see a real dyke on the water front, holding back Lake Michigan.

The Grecian pavilion at A Century of Progress, official exhibit of the republic of Greece, will show World's Fair visitors another cog in the international wheel presented by the extensive collection of villages already open. The pavilion, free to the public, will be in the Hall of States, occupying the combined space utilized by the New York and Washington exhibits last year. It is to be opened later this week.

The Emporia College Vesper choir from Emporia, Kas., will be one of the featured events tomorrow night in the court of the Hall of States. E. D. Whittlesey, field secretary of the college said: "The 105 members making up the group have made the trip and the program possible at their own expense by cutting down on luxuries and dates since the first of the year."

Coronation of the queen of the west side is one of the highlights on the program for West Side day, the first of the community celebrations at A Century of Progress, to be held on Saturday. Edward F. Dunne, the new United States commissioner to A Century of Progress, will be the principal speaker on the program. Edward W. Dunne, general chairman of the West Side committees, will welcome the residents to the Exposition.

There is one spot on the Fair grounds where blondes have no appeal, unless they dye their hair black or wear a wig. The plea for brunettes comes from Serge Oukrainski, presenting interpretations of ancient ritualistic dances of the Aztec Indians at the Mexican village.

A minature gas station installed in the midget city by the Standard Oil Company is attracting wide attention. Midget attendants are in charge, while every feature of a modern gas filling station is reproduced in miniature, with midget pumps, batteries, spark plugs, tires, oil tanks, and trucks.

An outstanding display of fireworks will be set off at A Century of Progress Exposition tonight, in observance of Memorial day, according to an announcement made yesterday by Charles H. Duffield, who will be in charge of the illumination. Among the displays will be the American Legion emblem, which will cover a space of 400 square feet. The American flag, the Statue of Liberty, and emblems of the G. A. R. and Veterans of Foreign Wars will also be hung against the darkened sky in brilliant colors. Niagara falls, 400 feet in length, pin wheels and other fireworks pieces will be displayed.

Plans for an exhibit of fresh fruit at the Fair this summer to advertise the southern Illinois fruit belt were announced yesterday by Director W. W. McLaughlin of the state department of agriculture. Illinois peaches and apples will be placed on display as they ripen in late July, and pears, plums, grapes, and vegetables also will be exhibited. The state ranks third in the nation in peach production. Calhoun county produces an average annual apple crop of a million bushels.

Curt Schmidt, 37 years old, of Sautelle, Cal., started out from his home town on a bicycle last July 4 to visit A Century of Progress of 1933. Yesterday he wheeled up to the 12th street gate. Schmidt explained that when he stopped in Ottawa, Ill., last September 28 on his way to the 1933 Fair he was struck by an automobile and was confined to a hospital until last January. He worked in Ottawa until a week ago, when he started for Chicago.

The Armour building on the 16th street bridge at the World's Fair will open its doors today. Construction work on the building was completed May 26, but because parts of the exhibits were not in order officials decided to defer the formal opening.

The Chicago Surface lines will operate its new streamlined street car in regular passenger service to A Century of Progress, it was announced yesterday. The car will be routed on State street from Kinzie street to Cermak road and east on Cermak road to the 23d and 18th street entrances to the Fair.

MERRIE ENGLAND AT WORLD'S FAIR WILL OPEN TODAY

Plays to Be Presented in Globe Theater.

"Merrie England," said to have the largest number of buildings of any village at A Century of Progress, will officially open today. Yesterday, while workmen put on the finishing touches, a preview showing was held. Prominent among the attractions is a reproduction of the old Globe theater in London where Shakespearean performances will be given daily every hour on the hour, starting at 3 o'clock and every half hour in the evening, starting at 7:30 o'clock.

The Globe theater in London was erected during Shakespeare's time and many of his plays were given there. English royalty came to witness the first nights of such dramas as "A Comedy of Errors," "The Taming of the Shrew," and "A Midsummer Night's Dream." All of these will be included in the répertoire of the village company. In the village green, performances by Morris dancers, sword dancers, a bagpipe band, and the Welsh choir will be given.

Famous Inn Reproduced.

Among the reproductions of famous English inns will be the Cheshire Cheese, where such literary men as Sam Johnson and Oliver Goldsmith used to gather. A dinner is being planned to be given there for authors of Chicago. Other restaurants at "Merrie England" are the Red Lion inn with its tapestries depicting English hunting scenes, the Dog and Duck, and the Jolly Mermaid.

Notable among the buildings are Shakespeare's home, Ann Hathaway's cottage, the Old Curiosity Shop, modeled after an illustration by Boz; Sir Christopher Wren's Christ church, and the boyhood home of John Harvard, who founded the university in America. Wandering about the streets will be men and women dressed in old English village costumes. One lad will wear a model of the first uniform worn by London policemen.

No Jazz Band in Village.

"There will be no jazz band in 'Merrie England'," said Maj. O. J. F. Keatinge, manager, yesterday. "We will try, rather, to further the educational side in our exhibit. Guides will be posted to explain the history of the buildings and lectures will be given on the life of Shakespeare every morning in the old Globe theater."

There are 600 people employed in "Merrie England," according to Maj. Keatinge, who said all of them were chosen for their manners and education.

SPIKE O'DONNELL WINS BROADWAY GRIFTERS' HEARTS

He's Class and McCoy to Barflies and Touts.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 29.—[Special.]—Edward [Spike] O'Donnell of Chicago was the talk of Broadway today. He breezed into town yesterday and in a few hours had won the admiration and envy of the gamblers, touts, ticket scalpers, auctioneers, hot dog stand owners, dance hall proprietors, purveyors of bogus jewels, furs and perfumes, taxicab drivers, and plain bar flies who are the important people along the big city's main street.

As an expert witness before senatorial investigating committees on racketeering and kidnaping, Mr. O'Donnell, who asserts firmly that his gangster days are merely a dim memory, had his opinions to express and a fascinated audience to listen to them. He indicated a certain contempt for what he saw.

Mingled business and pleasure had called Mr. O'Donnell to the metropolis, it was learned. A little matter of a passport to England has engaged his attention. He has been offered a lucrative sum to make a speaking tour abroad on subjects relating to crime and had the papers to prove it.

But Officials Are Chary.

The same publicity which made him something of a celebrity in London has delayed the issuance of a passport, however. British officials have evinced a strange reluctance to admit him to their country.

While here, Mr. O'Donnell also attended the Ross-McLarnin fight and occupied a ringside seat, among other notables.

The stir created by Mr. O'Donnell's presence was gratifying to him, it was apparent. At home, he is just one of the Randolph street boys, but here he was followed by a small crowd wherever he traveled.

His attire was undoubtedly one of the reasons for the attention he received. It aroused burning jealousy in many a heart. The six feet, four inches of Mr. O'Donnell's powerful frame were clad in a neat, gray suit with a delicate check. A four carat diamond pin glittered in his crimson tie and an eight carat stone flickered on his finger. It was unquestionably Broadway's idea of class.

Snorts at White Way.

Mr. O'Donnell surveyed what is known here reverently as the great white way and snorted his derision.

"Broadway ain't what it used to be," he said. "A lot of cheap stores selling ties for a quarter. A flock of dirty billboards and electric lights. Gyp artists by the hundred and beggars and spongers."

He enlarged upon his contemplated lecture tour.

"If they let me into England, I'll give 'em the works about crime," he promised. "I'll tell 'em how we can stop crime here just as I told Senator Copeland and his committee last summer. And I may give 'em a few pointers about their own crime problems, although I guess they don't have as much trouble with criminals over there."

A seedy looking man sidled up to the speaker with a whispered proposition to sell some furs or perfume "smuggled off the boat." Mr. O'Donnell pushed him away.

Mr. O'Donnell had intended to stay a few days but his passport negotiations, it seemed, would require some time. He announced his intention of departing for home tonight.

BIG PASSENGER PLANE CRASHES IN FOG; 8 HURT

Bethel, Conn., May 30 [Wednesday].—(AP)—A 12 passenger United Air Lines plane crashed here at 1:30 o'clock [daylight time] this morning while making a forced landing. Eight persons were injured and treated at the Danbury hospital.

The plane was on its way to Newark, N. J., from Cleveland, O., and had stopped at Albany, N. Y. It was proceeding to Newark when the pilot lost his way in a fog.

The plane circled Danbury, near here, for 15 minutes, flying as low as 200 feet, seeking a landing spot.

Finally, running out of gas, it made a forced landing at a spot known as Taylor's field. The wings crumbled and the undercarriage was smashed by the impact.

Twelve persons, including the pilot, co-pilot, and stewardess, were aboard the ship. Of these George H. Gleason, H. A. Hurwitz, and M. Green, all of New York City, and Agnes Pugh of Chicago, the stewardess, were uninjured. Lorenz Letson of Chicago, co-pilot, was the only one whose condition was considered critical. He suffered a fractured left leg, lacerations and possible internal injuries. The pilot, John Wolf of Newark, was cut about the head. Those who were slightly injured were W. J. Katz, Mrs. Mary Brunning, W. Sirota, and G. Conrane, all of New York City, J. Burns of Louisville, Ky., and H. S. Holland of Rye, N. Y.

Ben M. Giroux, Former Theatrical Manager, Dies

Oakland, Cal., May 29.—(AP)—Ben Mars Giroux, 70, former Chicago theatrical manager, died here today of pneumonia. After leaving Chicago Giroux came to California. Survivors include the widow, Mrs. Claire Giroux; his son, George, a Hollywood film salesman; and a brother, Ed Giroux, New York producer.

Day-By-Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Bob Becker

Fun for Groundhogs.

May 29, 1934.

THE woodchucks along Rob Roy creek, a small stream that flows through that part of the experimental farm on the north side of the Fox river, seem to be delighted about the arrival of some new neighbors. Clarence Thurow, manager of the farm, had 117 Herefords driven across the river and placed in a pasture along Rob Roy creek, and these good looking, bellowing steers apparently have stirred up all kinds of excitement among the groundhogs. There is quite a colony of these burrowing animals around the pasture and especially in the wooded banks of the creek.

They leave their dens and forage around in order to get food. But just as soon as anybody appears you can hear their sharp whistles and then how they do scurry for the dugouts. Everything was fairly quiet in this colony until the steers were put in the pasture nearby. Now the constant moving of the cattle, and the answering bellows of the steers to the Guernsey herd on Cedar hill, a short distance away, has made Rob Roy creek a pretty lively place. I visited this creek a few days ago and it certainly was a beautiful corner of the farm late in the afternoon when the sun's rays were touching the tops of the trees with their ruddy glow. Across the creek the bobolinks were hovering above the field to pour out their songs to the "lady bobolinks" on the ground below them. Along Rob Roy the catbirds were singing with an accompaniment of rushing water, because the stream is a fast one, hurrying down to the Fox as if it had an urgent engagement to join the larger stream. And on the pasture above the creek the cattle were silhouetted against the setting sun, every animal with head down cropping the new grass in this field.

One of the tractors is all pepped up as a result of a valve grinding job which the boys just finished. Charley Sleezer did a fast job on the machine. He started on the job early in the morning, ground the valves, reseated them, got the tractor to functioning nicely and in addition did a half day's work in the fields. Louis Thurow had to buy oats today for the pigs. Some of the young sows which have litters haven't been in as good shape as they should be, so the boys have changed the diet of these animals. These sows now are being turned out in a pasture where they can get plenty of fresh water, a generous ration of ground oats, some tankage, soy bean and oil meal and minerals. The boys believe that this program will build up the sows quickly. Incidentally the pig population was increased today when one sow farrowed ten little squealers.

The tractors have been roaring across the 90 acre field on the north side of the river from morning until night in order to get this tract of land ready for the soy bean planting. This land stretches along the road for quite a distance and runs down to a beautiful stand of willows along the Fox river. Just as soon as Sleezer and Johnson had this land ready for a planting they got out the corn planter to put in some corn in another field. But a small pebble upset their schedule for a while. It became lodged in the seed plate of the planter and broke a small part of the machine. However, the boys fixed it up with only a small loss of time.

MERTENSIA: IT'S A HEADACHE TO ROAD PLANNERS

Highway Project Hits Flower Blockade.

The dictionary defines "mertensia" as a large genus of boraginaceous plants having bractless flowers with a smooth funnel-shaped corolla and fruit with nutlets obliquely attached. But that is mild compared with what mertensia means to officials of Will county's highway department. For them it spells trouble and quite a lot of that.

Sometime ago the officials got an idea of straightening out a kink in Wolf road where it joins the Lincoln highway from the north. With the straightening would go some paving, transforming a mile of dusty gravel into a stretch of smooth concrete.

Where the Trouble Lies.

The trouble is that the new road has to go through the farm of Clarence M. Cleveland and across a deep ravine where a great deal of filling and grading is necessary. And here the trouble becomes acute, for the ravine is in a 27-acre tract of woodland and happens to shelter a quantity of mertensia, that boraginaceous plant with the bractless flowers.

Reduced to simple terms, it seems, the mertensia is a wildflower of considerable attractiveness and of some rarity in these parts. It is known to many as the Virginia bluebell, having both pink and blue bells on the same stem.

So Farmer Cleveland, with the earnest support of legions of club women, has been successfully standing off the highway officials for more than a year in condemnation proceedings in the Will County court. He has even offered the county, free of charge, sufficient land for a curving road which would avoid the mertensia. The offer has not been accepted.

Protest Sent to Ickes.

Yesterday the affair took on new proportions. The Wild Flower Preservation society announced that it had sent petitions protesting the highway plan to Gov. Horner, Secretary of the Interior Ickes, and Mrs. Ickes, who is a member of the society. Similar action is being taken by the Conservation council, comprising delegates representing 65 clubs and leagues, according to Mrs. Charles Cory, president of the Wild Flower society.

"Mertensia is good for the soul and for the eyes," said Mrs. Cory, somewhat shocked that the question of its usefulness should be raised. "It is one of the most beautiful flowers of the region."

"Mertensia should be preserved for future generations, as should other flora which are disappearing in the path of urban life," said Mrs. Walter C. Lyman of Downers Grove, corresponding secretary of the society. "It's politics that's behind the move to force the road through the ravine, which is more expensive, anyway."

Glenn Fletcher, Will county's superintendent of highways, said he would like to avoid getting into the argument. As to the charge of politics, he declared that was "all bunk." The proposed straight road, for which there is a county bond issue of $40,000 may seem more expensive now, but it won't be "in the long run," Fletcher asserted.

"I like flowers, too," he said.

PROF. T. M. CAMPBELL TO SUCCEED HATFIELD AT NORTHWESTERN U.

Prof. T. Moody Campbell of Wesleyan university, Middletown, Conn., was appointed yesterday to succeed Prof. James Taft Hatfield as chairman of the department of German at Northwestern university. The appointment was made at the regular monthly meeting of the university trustees in the Palmer house.

PROF. T. MOODY CAMPBELL.

Prof. Campbell, who is regarded as one of the country's outstanding teachers of German, is a graduate of Randolph Macon college and received a doctor's degree from the University of Leipzig in 1906. He is expected to arrive in Evanston next month to take charge of his department.

Regret at the retirement of Prof. Hatfield, who has been at Northwestern for 44 years, and of Prof. George Oliver Curme, whose service extended over 38 years, was expressed yesterday by Dean Addison Hibbard of the college of liberal arts. Prof. Curme had served in the department of German with Prof. Hatfield and Dean Hibbard said the university felt their loss keenly.

BOY, 13, WINNER OF CONTEST FOR ACHIEVEMENTS

Robert McEathron, 13 years old, representing the Worth grade school, was named winner yesterday in the Cook county schools achievement contest, held in the offices of Otto F. Aken, county superintendent of schools.

As winner of the contest, in which children from nearly 180 schools participated, he will receive a prize of $25 in cash, which, he said, would be used to start him in high school next year.

Robert told the judges that gardening and managing a newspaper distributing agency had been his foremost achievements. In these two businesses, he said, he earned a total of $248.48 in the last year. A part of this was used for school expenses, and the rest went to help his father feed the six children in the family.

Five other finalists in the contest were Eleanor Nelson, 13 years old, of Arlington Heights; Roy Schroeder, 13 years old, of the Bellard Road school, Des Plaines; Harold Gouwens, 13 years old, of the South Holland school; John Pavlovic, 14 years old, of Wheeling, and Richard Cadieux, 13 years old, of 4039 South Lombard avenue, Berwyn.

7 STATES SIGN PACT FOR END OF SWEATSHOP

Northeast to Guarantee Minimum Wages.

Concord, N. H., May 29.—(AP)—Seven northeastern states, whose boundaries shelter a quarter of the nation's population, signed today the first interstate compact in the history of the country for protection of women and minors in industry.

In a solemn ceremony in the council chamber of the state house, delegates from five New England states, Pennsylvania and New York affixed their signatures to the eight page document. Then they heard Gov. John G. Winant of this state convey the congratulations of President Roosevelt.

Boards to Enforce Measure.

The compact, which must be ratified by the legislatures of the several states, contemplates minimum standards of wages for women and minors and contains a provision that "no employer shall pay a woman or a minor an unfair or oppressive wage."

State boards are to be set up with authority to investigate pay rolls and require compliance.

The compact has been under negotiation for several years. Gov. Winant, who left a sick bed to preside over the historic gathering, has been one of the leading proponents of the agreement under which it is hoped to deal the sweatshop a death blow in the industrial northeast.

Vermont Holds Out.

Connecticut, through its commissioner of labor, Joseph M. Tone, was the first state to sign the document. The others followed in alphabetical order.

Vermont, originally reported in an official statement from the governor's office to have been a party to the signed agreement, did not sign, but those present said they expected it would do so soon. Its commissioner of industries, Clarence R. White, has been in constant touch with the progress of the conference.

ARREST SCHOOL HEAD AFTER CAR HITS POLICEMAN

Lee R. Foster, 34 years old, principal of the Des Plaines Junior High school, was held in technical custody by the Des Plaines police last night after his automobile had collided with a motorcycle driven by Policeman Edwin Meyer at Lee street and Ashland avenue in the suburb. Meyer, who is 27 years old, and lives at 622 Pearson street, Des Plaines, was taken to the Des Plaines Emergency hospital with an injured knee.

Foster was allowed to go to his home at 1201 Center street, Des Plaines, but was ordered to return to the police station today.

Howard P. Savage, business manager for the Chicago school board, escaped injury yesterday at De Kalb, Ill., after the automobile he was driving collided with another car. None of the occupants of the other car was seriously injured.

There were no automobile deaths yesterday in Cook county. The county motor toll since Jan. 1 stands at 470.

Plunges to His Death from Park Lagoon Boat

Barnet J. Mintz, 50 years old, 4206 Jackson boulevard, a salesman for a wholesale paper company, was drowned last night in the Garfield park lagoon. His body was recovered early today by Policeman George Heintz of the west parks police. Mintz rented a rowboat about 9 o'clock. When in the center of the lagoon he was seen to stand up in the boat and either jump or fall into the water. His widow, Riva, told police she knew of no reason for her husband to end his life.

Report of Janet Gaynor's Betrothal Draws Denial

Hollywood, Cal., May 29.—[Special.]—Janet Gaynor's household was upset today at information she had been reported engaged to Dr. I. S. Veblin, New York dentist. The diminutive movie star issued a wrathful denial, saying she had met the doctor only once.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

AIR NOTES

American Airlines will resume flying between St. Louis, Mo., and Chicago, via Springfield, on June 1, with three daily round trips. The route was discontinued last Jan. 16, while repairs were being made to the Springfield airport and to several emergency fields. Announcement that the route will again be flown was made following favorable action by the Illinois commerce commission during the day.

Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc., yesterday claimed a transport plane speed record between Newark, N. J., airport and the municipal airport at Indianapolis, Ind. One of the new Douglas twin motored planes carried fourteen passengers over the route in three hours and twenty-one minutes at an average speed of exactly 200 miles an hour. The passengers were bound for the automobile races today.

Miss June Ray, 25 years old, 6102 Kenwood avenue, photographer's model and a member of the Chicago Girls' Flying club, will start a cross country flight to Los Angeles on Thursday or Friday. She is to fly a new Fairchild cabin plane with the 145 h. p. Warner motor, ferrying it for the factory. While in Los Angeles she will take tests for her limited commercial license at the municipal airport there where she started flying several years ago.

NEW AIR LINER, FASTEST IN THE WORLD, ARRIVES

To Go Into Service on Dallas Route.

A gleaming silver cigar with stub wings circled Chicago airport yesterday afternoon, then settled on a runway. It was the world's fastest standard type passenger and express transport airplane—the Vultee 1A, newest addition to the American Airline's fleet—arriving after its maiden voyage from Glendale, Cal., where it was built.

The ship represents the newest solution of aerodynamic, metallurgical, and internal combustion power plant problems. All metal, with a single low wing into which the landing gear retracts completely, and a 735 horse power Wright Cyclone motor, the plane has a top speed of 235 miles an hour at 5,000 feet with a 1,707 pound pay load. With 70 per cent of full power it cruises at 210 miles an hour.

Seats 8 in Cabin.

The ship has seats for eight in a quiet, roomy cabin. Provision is made for pilot and co-pilot, but as it was flown into Chicago by Bill Lester, chief test pilot for American Airlines, it has but one set of controls. Its instrument board is equipped for blind flying and the ship carries two-way short wave radio.

The new ship probably will be put in service over the Chicago-Dallas route via St. Louis, upon which American Airlines recently was awarded air mail contracts.

Several Unusual Features.

The plane has several unusual engineering features. The fuselage is constructed in two exactly duplicate halves which are riveted together. The wings are of cellular construction but the skin of metal bears part of the stress. The skin is of corrugated dural—a light but tough aluminum alloy—with the smooth surface outside. This is covered with a plating the pure aluminum to prevent corrosion. The fuselage is similarly treated.

The Vultee was designed and built by Gerald F. Vultee, chief engineer for the Airplane Development corporation which is an E. L. Cord subsidiary as is American Airlines.

BIRDS' RESCUER GETS A NIGHT'S SLEEP AT LAST

August F. Mueller, who on Sunday rescued a colony of chimney swifts trapped in the chimney of his home at 2317 North Neva avenue, yesterday mourned the loss of the last of the little birds, but it was a sorrow tinged with rejoicing. Last night Mueller was able to get the first full night's sleep he has had since the rescue.

Mueller took 62 birds in all from the chimney, of which 25 were dead. The other 37 were suffering from starvation. Eight died soon after the rescue, which was effected by lowering a rope into the chimney, to which the swifts clung. Mueller revived 29 of the birds with milk administered through an eye dropper.

"I set 21 of the 29 free Monday," said Mueller yesterday. "Of the eight remaining, five died Monday and three were dead this morning when I woke up. I'm sorry for the poor starved things but glad that I'm going to be able to get some sleep at last."

PREDICT 1C BOOST IN CHICAGO MILK PRICE BY FRIDAY

AAA Code Under Fire in Federal Court.

Coincident with the beginning of an attack in federal court here on the constitutionality of the Agricultural Adjustment act as applied to the licensing of milk dealers came the prediction yesterday that the retail price of milk in Chicago will go up one cent a quart on June 1, Friday. The present price is 8 cents a quart.

At the same time officials of the Pure Milk association, bargaining agency for dairy farmers, were in Washington conferring with AAA authorities on proposed changes in the milk license. The farmers are asking for an increase in the price paid them for milk.

Rise in Price Predicted.

The increase in retail price was predicted here following a session of milk dealers. The dealers were reported to be seeking a means of ending the costly price war with cut rate dairies which they declare has almost wrecked several large companies. Under the present price situation, dealers declared, no dairy in the city is operating at a profit.

While PMA officials were conferring with Washington authorities on ways and means of bolstering enforcement of the milk license, five independent dairies were launching a fight against the license provisions in the court of Federal Judge John P. Barnes here.

The dairies—Edgewater Dairy company, Joliet Dairy company, Josef Wagner Sr., Anton Michalek, and the Lakeside Dairy company—seek an injunction to prevent federal interference with their businesses and to declare the milk licensing feature of the AAA unconstitutional.

Wallace a Defendant.

Named as defendants in the action are Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, United States District Attorney Dwight H. Green and Market Administrator Frank C. Baker.

Attorney K. B. Czarnecki opened the independents' argument for an injunction with an attack on a cross bill filed by the government which asked for an injunction to restrain the dairies from violating AAA rules. He asserted the AAA should be strong enough to enforce its provisions without calling on the federal courts for aid.

Attorney Joseph C. Kanak, another lawyer for the plaintiff, challenged the authority of the AAA on the ground that the dairies involved are engaged only in intrastate business.

Protest Dictatorship Threat in Pending AAA Amendment

The Illinois Manufacturers' association yesterday assailed the proposed amendment to the agricultural adjustment act on the grounds that it would give Secretary of Agriculture Wallace dictatorial powers that would hinder industrial recovery. The measure, pending before the senate, would give the secretary broad licensing powers over any industry handling agricultural products or articles manufactured for farming.

The protest was voiced at a special meeting of the association at the Palmer house. A telegram opposing the legislation was sent to President Roosevelt and United States Senators James Hamilton Lewis and William H. Dieterich.

Would Destroy Confidence.

The concluding paragraph of the message follows:

"We are familiar with the terms of the Wallace amendment to the agricultural adjustment act. The effect of the passage of this bill will be to destroy the returning confidence of the industries affected because it violates all the principles of aggressive, independent action upon which the smaller industries are dependent for recovery, growth, and success. No one can conduct a business successfully under the threat of dictatorship which this bill provides. We earnestly request that you vigorously oppose this measure."

Then followed a list of 21 business organizations and associations.

In opening the meeting R. E. Wantz, president of the manufacturers' group, asserted that passage of the measure would give the secretary of agriculture a strangle hold on all manufacturers of foodstuffs and related manufactured products, would restrict sales, and would create a condition of chaos and confusion that would tremendously retard recovery.

No Jury, No Trial Provided.

David R. Clarke, general counsel for the association, stated that the bill would give the secretary of agriculture the power to license any one engaged in processing agricultural products or products competing with agriculture. The terms of the license would be whatever Wallace wanted.

"Most of us do not take the New Deal measures as seriously as we should," said Clarke. "This bill provides that if the rules and regulations and requirements that be [Wallace] wants are not enforced, the license is revoked. An injunction is obtained against you and if you persist the judges of the district court call you in—there is no jury, no trial, and no inquiry into the propriety or reasonableness, and you cannot continue in business."

Another speaker against the bill was W. F. Jensen, secretary and manager of the American Association of Creamery Butter Manufacturers.

Condemn Wagner Bill.

Later in the day the industrial representatives on the Chicago regional labor board also sent telegrams to the President and the Illinois senators severely condemning the pending Wagner labor disputes bill. The message declared that the bill was unfair to the average American working man and its passage would create greater industrial strife and more general outbursts of violence than have heretofore occurred.

The representatives pleaded that more experience in the settlement of industrial disputes under existing regulations should be secured before trying out the new national labor board, as proposed in the bill.

The industrial members of the local labor board who signed the communication were Lester Armour, Homer Bang, William McCormick Blair, Kent S. Clow, Don Compton, James D. Cunningham, T. S. Hammond, Warren Jones, and Frank L. Sulzberger.

OUTLAW UNION FILES NEW PLEA FOR INJUNCTION

Michael J. Galvin, president of the Chicago Teamsters, Chauffeurs, and Helpers' union, filed suit in the Circuit court yesterday seeking an injunction to restrain State's Attorney Courtney, Police Commissioner Allman, and Capt. Dan Gilbert of the state's attorney's police from interfering in the operation of the union, known as the "outlaw" labor organization. The bill charged that the state's attorney was trying to coerce members of the union into joining the newly organized International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen, and Helpers' union, which is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. Officials of the outlaw union last week filed an appeal with the state Supreme court from the refusal of Judge Denis Sullivan of the Superior court to grant the injunction. The bill filed in the Circuit court was assigned to Judge Hugo M. Friend.

FORMER CONVICT IS SLAIN; SEEK A REVENGE MOTIVE

A coroner's inquest yesterday failed to discover a motive for the murder of Philip Scalette, 56 years old, 4301 North St. Louis avenue, an ex-convict, who was found shot to death near 57th avenue and 38th street, Cicero, earlier in the day.

Although the coroner's jury returned a verdict of murder by persons unknown, police were working on a theory that revenge may have been the cause of the slaying. Scalette, they learned, shot and killed Vincent Divarco, 840 Milton street, during a quarrel over a card game in 1916. Scalette was sentenced to Joliet prison for 25 years. He was paroled in 1925, but was returned to prison for violation of parole in 1929. He was freed Sept. 5, 1930.

Police questioned the slain man's wife, Rose, 52 years old; his daughter, Rose; two sons, Philip Jr. and Charles, and a boarder, Joseph Roddi. None could give a motive for the slaying.

READY TO CALL TOLEDO GENERAL STRIKE MONDAY

U.S. Army May Take Over Control of City.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Toledo, O., May 29.—[Special.]—The chiefs of Toledo's 110 units of the American Federation of Labor today began tightening their lines in preparation for a general strike, which all the efforts of the department of labor and the national labor board seemingly cannot avert.

The general strike is not expected until next Monday, but a renewal of violent rioting, such as claimed two lives and caused some 200 injuries last week, may come at any time. Early this evening two squads of National Guardsmen, with full equipment, were dispatched to each of the two subsidiaries of the Electric Auto-Lite company, center of the present strike, as a precautionary measure. This was done after about 100 persons picketed one of the plants, Bingham Stamping and Tool, and booed at those coming to work and those leaving at 1 p. m.

Troops appeared and the crowd scattered. At 8 p. m. a crowd again gathered and then learned that the workers had left the plant at 6 o'clock. There was no violence.

Main Plant Still Closed.

The main Auto-Lite plant has been closed since the rioting began last Wednesday night, but the subsidiaries are operating with nonunion help in the places of the 200 United Automobile Workers out on strike.

Officials of Auto-Lite appealed in vain to Gov. George White at Columbus today for permission to reopen tomorrow under protection of the 900 militiamen stationed at the plant. After the conference it was announced that the plant would remain closed through Thursday at least.

Efforts of the federal conciliators to settle the Auto-Lite strike collapsed last night and most of their time today was devoted to conferences with the Toledo Edison company officials and heads of the Electrical Workers' union, who are scheduled to strike Thursday. No progress was made.

Taft Strives for Peace.

Mediator Charles P. Taft, representing Secretary Perkins of the labor department, met with the Auto-Lite council, an employes' organization, upon which the existing deadlock is based, and accomplished nothing. The company officials absolutely refuse to reinstate the strikers. The Auto-Lite council members, who replaced the strikers, refuse to give up their jobs. Convinced of this, Mr. Taft returned to the Commodore Perry hotel and waited for overtures.

Mr. Taft's telephone was kept busy throughout the day by calls from Secretary Perkins, Gov. White, and Adjt. Gen. Frank D. Henderson of the state militia. Their primary object is to avert, if possible, the general strike. Its announced purpose is to test section 7A of the National Recovery act.

Ready for Martial Law.

State authorities already are forming plans to establish martial law in the event of a general strike. It is believed, however, that the National Guard would be supplanted by troops of the regular army because of the interstate ramifications such a strike would have. If the electrical workers walk out they not only would close down the Toledo Edison company but its two subsidiaries, the Defiance Light and Power company at Defiance, 60 miles away, and the Lake Shore Power company, whose output extends over into Michigan. The closing of those three companies' plants would throw northwestern Ohio into darkness.

Oliver Myers, the king pin of the general strike movement, today announced a meeting of all the 110 A. F. of L. union chiefs for Thursday night. At that time they will be asked to pledge that no trade will go back until they all go back.

68 Unions Vote "Yes."

"Sixty-eight of these unions have already voted for the general strike, but voting isn't enough," Myers said. "I want contracts, one for all and all for one."

The date of the general strike, expected to be Monday, will be announced at a big labor massmeeting in Courthouse square Friday night, following a torchlight parade.

Myers, a mild mannered but stern talking man, said he didn't believe the general strike could be averted.

As business agent of the Electrical Workers' union he gave assurance that hospitals will be supplied with current for lighting and refrigeration and that the city water plants will be kept in operation when his men go out.

Says "Strike Is War."

Asked what would happen if the electric companies sought to hook up lines to bring power from other cities, he replied:

"Well, when you have a strike you have war."

The electrical workers know the location of every cable and transformer and it would be a simple matter to put the whole system out of operation.

300,000 TEXTILE WORKERS VOW TO STRIKE MONDAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—[Special.]—Already laboring to avert a general strike in the steel industry, the New Deal was confronted with the possibility of a walkout Monday of all cotton textile workers.

Speaking for 300,000 laborers, Thomas F. McMahon, president of the United Textile Workers, told Deputy Administrator H. O. King of the NRA that a general strike in all cotton mills would be ordered next week unless the NRA revises its order permitting the mills to cut their working hours 25 per cent with no increase in wages.

"If we are going to starve, we are going to starve sitting down, not standing up to a loom," one of the laborers told King. They contended the partial shutdown of the mills, which the NRA has approved, would rob the workers of all the benefits gained originally under a Blue Eagle code, thus returning the workers to depression conditions.

Adds to Steel Worries.

The ultimatum which the cotton workers handed to the New Deal added to the worries which the recovery agencies already have over a dozen serious strike situations, the most vital of which is in the steel industry. The brief time left to avert the textile strike added to the seriousness of the threat.

Another meeting with McMahon and his labor leaders will be held Friday. Pending that conference, they have agreed to hold up their strike order. If the meeting fails to produce an agreement, however, the strike plans will be rushed into completion for Monday morning.

NRA officials were still convinced tonight that the textile industry needed a reduction in its working hours to keep from being glutted with overproduction and hurled into a period of price wars. The most probable line of compromise seemed to be a wage increase which partially compensates the workers for the time they will lose.

Wagner Sees Steel Hope.

Threat of the cotton textile strike broke a few hours after Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], chairman of the national labor board, had held forth hope of stopping a general strike in the steel industry.

After conferring with leaders of the steel union today Senator Wagner said he was confident he could prevent a general strike. He plans to confer with heads of the steel companies soon and then talk with the workers again.

Today's discussions, the senator said, centered on the demands of workers at the Carnegie Steel company's Duquesne plant that they be allowed to hold an election of representatives under supervision of the government. It was such a government supervised election of worker representatives that the Weirton steel mills refused to allow.

Roosevelt Takes Hand.

While Wagner labored on the steel strike situation, President Roosevelt took up the question of revising the steel code to eliminate weakness. None of the proposed changes which are being kept secret relate materially to the steel labor situation, Donald Richberg, chief counsel of the NRA, says.

The President probably will decide tomorrow on the code of revisions. They were approved in New York today by the steel code authority and members. The old code expires Thursday night, and the revised code must be approved by that time.

RIOTING FLARES ANEW IN DOCKMEN'S STRIKE; TWO SEVERELY BEATEN

San Francisco, Cal., May 29.—(AP)—Rioting broke out anew in one sector of the Pacific coast longshoremen's strike when two officers of the Grace liner Santa Lucia were assaulted late today by a group of men at the Wilmington terminal at San Pedro, Cal.

Ernest Johanson, quartermaster, and William Willison, third electrician of the vessel, were beaten into semi-consciousness by their assailants.

The rioting followed rejection by the San Francisco strike committee of the local longshoremen's union of a shippers' peace proposal and a refusal of a compromise offer by 64 representatives of more than a dozen Pacific northwest longshoremen's locals at a meeting in Tacoma, Wash.

Johanson and Willison were rescued from further injury by fellow officers. Both suffered cuts and bruises and Johanson lost several teeth.

The San Francisco strike committee issued a statement saying "the strike has just started and will probably involve other unions which have no connection with the marine industry."

Shippers here had proposed that a committee of employers and the International Longshoremen's association would bargain and formulate rules and regulations for operation of the disputed hiring halls.

The employé representatives in Tacoma voted to instruct delegates to recommend to their respective locals that the settlement proposals be rejected.

PRESS FREEDOM VITAL, CONGRESS TOLD BY CAPPER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—[Special.]—The threat to the freedom of the press embodied in administration policies was again called to the attention of congress today by Senator Arthur Capper [Rep., Kas.].

The Kansas publisher inserted in the record the report, dealing with freedom of the press, adopted at the recent annual meeting of the American Society of Editors. And he took issue with President Roosevelt for having criticized the editors' insistence that a free press guarantee should be included in the NRA newspaper code.

"It is not only entirely proper and fitting that editors and publishers should insist upon explicitly preserving the freedom of the press in any code or similar instrument drawn up," Senator Capper said. "It is, and was at the time the code was drawn, the duty of those editors. And they should not have been criticized for protecting the freedom of press and speech."

Warning to Public.

The senator told his colleagues that the editor's report deserved the earnest attention of the country.

"All over the world," he said, "we have seen personal liberty curtailed, in some countries practically abolished, in the last few years. The first step in nearly every instance has been to muzzle the press. When freedom of the press goes, freedom of speech, freedom of assemblage, freedom of action such as is guaranteed by our constitution and the bill of rights, inevitably follow."

"At the same time, as a senator and as a publisher," Senator Capper continued, "I wish to stress that the freedom of the press is a responsibility as well as privilege, so far as editors and publishers are concerned.

"Freedom of the press makes every newspaper and every editor a trustee for the preservation of that freedom of though and expression, not for the newspapers really, but for the people of the United States.

Calls Newspapers Impartial.

"The news presented today is on a higher plane than ever before. The newspapers are doing a real job of reporting the news of these critical times impartially and honestly. They are fighting vigorously to uphold the freedom of the press, to see that both sides of every argument are presented so that the people can obtain full information and make up their minds on the merits of the question.

"It is the obvious duty of not only newspaper publishers but of the congress and of the people, to preserve at all times freedom of speech and press, and to resist the slightest encroachment upon that freedom, whether intentional or inadvertent."

CHINESE REPORT MANCHUKUO KING ILL WITH TYPHOID

PEIPING, May 29.—(AP)—Reports from Chinese sources today said Emperor Kang Teh of Manchukuo, formerly Henry Pu-Yi, was stricken ill with typhoid at his palace in Hsinking.

These Chinese dispatches said the Japanese overlords in Manchukuo had hurriedly sought medical attention for the emperor but that his highness was insisting upon an old style Chinese herb doctor despite Japanese desires for a western-trained physician.

These sources said that the emperor's will had prevailed and that the herb doctor had been called in only, however, after the Japanese had paid the Chinese physician $50,000 Mex. [$17,500 United States], and in addition guaranteed his personal safety.

PEKIN ALCOHOL PLANT TO RESUME BUSINESS AFTER TODAY'S RESPITE

Pekin, Ill., May 29.—[Special.]—More than 300 nonunion employés of the American Commercial Alcohol Distilling company's plant here, who have been prevented from going to work by union picketers, held a meeting today and announced they would try to run the picket lines Thursday.

Meanwhile 1,000 pickets have been guarding the roads to the plant and are patrolling the Illinois river in rowboats. Forty employés of the company are in the plant and are working, receiving food brought by a few company officials who are allowed past the pickets.

George Graham, business manager of the Distillery Workers' union, who declared it was a lockout, not a strike, said union employés had been dismissed and replaced by the nonunion workers, who came from the east.

OUSTS 6 AGENTS OF TREASURY FOR POLITICAL WORK

Morgenthau Suspends Philadelphia Men.

Washington, D. C., May 29.—(AP)—Charges of political activities today ousted six treasury agents in Philadelphia.

With President Roosevelt's approval, Secretary Morgenthau suspended Alvin F. Fix, Philadelphia internal revenue collector, and five employés in his office.

The appointment of Fix was accredited to Joseph F. Guffey, the Democratic nominee for senator from Pennsylvania who is opposing Senator Reed, Republican incumbent.

Secretary Morgenthau said the charges were solicitation of political funds on the premises of a federal building.

These constitute two offenses against federal criminal statutes. It is against the law for a government worker to solicit political funds, and it is a violation to seek political contributions in a federal building.

Awaits Inquiry.

Morgenthau's order was issued pending completion of an investigation by the civil service commission before which the original charges were brought that civil services employés were being assessed for political money.

One similar case is before Attorney General Cummings. Horatio J. Abbott, Democratic national committeeman for Michigan, resigned as collector of internal revenue for the state after a treasury investigation into charges political funds were solicited by employés in his office. Two of these employés, George Woods and John Tighe, were suspended by Morgenthau.

Other Charges Made.

Prompted apparently by publicity in the Detroit case, charges involving a number of other cities have been received by the treasury. Morgenthau said less than half a dozen cities are involved and that all charges will be investigated.

All six suspended officials were given a personal hearing today by Morgenthau. Besides Fix, they were: P. J. Reilly, chief of the income tax division; Henry L. Haines, chief field deputy; John J. Gegan, cashier; Robert M. Black, chief of the narcotic division and William E. Brown, assistant to the collector.

Three Youths Arrested After Slaying; Confess

Three youths were held by South Chicago police last night after they confessed the slaying of Ramon Fernandez, 36 years old, 1129 South Paulina street, during a fight early Sunday behind the Bowen High school, 2710 East 89th street. The prisoners are Henry Tonaszewski, 20 years old, 3134 East 93d street; Norman Bell, 19, of 9229 Commercial avenue, and Stanley Tonporowski, 19, of 9218 Baltimore avenue. They said the quarrel started in a saloon at 9273 South Chicago avenue.

NAZI CHIEF ASKS U. S. AID IN FIGHT AGAINST BOYCOTT

Says Move Is Not Backed by American People.

BERLIN, May 29.—(AP)—Boycotts against German products in the United States do not come from the rank and file of the people, Hans Frank, German commissar of justice, said in an address today before the American Chamber of Commerce.

"God be thanked—attempts to boycott our goods do not originate with the American people," Frank said.

"Cannot Be Subjugated."

Turning to Orme Wilson, secretary of the American embassy, Frank continued:

"Please be assured we shall support all American official endeavors to break this lunacy—for it is none other. There must be an end to the idiotic idea that a people can be subjugated economically. We cannot be forced to our knees by a boycott."

Business and travel are more secure in Germany than anywhere else on earth, the justice commissar told his American audience.

New Bans on Catholic Youth.

The police of Trier and Koenigsberg today enforced new restrictions on Catholic youth organizations.

A ban was placed on the confessional and members of Catholic youth groups were forbidden to wear uniforms, participate in athletics and issue publications for general circulation.

Issuance of the new orders follows closely the appointment of Hartmann Lauterbacher as deputy to Baldur von Schirach, reich leader of youth. He succeeds Karl Habersberg, who will devote himself exclusively to the Hitler youth foreign department.

Interior Department Gets Puerto Rico Jurisdiction

New York, May 29.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today removed jurisdiction over Puerto Rico from the war department to the interior department which already exercises jurisdiction over Hawaii, the Virgin Islands and Alaska.

GOERING RATES HIS POLICE AS THE BEST SOLDIERS IN GERMANY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 29.—"My special police are in the first line of soldiers," Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, premier of Prussia, proclaimed today when the "tradition" of the former German police force of East Africa was placed in care of the first company of Goering special police. His statement was published in the early editions of afternoon newspapers, but was later deleted.

Goering declared that Germany lost her colonies "through a stab in the back by traitorous elements." He warned other countries to "be wise and give Germany the outlet she needs. The German people need air and light. Therefore, we have always passionately raised our claim for colonial territory. We have always honorably said that Germany requires colonies else she will stifle at home. Fate will show whether the fight which formerly seemed hopeless was in vain."

MUSSOLINI PLANS TO RUN WAR WITH BUSINESS PROFITS

ROME, May 29.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini has approved a plan to take possession of Italy's complete economic system to finance and wage the next war, it was revealed in governmental circles today.

The premier regards war inevitable, it was said by well informed persons, who commented on an address Saturday in which Mussolini outlined the nation's determination to control every resource in the next conflict.

It was indicated the supreme council of defense has arranged to take over industrial, commercial, agricultural, and transport activity.

The war would be financed by profits, which would reach the estimated total of 100 billion lire, about $8,500,000,000, annually. Individuals and businesses would get only nominal pay.

During the period of war, it was explained, all conception of private property, private initiative, and private profit would be suspended in favor of state capitalism.

Despite the fact the plan would deprive them of their plants for the duration of a war, officials of the confederation of industrial leaders today sent Mussolin a telegram assuring him they would follow his directions.

HORNER DEFENDS STATE NRA ACT, IN CLUB ADDRESS

Standing near a poster emblazoned with the principles of Jeffersonian Democracy, the first of which promises individual liberty, Gov. Horner last night defended the state NRA act and reviewed the accomplishments of his administration, at a banquet of the Iroquois club in the Morrison hotel. The affair, attended by about 500 Democrats, was in celebration of the opening of the New World's Fair.

"I'm not going to try to justify the NRA," said Gov. Horner, who departed widely from his prepared address. "The NRA needs no defense. When it is criticized in newspapers and from the platform the sole reason is to smash Roosevelt."

The first of the principles adopted by the club in 1881 reads: "The largest liberty of the individual consistent with public order," and the third, "Opposition to centralization." After devoting some time to the state NRA act, the governor characterized opposition to it as "a tempest in a tea pot."

Gov. Horner urged complete support of the Fair, and pointed out that the 1893 World's Fair also was held during a Democratic administration. Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton expressed the hope that Chicagoans will realize their debt of gratitude to the Fair by constant attendance.

COURT REFUSES NRA CODE WRIT IN WEIRTON CASE

Cites New U. S. Law on Labor Disputes.

Wilmington, Del., May 29.—[Special.]—Holding that the constitutionality of the National Industrial Recovery act is open to serious question, Judge John P. Nields in the federal court here today denied the government's application for a preliminary injunction against the Weirton Steel company.

The government sought to enjoin the company from interfering with the election of employé representatives for collective bargaining. Plans for a labor board supervised election are stopped at least for the present.

What Judge Declared.

Lawyers interpreted the decision as a serious setback to the government in its efforts to enforce the provisions of the NRA.

Judge Nields in his decision wrote:

"The case illustrates perfectly the propriety of the procedure prescribed by congress and the futility of considering a motion for a preliminary injunction in cases of this kind upon experts' affidavits.

"Not only is there a conflict of material facts, but there are serious and intricate questions of law involved, particularly the question as to the constitutionality of the National Industrial Recovery act.

"Counsel in their briefs have given extensive and careful consideration to this constitutional question. Issues of the gravest importance are raised and should be determined only after final hearing."

Wants Witnesses Heard.

The judge held that an injunction in a labor dispute such as that involved in the Weirton case could be granted only after the testimony of witnesses had been heard in open court. The government's petition was supported by affidavits, the general tenor of which was that the company plan of employé representation involved interference and attempted coercion.

These affidavits the court ruled were "contradictory and conflicting."

Important questions left still unsettled by the decision include those of the company's challenge of the labor guaranty provisions of the recovery act and the government's attack upon so-called company unions.

In taking his stand for refusal of a writ without hearing witnesses, the judge followed the provisions of the Norris-La Guardia act, which forbids injunctions in labor disputes without such a hearing.

Features of Decision.

Some of the more striking passages of the decision, starting with a reference to the recent Norris-La Guardia act, were as follows:

"It is contended that the act is not applicable to a suit wherein the United States is complainant. The act deals with labor disputes. It is immaterial who the complainant may be if a labor dispute is involved and the defendant is a party thereto.

"The bill further charges that the defendant was guilty of acts of coercion and intimidation against employés when they were exercising or seeking to exercise their right of electing representatives for the purpose of collective bargaining.

Demand for Testimony.

"The defendant, therefore, was a party to a labor dispute. By reason of such acts the bill prays for relief against the defendant.

"As this is a case involving or growing out of a labor dispute, a defendant is a party to that dispute against whom relief is sought, this court is without jurisdiction to issue a temporary injunction in such case, unless the testimony of witnesses is heard in open court with opportunity for cross-examination.

"Obviously the case is controled by the rule repeatedly announced in this district and circuit that a preliminary injunction is never granted where the pleadings and affidavits disclose that the plaintiff's contention in fact and law are seriously disputed.

Refuses to Grant Writ.

"The case illustrates perfectly the propriety of the procedure prescribed by congress and the futility of considering a motion for a preliminary injunction in cases of this kind upon ex-parte affidavits. Not only is there conflict of material facts but there are serious and intricate questions of law involved, particularly the question as to the constitutionality of the National Industrial Recovery act."

Boll Weevils Come to Aid of Wallace's Experimenters

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

New Orleans, La., May 29.—[Special.]—New complexities appeared today in the cotton acreage reduction program which has the south stewing in controversy over the New Deal and the experimentations of the Agricultural Adjustment administration. From one quarter came a shriek that the cotton farmers have actually planted far more than the 25 million acres designated by the controled production program.

From another direction came word that the boll weevil is galloping to the aid of the professors. Heavy rains in Texas and Georgia were reported to have brought the pest out of its hibernation, and to have started it to work aiding the brain trust to reduce cotton production.

In the cotton marts here and in Houston many brows are furrowed over copies of a speech sent out by the press agents of the AAA at Washington. It was an address made yesterday at Oklahoma City by D. P. Trent, assistant director of commodities in the AAA.

Hears of 35 Million Acres.

In substance, Mr. Trent said he had heard reports that the total planted acreage in the south ranges from 28 to 35 million acres, although the curtailment program aimed at chopping the cotton acreage to not more than 25 million.

"Let us not kid ourselves," said Mr. Trent, adding that the south is approaching "the gravest crisis of the depression."

The language of the planned economy controversy was enriched by a new phrase or two. Mr. Trent called unrestricted planting "the crap shooting method" of cotton production.

Planters and dealers countered with remarks that the controled production experiments of the brain trusties are using thousands of field hands and share droppers in the south as "guinea pigs," and that the Bankhead act is giving cotton growing the "heebie jeebies."

NRA and AAA at Odds.

Meanwhile comment seemed to grow that the NRA and the AAA are riding in opposite directions. Where NRA with its codes has removed old anti-trust prohibitions against practices in restraint of trade, the AAA is aiming at the restraint of nature. It is involved in criticisms heard in the last ten days' tour from Cape Girardeau, Mo., to New Orleans.

In its early stages the AAA cotton program appears to have been based on the idea that area is the one big factor. The New Deal overlooked nature. The professoriat, as the farmers view it, figured that a 25 per cent cut in acreage would mean a 25 per cent drop in the cotton crop.

The plowup movement last year was on an acreage basis, and early this year some of the farmers who s[illegible]ted the fallacy right off the bat got ready to spend some of their plow under money for fertilizer to grow bigger crops on the reduced acreage, the government meanwhile to pay them rent on the cotton acreage they were to keep in idleness.

Fertilizer men reaped a big crop of orders. But many of them have been canceled. The professors got wise to the fact that nature has a vote and that yield per acre is quite as big a factor in total production as is acreage, so the Bankhead bill put a double inhibition on the grower.

First a Cut. Then a Tax.

First he had to reduce his acreage planted to cotton by not less than 35 per cent and not more than 45 per cent, the government to pay rent on land taken out of cultivation. Some land, however, grows a quarter of a bale [of 500 pounds] to the acre, while other land produces a bale or a bale and a third or higher.

In the delta land near Blytheville, Ark., 625 pounds to the acre is not considered remarkable. The average yield for the United States in 1932 was 173 pounds per acre.

So the Bankhead act aimed at a limit of 10 million bales. Each farmer is allowed to produce only so much untaxed cotton on his permitted acreage, the amount depending on how good his land had been producing during the base period 1928-1932. On anything above this set amount, the raiser has to pay a 50 per cent tax.

However, throughout the segment of the cotton belt so far traversed on this trip, opinion appeared to be general that many crop sharers will produce about as much cotton this year, unless the crop is spoiled by the boll weevil or by rain, on their reduced acreage as on their old plantings.

Labor the Sufferer.

While a cut in acreage throws a large portion of cotton labor out of employment and adds to the ranks of the jobless, the family left on the land, the theory is, by intensive cultivation of ten acres will raise as much cotton as on twelve or fifteen. Many other planters, too, who have not signed contracts, are working as many acres as last year, and some new land is said to have been thrown into cultivation in hope of higher prices.

How large the crop will be, and whether it will exceed the Bankhead 10 million limit, it is too early to conjecture. The crop reporting board issues its first report July 1 on this season's crop. Last year, after all the plowing under, nature was so bountiful that a crop of 13 million bales was produced anyhow, which was as large as that of the year before.

If the boll weevil cuts in strong in aid of the AAA, the brain trust may manage to put a crimp in mother nature. But the question also arises whether the profs may be able to keep the boll weevil itself in control as an ally if it should start on a real rampage.

Suppose the crop should be reduced by boll weevil and drought and too much rain to 8 million bales—the 1931 figure—said one cotton authority today. What then? The grower would have high prices, but little cotton to sell. It's like having high wage scales but no work under some of the NRA codes.

Two States Out in Front.

Texas and Oklahoma are somewhat in the foreground. These two states are allotted 3,840,000 bales out of the 10 million set by the Bankhead act, or 38.4 per cent. These two states in 1932 produced 42.3 per cent of the cotton crop of the United States and they planted 46 per cent of the cotton acreage, and harvested 45.7 per cent of the total acreage harvested in the United States. In these states, according to unofficial reports, considerable new acreage has been planted to cotton this year.

Meanwhile the carry over of about 10 million bales, and the possibility of excess cotton on which the 50 per cent is to be paid by the grower, is causing much conjecture as to its effect on prices.

HOUSE APPROVES PERMANENT AIR MAIL PROGRAM

Speedy Senate Sanction Is Expected.

Washington, D. C., May 29.—[Special.]—The administration's permanent air mail legislation today neared the end of a long and stormy journey through congress.

By a vote of 257 to 72, the house approved a final version of the bill that started its legislative career shortly after Postmaster General Farley abruptly canceled all air mail contracts, months ago. Senate agreement to the bill is expected without difficulty.

In general, the legislation which received house approval today represents a compromise between the widely differing measures originally passed by the house and senate—the best compromise, the house was told, that could be worked out in conference between the upper and lower bodies.

Hectic Period Near End.

Senate approval of the conference report will write finis to the hectic airmail chapter that began with the administration's arbitrary cancelation of all air mail contracts and the ill fated attempt to turn the transportation of mail by air over to the army. Echoes of the chaos which followed, in which a dozen youthful army fliers lost their lives, were evident in the legislation which went through the house today.

Rates of compensation for the transportation of air mail are fixed arbitrarily in the measure, with a maximum of 40 cents per air mile. For the first three hundred pounds of mail, under the measure, the rate of pay shall be 33 1-3 cents per mile, with additional compensation of one-tenth of the base rate for every additional 100 pounds.

Other Provisions.

A brief digest of additional provisions of the bill as it emerged from conference and passed the house follows:

Fixes a six cent air mail postage rate effective July 1; authorizes the postmaster general to award contracts for a period of not more than 1 year to lowest responsible bidder, with low bidder having right to appeal to court if held irresponsible.

Prescribes at least four transcontinental routes, to be maintained as "primary routes," with the postmaster general authorized to create "secondary" routes.

Directs I. C. C. to determine and fix fair and reasonable air mail compensation rates with limits fixed in the act; also directs I. C. C. at least once a year to review rates.

CUBANS CELEBRATE OVER ABROGATION OF PLATT AMENDMENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, May 29.—Cubans were jubilant today over the abrogation of the Platt amendment.

Steamship sirens and church bells rang out. A crowd of more than 10,000 celebrators gathered at the presidential palace as President Carlos Mendieta received American Ambassador Jefferson Caffery and Secretary of State Cosme de la Torriente.

The cabinet, in a council before the week-end, will ratify the treaty, Torriente said, in lieu of congress, which was abolished following former President Machado's downfall. A three day national holiday will be declared when the United States senate ratifies the treaty.

TREATY SIGNED WITH CUBA ENDS U. S. DEPENDENCY

Platt Amendment Out of New Pact.

ern doctrine of nonintervention. Nonintervention, of course, does not mean that our forces cannot go ashore in order to protect our nationals. What the President said was the most remarkable pronouncement concerning the relations between this country and Latin-America since the establishment of the Monroe Doctrine. It should end all jealousy and misunderstanding."

The treaty signed today is to take the place of the treaty of 1903 in which the Platt amendment was incorporated. While it wipes out the Platt amendment the new treaty continues in force the lease of Guantanamo as an American naval base.

There lapses, however, the provision under which the United States could have established other naval or coaling stations, as at Bahia Honda, a desirable bay west of Havana which was under consideration at one time.

The new treaty also perpetuates the present treaty's validation of all acts of the United States in Cuba during its military occupation of the iland up to the formation of the republic, including the rights legally acquired by virtue of those acts.

Disease Control Proviso.

Another article provides that if either the United States or Cuba at any time has reason to believe that an epidemic of disease is likely to develop in the territory of the other it will have the full right without it being considered an unfriendly act to close its ports to intercourse with the other.

The treaty was signed by Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Manuel Sterling, Cuban ambassador, in the presence of L. S. Rowe, director of the Pan-American union; Assistant Secretary of State Sumner Welles, Aurelio Portuondo, president of the Cuban Sugar Producers' association, and John Barrett, former director of the Pan-American union.

The Platt amendment represented a compromise between those who favored and those who opposed annexation of Cuba following the Spanish-American war. Its author was Senator O. H. Platt of Connecticut. It was passed by congress as a rider on an appropriation bill in 1901 and later incorporated in the Cuban constitution and in the treaty of 1903.

Terms of Amendment.

The amendment provides:

1. The government of Cuba shall not make any treaty tending to impair its independence or allow any foreign power to obtain lodgment on the iland.

2. The Cuban government shall not incur any debt, to discharge which its revenues are inadequate.

3. Cuba consents that the United States may intervene to preserve Cuban independence, maintain order, and to discharge the obligations of the treaty of Paris.

4. All acts of the United States during the military occupation and rights flowing therefrom are validated.

5. Cuba will carry out the plans for sanitation of the iland to prevent the recurrence of epidemics.

6. The title to the Isle of Pines shall be settled by treaty. [Subsequently Cuba acquired title.]

7. Cuba shall sell or lease to the United States lands for naval and coaling stations.

8. Cuba will embody these provisions in a treaty.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 29.—A leper caused a panic on a train bound from Paris to the Riviera today. His identity became known when the conductor demanded a ticket, and received the naive answer that this passenger had a right to travel free on all French trains, and did not need a ticket. This procedure is unknown in France, where beating a railway is severely punished, so the man was arrested.

It developed then that he was on his way to the big French leper center, in a medieval abbey of the Chartreuse monks on the southern slopes of the Cevennese mountains, far from all habitation.

The passenger is a French citizen from Martinique, French West Indian colony, where leprosy is frequent. He had been receiving treatment in the center of Paris, where it is little known, even to Frenchmen, that 200 lepers are treated at St. Louis hospital.

BARBARA MDIVANI FALLS ILL; LOCKS SELF IN HER SUITE

LONDON, May 29.—(AP)—Describing herself as too ill to see even her close friends, Princess Barbara Hutton Mdivani went into seclusion in her hotel suite today while rumors that she is about to separate from her husband continued to be heard.

These reports of a rift between the heiress to the Woolworth millions and Prince Alexis, youngest of the Mdivani family, were blamed by officials of the exclusive west end hotel for the illness and seclusion.

The princess was greatly perturbed, an informant at the hotel said, and to make certain that she would not be disturbed, she ordered the telephones in her suite shut off.

The nature of her illness is unknown to them, hotel officials said.

The prince went out during the morning for a game of polo, but returned later to the hotel. He also was not at home to visitors.

"The princess also was out of the hotel for a time yesterday," said one attaché.

Reports in circulation in London ranged from one that she had suffered a nervous breakdown to one that she is making preparations to return to the United States with her father, Franklin L. Hutton, who will arrive in England on the liner Bremen Friday.

Denials that there is any rift between the prince and princess were made yesterday by friends of the couple, commenting on reports that Hutton is making the trip because his daughter had told him she is unhappy with her titled husband.

1,500 STUDENTS WANT TO ENTER JUNIOR COLLEGES

More than 1,500 Chicago high school graduates have applied for admission to the three junior colleges to be opened by the board of education in the fall, William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, reported yesterday. The colleges were created by the board last March to replace Crane Junior college, closed as an economy measure, and will serve north, south and west divisions of the city.

Plans for opening the schools will be completed as soon as advance registration ends June 8, Mr. Bogan said. The enrollment at that time, expected to total 3,000, will be used as a basis for determining the curricula and size of faculties. Students enrolling are urged to indicate which school they desire to attend.

A committee of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary schools, headed by Dr. George Works of the University of Chicago is helping Supt. Bogan to prepare courses.

AN OFFICIAL CONVINCING TEST THAT SHOULD GUIDE YOUR MOTOR OIL PURCHASES

CONTEST BOARD AAA CERTIFIED TEST

AAA SANCTION NO. 3001

CONOCO

. . . New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil conclusively points the way to definite motor protection and economical consumption, under AAA certification . . . .

HERE is a statement about oil that for the first time gives you understandable and acceptable facts—and proves them. Claimed values, no matter how well known the product is, do not lubricate your motor. Only the form and structure of the oil itself can do that.

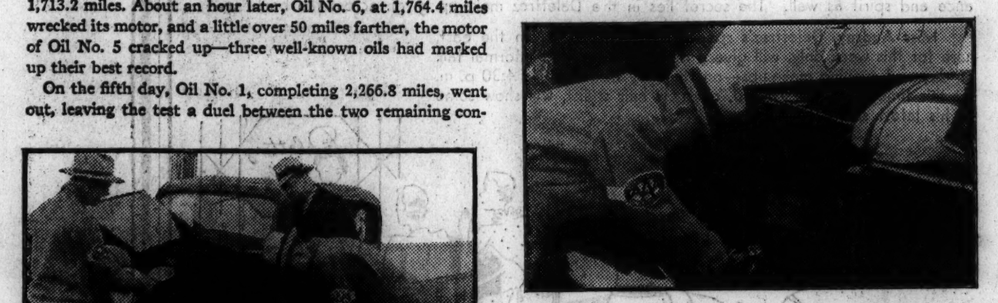
New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil has these features: Two to four times the film strength, much greater lubricating ability under crankcase dilution, increased penetrative oiliness, the "Hidden Quart that stays up in your motor and never drains away." Last, but not least, the minimum of carbon deposit and sludge formation.

Conoco engineers knew what this new oil could do—and dared to put it to test under the unbiased, official supervision of the Contest Board, American Automobile Association—500 miles a day average, 50 miles an hour speed, until the motors were wrecked. It was a trial of the rate of the consumption of oil and of motor protection. On the fourth day, Oil No. 4 dried up and the motor screamed its death cry, having gone 1,713.2 miles. About an hour later, Oil No. 6, at 1,764.4 miles wrecked its motor, and a little over 50 miles farther, the motor of Oil No. 5 cracked up—three well-known oils had marked up their best record.

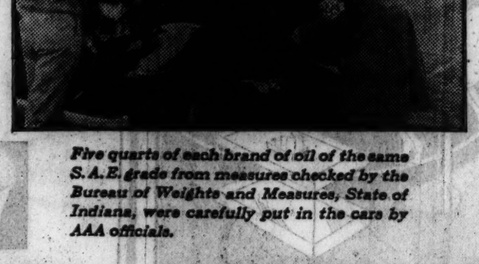
On the fifth day, Oil No. 1, completing 2,266.8 miles, went out, leaving the test a duel between the two remaining contestants. A day and another day passed. On the eighth day, Oil No. 3 ruined the motor it had safeguarded for 3,318.8 miles. The last rival, though worthy, was out.

Then a lone car, representing Oil No. 2, which was New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil, swung around and around at 50 miles an hour, day after day, until, when a connecting rod went out, it had completed nearly 5,000 miles—exactly 4,729 miles! And this on a total of just five quarts of oil—showing two and one-fifth times the average mileage of all other five oils and 42.5% or 1,410.2 miles better than its nearest and best competitor.

Surely, you need no better proof than this. Certainly, whether you drive a 1934 model or one of previous years, you are interested in this proof of remarkably low consumption and greater motor protection. Drive into any Red Triangle Station, fill with New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil. Reduce your repair bills. Get the economy in both miles and dollars from this known winner.



The official sealing of crankcases after fill of five quarts was put in. No addition of oil was permitted in this "destruction" test.



Five quarts of each brand of oil of the same S. A. E. grade from measures checked by the Bureau of Weights and Measures, State of Indiana, were carefully put in the care by AAA officials.

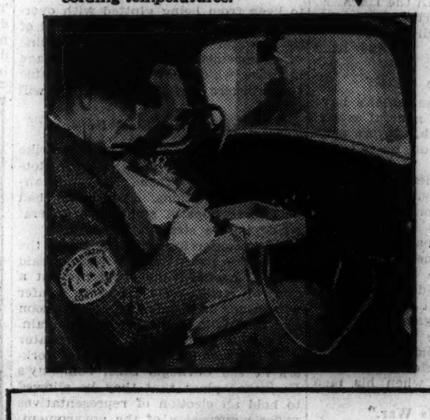
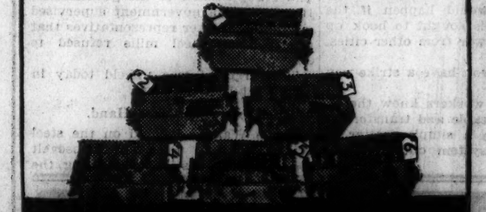
THE HIDDEN QUART STAYS UP IN YOUR MOTOR AND NEVER DRAINS AWAY



Much scientific data was secured by the AAA official in each car thru use of a POTENTIOMETER for recording temperatures.



These were new motors before the test. Close examination will show how each was wrecked when the oil it contained failed to lubricate. They were wrecked to prove to you how to protect yours.

Warning TO NEW CAR OWNERS . . .

Some car manufacturers are using new types of bearings which will stand greater pressures and temperatures, resulting from increased power and speed. New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil has been exhaustively tested on these new bearings. The results show that it gives them greater protection against damage than many straight mineral oils now on the market.

Protect your new car by using the motor oil you can be sure of.

Uproar and Strife Stir Mirth and Rage.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—[Special.]—Louisiana enemies of Senator Huey Long took off the lid and told the "crawfish senator" just what they thought of him today in one of the wildest sessions a senate committee room has ever witnessed.

"Coward" and "liar" were only a couple of the epithets hurled at the Louisiana senator as the senate committee on privileges and elections heard further arguments urging it to hold full hearings on petitions to unseat both Senator Long and his colleague and political henchman, Senator John H. Overton.

A former Louisiana governor's wife, who wept hysterically at times, and an Acadian who fumed and sputtered in broken English, were the witnesses who kept the hearing in a constant swing between laughter and apprehension.

Utters Delphic Prediction.

Mrs. Ruffin G. Pleasant, head of the Louisiana New Deal organizations, one of the petitioners, caught the immediate attention of her audience by announcing that Long would be "attended to" back home, regardless of any action by the senate.

"The senate will not have to eject Long from his seat," she shrilled. "He will be attended to by others as soon as he gets rid of his bodyguard and machine guns."

Grinning and grimacing in characteristic fashion, Long sat and listened—the first time he has attended one of the committee's sessions. Senator Overton also was present.

Then the witness swung her hearers over to the side of laughter by telling at length of an "assault" which she said was committed against her in the statehouse at Baton Rouge.

Mrs. Pleasant's Visit.

With many minor embellishments she told how she had gone to the office of Miss Alice Grosjean, supervisor of public accounts, to get some information concerning state employés. Miss Grosjean was not in, so Mrs. Pleasant came back later.

"When I arrived I heard talking in her office," Mrs. Pleasant testified. "I decided to wait. Then four men went into her office.

"Then came Senator Long with that cakewalk of his. You all know the way he walks. In a few minutes he rushed out of her room like a madman and said, 'Seize that woman.' I was then seized by Mr. Whitman. Long said, 'I can't afford to have a drunken, cursing woman in the statehouse.'

"'That is a fine thing for a drunken crook like you to say to a woman,' I told him. Then Long said, 'I challenge you to prove that statement—I dare you even to shake your finger in my face.'"

His Guest Tells Him.

"I turned to him," Mrs. Pleasant went on, "and put my finger just as close to his red clubbed nose as I could and shook it just as hard as I could."

The audience let its laughter go then, much to the witness' indignation. But the merriment subsided when Senator Long interrupted, wanting to know whether it was true that Mrs. Pleasant had once attempted to have her husband arrested in Shreveport.

White faced with anger, the woman leaped toward the hulking senator.

"That is the most contemptible falsehood that ever passed the lips of any man since time began," she cried, and once more her finger shook frenziedly under his nose. "My husband is a respected man in Louisiana, and no one but an unspeakable coward like you would make a false statement like that."

She Promises Retribution.

From anger the witness went off into hysteric tears when Long asked her whether she had not once been treated for a mental disorder. Barely able to speak, she gasped out that the insinuation was a lie. She told the committee that she had once been treated for a "general rundown condition" at Asheville, N. C., and that physicians there had pronounced her mental condition excellent.

"You'll hear from this," she sobbed in Long's direction. "I expected the worst kind of treatment from him," she went on, "but I couldn't believe he would fall so low."

She had continually to be interrupted by Chairman Walter F. George [Dem., Ga.] and other committee members, who sought to confine her testimony to the facts. She told of two witnesses whom she had asked to appear, but who had told her they were afraid to testify. One was George M. Hearne, a banker and merchant, who said he would not come voluntarily, but would if called by the committee.

"He told me he was just plain afraid," Mrs. Pleasant testified.

Unwinds Gallic Wrath.

It was an assault more serious than that recounted by Mrs. Pleasant that Joseph Beaudreaux of Lafayette told the committee about. He told how Louis Jones, said to be one of Long's bodyguards, had attacked him at Baton Rouge and fractured his skull.

Beaudreaux was confined to a hospital. Later he brought complaint against Jones and had him convicted of criminal assault. But as soon as sentence had been passed, Beaudreaux said, Jones was granted a reprieve by Gov. Allen, another of the Long machine.

"Cur dog," he yelled. "Coward—liar."

DERN AND BAKER URGE HOUSE TO INCREASE ARMY

Say Larger Force Is Badly Needed.

Washington, D. C., May 29.—[Special.]—Enactment of the Thompson bill increasing the strength of the United States army to 165,000 enlisted men and 14,063 officers was urged today by Secretary Dern and Newton D. Baker, war time secretary, before the house military affairs commitee.

Both declared emphatically that the present regular army was "inadequate," in the face of present disturbing world conditions.

The American army as now manned would not simultaneously protect our outlying possessions, train civilians, and repel "any sudden invaders," Secretary Dern insisted. He has frequently differed with his colleagues in the government on the subject of preparedness.

Seeks 35 Million a Year.

A more satisfactory army would cost the nation 35 million dollars annually, the secretary said in explaining that he had not suggested an increase to President Roosevelt because of the President's desire to balance the budget.

"With the rest of the world armed to death, I don't see how we can afford to be disarmed," Mr. Dern told the committee.

Our present army had but 118,000 men and 10,000 officers, he said.

Mr. Baker could not "imagine an army less than five times the present size of ours having the slightest effect on the military policy of any other nation."

Calls It Money Waste.

"It's a waste of public money to have an army that is anything less than adequate," he added.

Mr. Baker had advocated a standing army of more than 500,000 at the end of the last war because he and other leaders of the nation had then agreed that such wars "were characterized by a cessation and resumption of activities," with new alliances forming.

He believed now, however, that such an army was not necessary to meet the present situation. Four divisions, one in each section of the country, with another free to train civilians, would suffice, he said.

Mr. Baker urged, in the interests of modern warfare, that the "post" system be abandoned and that divisions with infantry, artillery, and chemical services be concentrated.

Armistice an Episode.

"When the last war ended, it was reasonable to suppose that another would break out," he said. "We had the thirty years' war as an example. The most able historians thought that the armistice marked the end of an episode and that a fresh grouping of nations would again attempt war.

"We thought the world would be in the league of nations with the United States outside alone, and that all other countries would work with the United States, the richest nation to come out of the war. It seemed that if we were to take the part of peace and keep out of any resumption, we would need a big army.

"Congress, in not granting my request for a larger army, was either wiser or luckier than I.

"Now I believe that we would not be drawn into any war at once. Our army should be just large enough so that we could expand it rapidly and comfortably for our own protection in case war did break out. With our natural vitality we could then arm fast enough to meet the situation."

Patricia Lee of Films Sues for a Divorce

Los Angeles, Cal., May 29.—(AP)—Suing James A. Carnal for divorce, Patricia Lee, motion picture player, testified today he refused to make a home for her and for a time she was compelled to sleep in a twin bed with his sister while Carnal occupied the other twin bed. Carnal, she said, left her and went to live with his parents and she went to New York in search of work.

U. S. ASKS WORLD PACT TO CONTROL ARMS INDUSTRY

Also Offers New Slash in American Navy.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, May 29.—A last minute effort by the United States to revive the moribund disarmament conference, and a suggestion from Maxim Litvinov, soviet Russian foreign commissar, to convert it to "a permanent peace conference" to watch over the security of nations everywhere, marked the opening session of the general commission of the parley today.

Norman H. Davis, President Roosevelt's ambassador at large, told the delegates that his country is extremely desirous of negotiating a treaty for international control and supervision of the manufacture and sale of war munitions.

"We are prepared," he said, "to coöperate in every practicable way in efforts to secure a general disarmament agreement and thus help promote the general peace and progress of the world.

Backs Nonaggression Pact.

"We are furthermore willing in connection with a general disarmament convention to negotiate a universal pact of nonaggression and to join with other nations in conferring on international problems growing out of any treaties to which we are a party."

The American delegate warned his audience, however, that the United States insists upon its right to refrain from European political negotiations and settlements "and will not make any commitment whatever to use its armed forces for the settlement of any dispute anywhere. In effect, the policy of the United States is to keep out of war, but to help in every possible way to discourage war."

Hits Munitions Profits.

"The American people are convinced," he added, "that by some means the production and trafic in engines of death and the profits resulting therefrom must be controled or eliminated. Those who have a sordid financial interest in fomenting international suspicion and discord, which in turn increases the demand for what they have to sell, must be put in a position in which they do not have the power or the incentive to do so much evil."

The presidential envoy alluded to the present American naval expansion program and by implication to the 1935 naval conference, at which the 5-5-3 ratio between the United States, Great Britain, and Japan will be up for discussion.

"Although we have felt it necessary to build up approximately to treaty limits, we are none the less willing to join the other interested powers in a substantial proportionate reducation of naval tonnage," he declared.

Davis warned Europe that it is falling in the old rut of trying to obtain security by overwhelming armaments and a system of military alliances. This, he pointed out, is the system that led to the world war debacle. Real security, he maintained, can be achieved only by disarmament, by gradually abolishing weapons suitable for invasion, such as heavy mobile artillery, tanks and bombing planes.

"The American government," he said, "earnestly and sincerely believes that only by following the path of disarmament can the peace and progress of the world and the national security of each country be truly promoted."

The British draft provided for a German army of 200,000 instead of 100,000 as under the Versailles treaty.

"If Germany desires a disarmament convention, which surely must be the case," Davis said, "then I cannot easily believe that she is not willing to resume negotiations on the basis whereon she previously agreed."

Following Davis came Litvinov with his startling proposal. Opening his speech, the commissar proceeded to encourage the current movement to inveigle Germany back into the league of nations by a series of unmistakable references to the third reich, as when he mentioned certain states "which are not yet in possession of sufficient forces to carry out the policy of aggression, and so confine themselves for the time being to verbal and printed propaganda of the idea of expansion and seizure of other people's land by the force of arms."

He went on to show the complete failure of the capitalistic world to reach any disarmament agreement because the refusal of one or two of the big powers always blocks it.

Then Comrade Litvinov tossed out his long awaited security pact bomb, but in a form nobody was expecting—a proposal to convert the disarmament conference into a sort of superleague assembly, meeting regularly and with teeth in it. An aggressor would be defined and sanctions provided for use against such aggressor.

"Graduated" Scale of Sanctions.

"A graduated scale of such sanctions may be established without pursuing it to the point of military measures not acceptable to all states," Litvinov said. "Independently of the more or less universal or European pact, there might be concluded in addition separate regional pacts for mutual assistance.

"Hitherto, a peace conference has been mostly called on the termination of a war and has had as its object the division of the spoils of war. But the conference I have in mind should sit for the prevention of war, and its terrible consequences.

"It should work out, extend and perfect measures for strengthening security. It should give timely response to warnings of impending danger of war, to SOS messages from threatened states, and it should afford the latter the timely aid within its power, whether such aid be moral, financial, or otherwise."

Litvinov wound up by denying that he is trying to create an organization which would compete with the league of nations. He said that his objective was merely to create an organism parallel to the league and with greater freedom of action—which means that the United States, if it remained a member of Litvinov's permanent peace commission, would stand a much better chance of getting embroiled in trouble than it would under the relatively platonic articles of the league of nations covenant.

Louis Barthou, French foreign minister, who was to have spoken after Litvinov, immediately decided to put off his speech until tomorrow, Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, who was also a possible speaker today, likewise is holding his fire.

The French approve of the idea of converting the disarmament conference into a security conference, but they are a little hesitant about Litvinov's new superleague, and trust that the Russians will not use this as an excuse for not joining the Wilsonian league, as it was previously agreed they would do.

SOPHOMORE SUES COLLEGE; SAYS HIS TIME WAS WASTED

New York, May 29.—[Special.]—A sophomore sued a college for $35,000 today. Said he wanted to be reimbursed because those two years on the campus were a total loss so far as he could see.

The plaintiff was Peter G. Wagner of Brooklyn. He sued Long Island university and its former dean, Dr. George R. Hardie.

"I entered the university believing that I could qualify there for a premedical education," Wagner testified.

"After two years at the university I found that even though I completed the four-year course I still would be ineligible for admission to a medical college. I wasted two years."

He said he sought out Dean Hardie before enrolling.

"He assured me that if I completed the Long Island university course," Wagner said, "I would be eligible for medical work."

Dr. Hardie took the stand. He disputed the sophomore's story.

"Yes," he said, "I did confer with Mr. Wagner when he entered the university as a student in 1927. But I told him he couldn't qualify as a premedic unless he made up certain regent's credits which he lacked.

Dr. Hardie advised Wagner to continue his studies at the university and make up the credits in his spare time.

"But he violated the rules. He quit as a student without the sanction of the university," Dr. Hardie said. "After he quit he tried to reënter to finish his course. He did not do so and that was the last I heard of him until this suit was filed."

"Newspapers are the sentinels of the liberties of our country."—Benjamin Bush.

BACK TO FUNDAMENTALS.

Upon the decision in the Minnesota moratorium case there was undoubtedly a greater agreement in the court of public opinion than in the distinguished tribunal at Washington. If the latter was divided five to four, the former might have been estimated at a higher ratio. Now that the Supreme court has unanimously, under the benign judicial process known as distinguishing, reverted to its traditional regard for the obligation of contract, it is evident that it is keeping step with a change that has taken place likewise in public opinion.

The doctrine that emergency could be profitably pleaded to relieve the individual of the pains of imprudent commitment opened a vista which, however smiling it seemed to a great number of embarrassed individuals, presented an ultimate situation looking very much like the end of civilized relations. No doubt there are acute emergencies in the affairs of men and nations which compel a relaxation or suspension of pledges upon the faith of which orderly relations are founded. But if obligations can be canceled whenever they become sufficiently disagreeable to a formidable number of the community to turn the scale of political expediency there is no likelihood that the obligation of contract can be restored to any dependable authority, and the whole structure of our normal civilized relations must be fatally weakened. This would involve a common disaster to debtor and creditor alike. One of the conditions most essential to the nation's recovery is a greater realization of this truth.

The return of the Supreme court to the emphasis upon the obligation of contract, which has been throughout its history probably its most vital contribution to the maintenance of civilized order, is a very greatly needed aid to the underlying forces which are struggling to assert themselves for national revival.

The Minnesota act was a warning of the extent to which the emergency plea could be abused to cover resort to repudiation and the blessing of the Supreme court or of a bare majority of it placed upon that ominous experiment was certain to encourage attempts at even less plausible extensions. The Arkansas act left no doubt as to the demoralizing possibilities of the doctring of emergency and it is to be hoped its invalidation by a full bench of our highest court will bring our law and policy in this respect back to terra firma.

ADMIRAL TOGO.

Twenty-nine years ago on May 27 the 38 ships of the Russian fleet which had been assembled in European waters entered the Straits of Tsushima. Admiral Togo had been awaiting them. When night fell 20 of the Russian vessels had been sunk and five had been captured. The only Russian naval vessels of consequence to escape were four cruisers.

Admiral Togo was almost unique among the commanders of our generation in that there never was a moment's doubt about who deserved the credit for his victories. It was he who came to the correct conclusion about the course which the Russians would follow. It was he who maintained the morale of his officers and men in the long months of waiting while the Russians slowly approached Japanese waters. It was he who trained his fleet in battle maneuvers, and it was he who led the fleet when the battle took place. If ever a commanding officer was entitled to credit for a victory, Admiral Togo was that man.

Admiral Togo's success in the Straits of Tsushima followed his victory in the battle of the Yellow sea, some 25 miles off Port Arthur, the previous August. Here, too, the victory was peculiarly his.

The war of 1914-1918 produced no such naval victories and no such outstanding personalities. The naval historians are still far from agreed in naming the victor at Jutland or even in attributing such success as was achieved by the British to Admiral Jellicoe. Though our naval victories in the Spanish war were as decisive as those of Togo, there has always been controversy between the partisans of Sampson and Schley over the credit for Santiago. Dewey's victory at Manila was as complete as any of Togo's, but Dewey never had the opportunity to prove that he could repeat it. Togo's career bears a striking resemblance to Farragut's. Like Farragut, Togo was both the architect and builder of his victories. There are few such names in the history of warfare.

THE ZEPHYR.

The dash of the Burlington's streamlined, Diesel powered train from Denver to Chicago, a distance of one thousand and fifteen miles, at an average speed of seventy-seven and five-tenths miles per hour, or a total elapsed time of thirteen hours and five minutes, brings to mind the promise of overnight service between New York and Chicago. The distance via both the Pennsylvania and the New York Central railroads is substantially less than the Denver-Chicago mileage, and it seems entirely within reason that trains of this type could leave Chicago and New York as late as nine oclock in the evening to arrive at destinations before business hours the following day.

With aeroplanes offering hourly service in both directions, Chicago-New York railway lines must immediately consider the advisability of establishing more frequent and faster service and this new type of equipment is proving itself capable of the assignment.

AN AMBASSADOR ESCAPES A BULLET.

Jefferson Caffery, American ambassador to Cuba, escaped gunfire Sunday in Havana. For several days there had been rumors of a conspiracy to assassinate him. It was revealed by the Havana police. It proved to be good forecasting. Soldiers were on guard at the ambassador's home where the shots were fired. One was wounded. Caffery was made ambassador to Cuba as a good will offering to the iland, and nothing that he has done is known to have made any one mad. The apparent purpose of the attempt to kill him was to make trouble for the present Cuban government with the United States.

Among the several opinions regarding the blowing up of the Maine was one that Cuban insurgents had done it to provoke the war which did follow. Cuban partisans who do not like the present government may try the effect of outrages against Americans to make the government lose face in Washington. The United States has adopted the policy of speaking soft and low. The big stick is on the upper shelf and a frown from any other American country is regarded as a deserved reproach.

The altruism is well meant, but it may not work. Human nature seems to have its domain south of the American borders to deny that the smaller fellows are always good and the big fellow is always bad.

CENSORSHIP OF PUBLIC KNOWLEDGE.

Impressed by the fact that five conspicuous attempts have been made within the last year to set up some form of censorship over press reports, Senator Schall has introduced in the senate a resolution for the creation of a special committee of five senators to keep watch upon this new tendency in government, to hold public hearings if desirable, and to investigate efforts by officials to prevent access to information which the public has a right to receive, to determine if any advertiser has been threatened with prosecution because of any advertisment in any publication criticizing censorship, to ascertain if the telegraph code of NRA may be used to censor dispatches, and to lay before the public any official acts or proceedings tending to censorship.

Senator Schall has observed in his own state, Minnesota, an attempt to suppress publicity through a law devised by individuals in office who could not face investigation, and naturally he is determined that the avenues of public information regarding the federal government shall not be surreptitiously closed. Nothing has been more significant of a disposition in Washington to rule without popular restraint than the various attempts he cites to control or prevent publicity and dissent.

Another member of the senate, Senator Joseph Bailey of North Carolina, who is a Democrat and a supporter of the administration, has joined Senator Schall with a notable warning against the censorship tendencies of the present régime. He resents especially the bullying tactics of the National Recovery administration. "Let the NRA go on," he said last week on the floor of the senate. "Let us be helpful toward it; but even more let the freedom of the American man be preserved. And that means that he may stand at any place and assert and seek to maintain his cause. . . . If we permit him, in the exercise of his right, to be subjected to denunciation and wrath and vituperation, it will be but a short step to the inquisition, the rack, and the wheel."

Incredible as such an extremity must seem to us all, the American public must realize that its liberties can and will be lost eventually if the gradual encroachments which piecemeal seem unimportant are complacently accepted. Eternal vigilance we have been told is the price of liberty, and Senator Schall and Senator Bailey are doing a memorable service to their country in calling attention to the spirit of suppression shown in administration quarters since the New Deal was launched.

The Other Side

[Omaha World-Herald.]

Some of the arguments with which Senator Reed won his renomination in Pennsylvania are of importance outside of his own state. Our western farmers, in particular, cannot afford to ignore their implications. We quote from the Washington correspondence of the Kansas City Star:

"Among the Pennsylvania farmers Reed pointed to the large AAA crop control subsidies paid to Kansas, Iowa, and Texas in comparison to what they had received. He told his home state voters Kansas wheat farmers received 16 millions in cash benefits while Pennsylvania farmers received 143 thousand dollars; that Texas farmers had received 43 millions in the cotton reduction program, the Pennsylvania farmers nothing. He also pointed to the large government loans to the Iowa corn farmers."

The meaning of this is plain. The relief that has been provided by government to tide the agriculture of the central states, the west and the south over their period of sharp distress should be discontinued. It is costing Pennsylvania too much money. It is costing New Jersey and Delaware and New York and New England too much money. If the school of political philosophy and the particular interests that Senator Reed so ably represents again gain control of government these aids to agriculture gasping for breath of life will end.

But the aids to the mammoth industrialism of Pennsylvania will not end. At the same time that Senator Reed condemns the helping hand reached out to agriculture he demands it for Pennsylvania manufacturers. He is bitterly opposed to authorizing the President to lower industrial tarifs in order to provide markets for our farm surpluses. He insists that the tarif rates must be kept prohibitively high to insure high prices for what Pennsylvania produces and Nebraska buys.

In other words, he insists that the policy which did more than anything else to wreck our national prosperity must be continued. The farmers must sell at low prices while buying at high prices. The manufacturers must be enabled to sell at high prices and their employés to buy foodstuffs at low prices so they can subsist on low wages.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. W. M.

"BUT WHAT I CAN'T UNDERSTAND," said the friend of the Man on Top of the Bus, "is why the decision on the New Deal in Minnesota was upheld by the United States as constitutional and the Arkansas attitude on the New Deal was turned down as unconstitutional." "I've had a lot of people explain to me," replied the Man on Top of the Bus, "that it was because the Minnesota decision was handed down by the Supreme court on Thursday and the Arkansas decision was made on Monday." "But hain't the constitution the same on Monday," demanded the friend, "as it is on Thursday?" "I hain't a-going to argue the matter," said the Man on Top of the Bus. "You asked me and I told you, and if you can think up a better reason hop to it." And he arose and got off at the next corner.

EX-PATRIOT.

Once again—
The taxicabs, the crowds, the towers.
Why am I returned, O Manhattan?
I have a memory of the swell of many waters,
The towns like leprechauns—the north of moors and shadows,
Why am I returned, O city?
Remembering the heather and the scarlet flowers and her sweet face—
Now as so many times before.
O city, I know you not at all,
Who know you all too well.
Why am I returned,
O Manhattan?

EMBARGO BANS SALE of Guns to Bolivia and Paraguay."—Headline. But Dillinger and the rest of the gun boys? When we have to stop on a lonesome corner at night because of a red light don't get excited if Bolivia and Paraguay climb on the running board and say that this is a holdup. They won't have any guns. But if it's Mr. Dillinger or other lads of that kind just pass over your coin and make it snappy. But Bolivia and Paraguay—give 'em a kick in the pants and step on the accelerator.

A CANADIAN WOMAN gives birth to five babies. Tut, tut! Overproduction and how! NRA wouldn't allow that to happen in the United States. And rightly so; suppose every woman was permitted to give birth to five children at a time. Great Jumping Jupiter! Now don't you see why it's a good idea to have a brain trust down in Washington that plans everything out? Yessir! We don't allow things like that in this country.

SCIENCE now announces somewhat ponderously: "There is no such thing as empty space." Is that so? What about the capitol down there at Washington since NRA? And wait until the scientists get fifteen miles from a filling station and find that they've used up the last drop of gasoline. And what about the top part of the head of the weave-in-and-out auto drivers? No such thing as empty space? Oh, isn't there?

WITHOUT ADO.

When some strange man prepares me for my grave
And talks of foolish things to his young knave

Who stands close by to hand him this or that
And sighs because the woman had grown fat,

May he complete his duties swift enough,
And let me rest without the frilly stuff

That he might think all women love to wear—
And may he die if he should crimp my hair.

I hope that I may slip beneath the sod
And not be so bedecked when I meet God.

RUSSIA has had to raise the price of bread because there seems to be a dry spell over there, too. But under the careful and comprehensive plans drawn up by the soviet government one wouldn't believe that a dry spell would be allowed in Russia. Sometimes one wonders whether there are not certain natural phenomena that will insist on occurring no matter what laws, rules and regulations man may make. But you've got to hand it to man; he doesn't get ahead of old Lady Nature very much, but he keeps right on trying. He's never upset natural laws yet, but that doesn't make him give up beating the express train to the crossing or trying to pass a plugged Canadian dime.

A RICH LADY who bought a prince not long ago is said to be worried that she is going to lose him. And with cause, for the prince gets fifty thousand dollars whether he remains the lady's husband or not. That's bad. If he were to get only a regular weekly salary that continued so long as he was employed as a husband but ended if he quit the job or got fired then probably things would go along better. And again they might not. This marriage thing is a good deal of a gamble any way you play it.

HOW TO GROW WOOL.

OUR efforts to prevent premature baldness are pitiful, not only because they are so ineffective but because they show what a lot of saps we are. The hair program of a man is generally settled when he is born and nothing he may later do will materially alter it. We inherit our hair. Children have curly or straight hair, fine or coarse, black or brown, as determined by laws of inheritance. Furthermore, we inherit our baldness program. When we are born it is settled just about when the hair will begin to fall out faster than it is renewed, and just about what will be the patterns of our bald spots.

According to inheritance laws, baldness is a sex-linked characteristic. The law applies to men, but not to women. However, the daughter of a man whose baldness was of a certain pattern and appeared at a certain age is liable to bear sons who will have a hair pattern that follows the type of the grandfather.

Babies vary with respect to the amount of hair with which they come into the world. From the standpoint of the baby the hair at birth is not a matter of great consequence, since it soon wears away and is often replaced by a new head cast of a different pattern as to color, curliness, and other qualities.

In later life the details of the hair program may be somewhat modified by the care given the scalp, or the lack of it. The experience of Negroes in removing kinks has shown that much washing, greasing, and brushing suffices not only to change the shape of the hair shaft and prevent close curling, but also greatly improves the nutrition and the quality of the hair. Infection of the scalp by animal and vegetable parasites is an accident which has some effect on the hair program. So are certain scalp diseases that are not due to infections.

The application of hair tonics is useless and wasteful except as they lead indirectly to better scalp hygiene through more cleaning and brushing. The use of hair foods in ordinary ointment form is silly. The possibilities of absorption by the skin are too small for any help from that source.

Generally speaking, it is true that it is decreed when we are born just about when we will become bald, how much, and according to what pattern. But there are some physiologic discoveries that may change this opinion. They come from comparative anatomy, physiology, and biology. In the main they relate to sheep.

The wool of sheep, as does all hair, contains a large amount of sulphur. This must be obtained through the food. The sulphur must be in organic combination. When a man takes sulphur and molasses in the spring the first of these ingredients passes through the body unabsorbed. In fact, it may act as somewhat of a laxative. If sulphur were put in a sheep pasture the sheep would not care for it, and if they did their systems would not absorb it.

The best source of sulphur in the food is the albumins, and these vary considerably in their content of sulphur. The part of the combination called albumin in which there is most sulphur is the amino acid called cystin. So great is the demand for cystin and sulphur on the part of sheep when the wool is growing rapidly that their usual foods do not contain enough of it and certain disorders may result. For instance, corn is poor in cystin and, therefore, in sulphur. Sheep fed a very heavy corn ration may grow fast, fatten, and make mutton, but they will not produce satisfactory wool. If to the ration of corn poor in cystin there be added blood albumin rich in this ingredient, and foods rich in iodine and in tyrosin [another amino acid], wool grows satisfactorily. Some wool growers know the value of certain foods if they would produce wool as well as mutton profitably. There is something here for those who want to have better hair.

Folklore says if a prospective mother has heartburn she may expect a baby with plenty of hair at birth. If there is any basis for this idea it may be the prospective mother is sulphur hungry.

LEAKAGE OF HEART.

V. D. B. writes:

1. What is leakage of the heart?
2. What can I do to overcome it?
3. I am a boxer. Is it dangerous to keep on boxing?

REPLY.

1. Leakage caused by a defective valve. Among other names for it are chronic endocarditis and mitral regurgitation. When persons speak of heart disease they generally refer to some form of leakage.
2. That depends on what valve is leaking, the condition of your heart muscle, how much compensation there is.
3. It may be. Or, exercise and work may be just what you need. Boxing is not the best profession for a person with an organic heart disease. Follow the advice of your physician.

MORTGAGE.

Chicago, May 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1 [a]. My father has taken over my $3,000 mortgage and I am to pay him a small sum each month for fifteen years, when it expires. My father made an agreement that in the event of his death prior to the last payment the agreement will be canceled and the mortgage considered paid. My brothers claim that after my father's death I will have to share the $2,000 with them and my mother. The agreement is made with a gift clause. [b] Has my dad the right to give me the $2,000? It is his own money. 2. Can my mother claim said money in the event of his death? 3. Can my brothers claim a share, and if so what could they do? 4. Would I get a share if they could claim? 5. My father made a will previous to this, leaving my mother all of his personal and real estate property. Would this money be included? J. J.

1. [a] It is not clear whether you mean that he is becoming the debtor or the creditor.

[b] In general he can make a valid gift of anything that belongs to him, provided he has sufficient mental capacity and is not subjected to undue influence.

2. See 1.
3. See 1.
4. If the gift is set aside, presumably you would share as an heir.
5. In general the will would stand unless undue influence or lack of testamentary capacity could be proved.

JOINT TENANCY.

Chicago, May 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am a widow with three children, aged 26, 23, and 17, all unmarried. I own four parcels of real estate. 1. Could I legally hold a title in joint tenancy with all three children in order to avoid probate proceedings in case of my demise? 2. If legal, would you consider this a practical thing to do, or would it be better to leave title as it now stands? I held these properties in joint tenancy with my husband, who passed on four years ago. M. M. R.

1. Yes.
2. It would mean that each of the children would own an undivided interest in the property now. You could not sell unless they all joined in the deed, and since the youngest child is a minor his interest could not be conveyed without court proceedings until he becomes of age. On the whole, we would say that the disadvantages outweigh the advantages at present.

PERSONAL PROPERTY TAX.

Lockport, Ill., May 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. What percentage, if any, is the assessed value of personal property for tax levying purposes? 2. What is the penalty for refusing to sign when a person thinks the assessor is overvaluing property? M. A. N.

1. The assessed value is supposed to be 87 per cent of the actual value.
2. The assessor is authorized to proceed on estimate and add a 50 per cent penalty.

FUR COAT INSURANCE.

Chicago, May 10.—[Friend of the Insured.]—In placing my fur coat in storage for the summer I was given a storage check which states that the coat is covered by insurance against fire and theft. Do you consider the insurance provided by the storage company as reliable as that provided under my personal fur policy? If so, am I entitled to a credit under my policy? B. O.

A furrier's customer's policy, if written in a reliable company usually furnishes practically the same protection as that furnished in the individual fur policy. A credit of 25 per cent in premium is allowed for the inclusion of a waranty in your policy to the effect that the furs covered in the policy will be placed in storage between June 1 and Aug. 31 with a caretaker who gives a storage receipt stating that the furs are insured while in storage against fire and theft.

INSURANCE FOR SIGN.

Chicago, May 6.—[Friend of the Insured.]—I am anxious to get insurance to cover my new Neon sign, also the expensive lettering on my store window. What kind of insurance should I get? Would plate glass insurance cover the lettering? G. F. H.

Neon signs are insurable under what is termed an all risk form, meaning that the property is insured against all risks of loss or damage, with the exception of such exclusions as loss or damage resulting from riot, strikes, civil commotion, or electrical disturbance within the sign; wear and tear and natural depreciation are not covered. Plate glass insurance would not cover the lettering on your window unless specifically included in the policy by endorsement. Under no circumstances are losses due to scratching or defacing of the glass or lettering covered.

INSURANCE BENEFICIARY.

Chicago, May 7.—[Friend of the Insured.]—In applying for life insurance can I name whomsoever I please as beneficiary? Can I change the beneficiary later on if I desire? W. M. S.

The beneficiary named must have a proper insurable interest in the applicant's life, either through relationship or business connection, and the insurance company usually insists that such relationship be stated. The beneficiary can be changed at any time by applying to the company, providing, however, that you have not named the beneficiary as irrevocable. If you have named the beneficiary irrevocably, then the beneficiary must join in the request for the change.

LAW IN THE COMIC STRIPS.

Chicago, May 26.—Your cartoonists are certainly in need of expert legal collaboration, for it is only the ignorant or uninformed who would continue to put such sterling men as Warbucks and Bim Gump through the torment, uncertainty, and tolls of legal red tape such as they are now being subjected to. How men who were able to amass huge fortunes would submit themselves to the hands of incompetent ignoramuses purporting to be attorneys is illogical. Further, I doubt whether there is any judge sitting who would assume the tactics that the judge in the Warbucks case has assumed.

Somebody certainly ought to advise Warbucks' lawyer to move for a change of venue on the grounds of prejudice of the presiding judge and community. Further, I can't conceive of any possible charge for which Warbucks could be indicted. In Bim Gump's case Bim's lawyer is more interested in his hundred thousand dollar fee than he is in the welfare of his client, for if he were interested in his client's welfare he would advise Bim that only such property that Bim has which is within the jurisdiction of the court would be subject to attachment, providing dear Millie could prove some grounds for the attachment, and inasmuch as all of Bim's property is located in Australia why should he be made to worry so?

In justice to the legal profession and its high standard of ethics you should take steps to remedy this injury you are doing by having Bim and Warbucks engage competent counsel and send their present counsel back to school.

MAURCY M. BALL.

I.

Chicago, May 26.—Since a machine for setting type has been adopted the life of the "big I" has been increased many fold, for the letters are distributed automatically and may be used again and again. Under hand composition a natural prejudice grew up against any one who told a story in the first person. This was on account of the difficulty of keeping enough "I's" in the upper case to equal the demand. It was well known that more thinking was required to construct sentences without the "big I," but in those days, as now, some persons were opposed to work. Now that the linotype has come to the rescue of writers the "I's" are smeared all over the pages, three and four often appearing in one line.

If a printer ran short of cap I's it was the custom to sing loudly, "Who's got cap I's to give out?" Providing his standing was good, he was supplied graciously. In case that he was not up to the standard a great silence prevailed and the unfortunate one was compelled to importune some tender hearted individual to relieve his distress.

FOR A PERMANENT FAIR.

Chicago, May 25.—Now that we have a "Keep Chicago Ahead association," how about a "Make the World's Fair Permanent association"? These two associations working together could make Chicago the greatest summer resort and show place on earth. The Illinois State Host building and the Federal building, maintained by state and government funds, could both be eliminated and we would still have the greatest fair in the history of the world.

ANDREW BOGSTAD.

SEE AMENDMENT I.

South Bend, Ind., May 23.—I do not believe that it is proper for THE TRIBUNE or any newspaper to criticize the treatment Norman Thomas received from the Taylorville officials. I was amazed to read in your editorial that Norman Thomas was entitled to freedom of speech. Many people are beginning to realize that men like Norman Thomas abuse our freedom of speech and use it to promote un-Americanism. Freedom of speech was not given to us to destroy our government, and it is possible the founders of this nation never realized this nation would be inhabited by Norman Thomas and his kind. He is a Socialist and Socialism is not Americanism.

THE TRIBUNE has never before published such a shocking statement in a complimentary manner as the one in today's editorial that Norman Thomas has devoted his life to Socialism. If he had devoted his life to Americanism he would be worthy of praise and space on THE TRIBUNE'S editorial page. Socialism is very little different from communism, and Norman Thomas and his followers would quickly forget their aversion to violence if the opportunity arose and would benefit them.

True Americans are willing to plod along until a natural improvement in conditions comes again, and we do not approve of men who use a worldwide depression as an excuse to destroy the patriotism of people who are discouraged.

When the day comes that a newspaper like THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE will criticize the Taylorville officials and offer freedom of speech for approving of malcontents and traitors, then our government and our greatness are lost.

ALICIA EVANS.

THE OVERWORKED BUROCRATS.

Peace Dale, R. I., May 24.—Announcement that our secretary of labor has, along with our secretary of agriculture, joined the fraternity of New Deal scribblers recalls that some short time ago Walter Lippmann, seeking extenuation for those responsible for what he termed "an economy of bedlam," brought forward the plea that they were terribly overworked. Let any doubting Thomas but scan Book News and magazine tables of contents and he must admit that Mr. Lippmann was right.

Whether our public servants are earning this extra pin money in government time or in their leisure time, the fact remains that they cannot serve two such exacting masters as literature and statecraft and do justice to both, which may account for the "economy of bedlam."

Even though it were possible for them to spend their leisure time in such exacting forms of recreation as writing articles and books and still bring unjaded minds to the stupendous government problems, are we supposed to adopt their routine when the new leisure becomes universal? If so, and if every one employs his leisure trying to earn extra pin money, will we not need a new alphabet to designate the agencies necessary to check the exploitation of leisure?

To employ one's leisure in competition with underpaid workers is, doubtless, but a new brand of ethics. Certainly it bears the New Deal stamp of approval. Yet, should it not be done under the auspices of some bird?

WOTTA LIFE! WOTTA LIFE!

TO MEN tired of Furnace Worries!

STARTLING TRIAL OFFER. Gas heat installed at our expense, removed at our expense, if you don't like it

IF you're tired of hauling ashes, cleaning up furnace muss, if you're fed up with paying bills for cleaning walls, curtains and furnishings that have been covered with soot, dirt and grime, here's a valuable suggestion: Get the facts on low cost gas heat!

More than twenty thousand home owners in the Chicagoland area who rebelled against furnace worries are now enjoying the unequalled comforts and conveniences of gas heat. It will pay you to investigate thoroughly the possibility of automatic gas heat in your home. Put an end to drudgery and furnace muss. You can do it without investing a cent for equipment.

We make this startling offer because we have confidence in the performance of gas heat. We are sure that you will never return to old heating methods once you've known the convenience and happiness gas heat will bring to your home. Investigate low cost gas heating now. The cost of gas for heating is now one-half of what it was during the 1930-31 heating season.

Our Trial Proposition

To prove that every home can now afford to heat with gas, we'll install it in your present furnace or boiler at our expense. You can try it one month, two months, a year. If within the first year you find you don't like gas heat, we'll remove it at our expense and replace your former heating equipment in good workmanlike order. While you are trying gas heat, you pay only $3 a month rental on the equipment in the average home, for the nine heating months. When you decide to keep gas heat, the rental you have paid applies on the purchase price of the equipment. The rental charge is included with the bill for the gas you use.

Accept this offer now—before you order fuel. There's no fire building with gas heat. It's automatic, and a little thermostat on the wall keeps the temperature exactly as you want it.

Try It Now

We'll gladly give you the facts on heating your home with gas, together with an estimate on the cost. Call your nearest gas office today.

Gas Service Chosen for Its Convenience

So convenient and cheap is gas service that it has come to be considered a necessity in every Chicago home. Few Chicagoans, in fact, can remember when they didn't have gas to make living more comfortable.

This acceptance of a convenience as a necessity may obscure the fact that the use of gas service is a matter entirely up to the individual customer. Gas service is chosen voluntarily, not thrust upon anyone. It is chosen because it is the ideal way to cook, to heat water, to run a refrigerator, or to keep the home warm.

The extent to which gas service is used is also a matter of choice with the individual customer. In spite of the fact that the company is obligated to serve every customer with all the gas he wants, any time, there is no corresponding obligation on the customer's part to use any stated amount.

Whether or not to use gas service is entirely a matter for a customer to decide. Close to 800,000 individual customers, representing nearly every Chicago home, use gas for its convenience and economy.

CHICAGO ESCAPES LABOR TROUBLES; PARLEYS NOW ON

Transit Men's Contract Expires Tomorrow.

Although important groups of union workers in Chicago and the metropolitan area are negotiating with their employers for new wage scales, the city thus far has escaped large strikes and threats of disorder. This is contrasted with the experiences of Toledo and Minneapolis and other cities where labor disputes have caused violence.

The 12,000 members of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway, and Motor Coach Employés of America who are employed by the surface lines have a contract with the company which expires tomorrow and a series of conferences has already been held with company officials on the terms.

Now Get 70 Cents an Hour.

At present trainmen employed by the surface lines receive 70 cents an hour, except those working on one man cars and feeder buses, whose rate is 78 cents. The contract committee of the union has requested 80 cents an hour for regular trainmen (motormen and conductors) and 95 cents for the one man operators.

These demands are for the rate of pay current in 1920, when the fare was 8 cents. Further meetings of the union representatives with Guy A. Richardson, president of the surface lines, are to be held in an effort to reach an agreement.

The contract of the elevated lines with the same union also runs out tomorrow, but negotiations for a new scale have not been started, it was said yesterday. Motormen on the lines receive 71.1 cents an hour, guards 64.8 cents and conductors 66.6 cents.

A strong effort is being made by the Amalgamated union to gain control of the workers for the Chicago Motor Coach company. The company has refused to recognize the union, asserting that its company union is the chosen representative of the 940 workers.

Builders Are Negotiating.

Peaceful negotiations between the building trades unions and the employers are in progress. No unusual demands, it is said, have been made. The present rates for bricklayers, plasterers, and lathers are $1.50 an hour; for glaziers, $1.70; for painters, $1.33 1-3; for plumbers, $1.37½; for electricians, $1.50; for carpenters, $1.31¼, and for structural ironworkers, $1.35.

The Amalgamated Iron, Tin, and Steel Workers' union has presented to the Inland Steel company a series of demands.

DISMANTLE TIME BOMB BROUGHT TO PLANT OFFICE

A time clock bomb which was carried into the office of the Container Corporation of America at 900 North Ogden avenue by a former employé last Monday was dismantled by Lieut. John Treacy and Sergt. Joseph Wrobleski of the bomb squad yesterday. A 10 ounce bottle of liquid believed to be nitroglycerin and two pipes filled with black powder were turned over to Dr. Clarence Muehlberger, coroner's chemist, for examination. Edward Sobon, 22 years old, 1529 Fry street, who was arrested in possession of the bomb, persisted yesterday in telling police he had found the device on the loading platform of the plant. He is being held on open charges.

LIGHT RATE CUT TO BE ORDERED WITHIN 3 MOS.

Hearing Is Delayed by Commerce Board.

The Illinois commerce commission will order the Commonwealth Edison company to reduce its electrical rates to Chicago consumers within the next three months, it was indicated yesterday by Benjamin F. Lindheimer, chairman of the commission, after a brief hearing on the case. The next hearing was delayed until June 27 at the request of the Edison company attorneys in order to give them time needed to assemble data requested by the commission.

The terms of the expected rate revision order, Mr. Lindheimer said, will depend on studies by the commission's engineers of the financial structure of the company. He added that the commission and the utility company are seeking to avoid any expensive and extended litigation. An expeditious and inexpensive disposition of the case has been requested by Gov. Horner, it was asserted.

Company to Defend Rates.

It was learned, however, that the Edison company is preparing to defend the fairness and reasonableness of the existing rates. Experts are being employed to analyze the investments and values of the company's properties. Among these is Prof. Albert S. Richey of Worcester Technological institute, Worcester, Mass.

"We believe we can enter a proper rate revision ruling in about 90 days," said Mr. Lindheimer. "We should be able to enter a temporary order in that time, and possibly a permanent one if sufficient information is gathered."

Cost of Litigation.

Chairman Lindheimer said it would cost the Edison company from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 and the commerce commission $750,000 if litigation followed the revision. Litigation, he said, would cause a delay of two years before the rate payers got the benefits of it.

Irvin Rooks, attorney for the commission, said a downward revision of the rates would be found justified in an adjustment of the operating expense items of the company.

The commission's experts, Attorney Rooks said, are delving into the contracts and expense items of the Edison company and its affiliates.

The commerce commission yesterday ordered the Central Illinois Light and Power company to reduce its natural gas rates in Springfield by approximately 11 per cent. The order takes effect on June 11. It will save the domestic consumers of Springfield $45,000, it was asserted.

TOWNS DELINQUENT ON WATER BILLS TO BE SUED BY CHICAGO

Judgments will be asked against eight Cook county towns which have not paid for water furnished them by Chicago, and their water supply will be shut off unless current obligations are paid as they become due. Delinquencies amount to approximately $600,000.

Such action was recommended yesterday in an opinion rendered by Corporation Counsel Sexton in reply to a request of Commissioner of Public Works Hewitt. Commissioner Hewitt, who asked if the city has authority to cut off the water supply of villages to force collection of bills, said last night that he will follow the corporation counsel's suggestion. The opinion suggested this method as less drastic than immediate shutting off.

The city "undoubtedly" has the right to discontinue furnishing water to "these recalcitrant and delinquent municipalities," the opinion said, and should be able to recover judgments for unpaid balances. Judgments draw 5 per cent interest. The corporation counsel said his office stands ready to institute legal proceedings to obtain judgments and to fight any injunction proceedings.

According to Mr. Hewitt's figures, Cicero owes $269,331.47 and Harvey's bill amounts to more than $200,000. Other debts include Elmwood Park, $41,434.49; Summit, $23,557.55; Stickney, $22,350.57; River Forest, $13,445.95; Burnham, $4,794.94, and Calumet Park, $3,693.51.

APPEAL COURT DENIES FREEDOM PLEA BY CAPONE

New Orleans, La., May 29.—[Special.]—Al Capone, Chicago gang chieftain of prohibition days, suffered another setback today in his legal battle to obtain his freedom from the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga. The United States Circuit Court of Appeals here denied his appeal for release on a writ of habeas corpus.

SCHOOLS SEEK COURT O. K. ON BONDS FOR U. S.

Board Orders a Test Suit Against City.

The board of education in a special meeting yesterday ordered its legal department to institute mandamus proceedings in the Illinois Supreme court against Robert B. Upham, city controler, to require him to sign $28,000,000 of bonds which the board will issue as security for the federal loan to pay teachers and school employés all back salaries.

The action is to be a friendly test suit in order to establish the legality of the bonds.

A bill authorizing the Reconstruction Finance corporation to lend up to $75,000,000 to distressed school districts has been passed by the house in Washington and is now before a conference committe of the senate and house. In case the bill is approved by the senate Chicago school authorities wish to be in a position to ask a $28,000,000 RFC loan as quickly as possible, and for this reason the mandamus action in the state Supreme court is planned.

Frank S. Righeimer, special attorney for the school board, said he would petition the Supreme court for a writ of mandamus as soon as the court's June term opens next Tuesday. The board's action in authorizing the mandamus action was taken after James B. McCahey, president, had received a statement from City Controler Upham declaring that he would not initial the bond issue until its validity is determined.

Board officials were hopeful that the court would approve their plan to issue $28,000,000 of bonds against $30,156,000 of school properties not used for educational purposes.

Meanwhile they continued their drive toward another two weeks' pay for teachers and reported a total of $1,300,000 in the school treasury, $500,000 short of the $1,820,000 needed. Officials hope to sell enough tax warants to raise the $500,000. The pay will be for the first two weeks of November, 1933.

FEAR OF INSANITY MAKES GIRL BURN HERSELF TO DEATH

Sacramento, Cal., May 29.—(AP)—Fear she was losing her mind caused Virginia Johnson, 22 year old daughter of State Treasurer Charles G. Johnson, to burn herself to death, District Attorney Neil McAllister said today. He quoted Mrs. Claire Fitzgerald, Virginia's sister, as convinced the girl had committed suicide. The autopsy showed an old scar on the skull, indicating a brain injury of several years ago.

Mrs. Fitzgerald told McAllister of seizing a half written suicide note from her younger sister's hand shortly before Virginia disappeared from her home yesterday.

Mrs. Fitzgerald threw the note away "so members of the family would not see it."

From the garbage can, McAllister recovered a note that read:

"I would like to live for your sake Claire, but there's?"

The district attorney also quoted Mrs. Fitzgerald as saying "Virginia told me yesterday she heard sounds of angels' clapping their hands in her head."

The scorched body of the pretty college girl was found late last night in a private garage near her home.

DRUGGIST ENDS 6 MONTHS' WOPRY OVER CAN OF TNT

For six months Elconon Pillin, 45 years old, a druggist who has a store in the flat building in which he lives at 2059 West North avenue, worried about a half pound metal can which he kept on a shelf in the rear of his pharmacy. Yesterday he called in West North avenue police and turned it over to them, confiding that it was full of trinitrotouline, better known as TNT. He said a customer had asked him to keep it. Police said there was enough of the explosive to raze the building had it been set off.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Walter D. Robertson, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; James DeLaurentaus, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Walter P. Steffen.

Abe Benjamin, conspiracy, sentenced to 1 year in the bridewell and fined $1,000 by Judge Grover C. Niemeyer.

Frank Currin and George Patris, conspiracy, sentenced to 1 to 5 years each in the penitentiary; Mrs. Sophie Svirsky, conspiracy, sentenced to 1 year in the bridewell and fined $1,000 by Judge Francis Allegretti.

Abraham Benjamin, 36 years old, was fined $1,000 and sentenced to serve a year in the Bridewell yesterday after a jury in the court of Judge Grover C. Niemeyer heard testimony showing him to be the operator of a window insurance racket in which plate glass windows of milk stores were broken last March. Police at the time of the vandalism believed it was caused by a milk price war.

The window smashings were used by Benjamin as a "super sales argument" to induce the milk store operators to buy insurance, according to the testimony of two co-defendants. They are William Rawson, 24 years old, and George Smith, 20 years old, who actually threw the rocks through the windows. They will appear June 8 for sentencing on their pleas of guilty before Judge Niemeyer.

Most of the victims supposed their windows had been broken by business rivals, the state witnesses testified. They were hired at the rate of $1 for each pane of glass smashed.

FOOCHOW, China, May 29.—(AP)—Henry Clay Foster, New York sportsman and editor, and his wife arrived today from the mountains of western Fukien province, where they sought in vain to photograph or shoot the rare Fukien blue tiger. They are proceeding to Indo-China in search of "the yellow terror," as tigers of those tropical jungles are called.

WOMAN AND TWO MEN CONVICTED OF BOMB PLOTS

Two men and a woman were found guilty of conspiracy to bomb restaurants and taverns by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Francis B. Allegretti last night and were immediately sentenced. The jury deliberated five and a half hours.

Those found guilty are George Patris, 37 years old, 4521 North Troy street, former secretary of the Restaurateurs of Illinois; Frank Currin, 32 years old, 1812 Jefferson street, alleged to be one of the actual bombers, and Mrs. Sophie Svirsky, 45 years old, owner of a taven at 665 West 18th street.

Judge Allegretti overruled motions for a new trial and arrest of judgment and sentenced Patris and Currin, who were found guilty on felony counts, to one to five years in the penitentiary. Mrs. Svirsky, who was found guilty on a misdemeanor count, was sentenced to the maximum of one year in the Bridewell and fined $1,000.

Bonds for the men and Mrs. Svirsky were raised from $10,000 to $20,000 each pending their appeal. They were unable to post the bonds and were taken into custody immediately.

Mrs. Svirsky became hysterical after the verdict was brought in and cried for her daughter, Virginia, 6 years old, who had been in court during the trial.

A fourth defendant, John Poulos, 42 years old, restaurant owner at 3224 Southport avenue, accused of being the "contact man" in the bomb plots, was acquitted by the jury. William Walter, 42 years old, alleged to have thrown bombs with Currin, pleaded guilty several days ago, but was no sentenced last night.

Mrs. Svirsky, Patris, and Poulos were accused of hiring Currin and Walters to bomb restaurants and taverns which were offering competition to their own places of business. A state witness testified that Patris had told him if a bomb were placed in a competing restaurant "it would probably solve the difficulty." Harry Fitzel, 27 years old, a drug clerk, admitted manufacturing the bombs used in the plot and pleaded guilty at the beginning of the case.

BEG YOUR PARDON

The name of Mrs. Helen Mabel Drueck, who died Monday in the Chicago Memorial hospital, was incorrectly spelled Drueck yesterday. Mrs. Drueck was the wife of Dr. Charles J. Drueck, staf physician at the hospital.

The address of John Cozzi, bandit who was slain last week in the South Holland bank robbery was given as 1106 West Taylor street. He is no relation to the family of James Cozzi of the same address. The latter declared that the slain man lived in a building in the rear of 1106 Taylor street but moved away a year and a half ago.

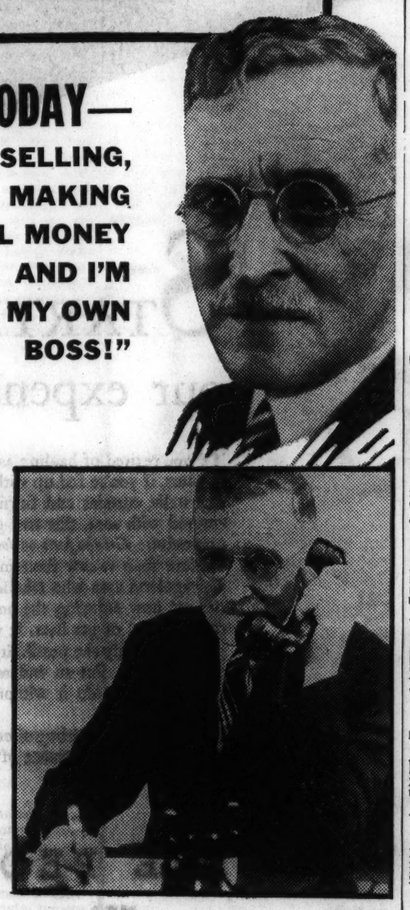
TODAY—
I'M SELLING, MAKING REAL MONEY AND I'M MY OWN BOSS!"



"Three months ago I was a failure. Sure. I blamed it on the depression for putting the jinx on my old line. I kept waiting for things to come back. But hoping didn't buy any groceries. One day I was in a delicatessen. A fellow came in selling some kind of a gadget and right while I was waiting for my bundle he made a sale to the proprietor. On my way home I got to thinking. That night I made a decision. The very next day I was selling. The first couple of days were tough, but after I got the swing of it I began to succeed. Now I don't care if my old line never comes back. Today I'm making real money and I'm my own boss selling."

Country Clubs and Fair Call Society Today

BY JUDITH CASS.

SOCIETY is torn between two desires today, to visit the Fair and to enjoy the holiday in the country. That colorful fairyland between 12th and 39th streets on the lake shore probably will attract those suburban ones who live out of the city the year round and the country clubs are almost certain to draw out of the city the urban residents who plant their flower and vegetable seeds in window boxes.

Up until a few years ago every country club used to have its formal openings on Memorial day with the men playing golf all day while their wives sat on the verandas and rested for the dinner dance which the golfers always were too tired to enjoy, but those days are past in most clubs.

Nowadays most country clubs concentrate on golf events for the men with perhaps bridge teas for the ladies, and after dinner there is nothing to keep tired golfers from going home to bed fairly early.

This program isn't always so popular with the wives and sweethearts, but it seems to please the men immensely.

The Glenview Golf club and the Midlothian Country club are among those that are having dinner dances tonight, however, although both are having special golf events for men all day. Glenview's new swimming pool isn't ready, but it will be very soon. Some of those who will have guests at tonight's festivities at that attractive north shore club are the Eugene A. Howards, the Frank R. Elliotts, Mr. and Mrs. James S. Kemper, the Carleton Blunts, the Frederick L. McNallys, the Donald Millers, and Miss Helen Johnson. The Midlothian club is having a bridge party this afternoon for the "golf widows."

Another Bridge Party at Indian Hill Club.

The Indian Hill Country club also is providing a bridge party to entertain the ladies today following a buffet luncheon and preceding a buffet supper. The men will play 36 holes of golf and there will be tennis events for the youngsters. The first dance of the season will be held Saturday night of this week.

The Exmoor Country club, the Knollwood club, and the Barrington Hills club are among others that will have their opening dinner dances on Saturday. Ladies' golf at Exmoor started on Tuesday of last week; Mrs. Charles Willard is chairman of the women's golf committee.

At the Knollwood club the pool is ready to be used today, and so are the tennis courts and the bridle paths. The women's golf season opens Friday with Mrs. George Brown and Mrs. Richard Fleming as co-chairmen of the committee. Mrs. W. E. Macfarlane is general chairman of women's activities at the club and also superintended the refurnishing of the club this year. Mrs. William B. Freer is tennis chairman and Mrs. Russell T. Stern is chairman of the activities at the pool.

An approaching and putting contest has been arranged for women at the Barrington Hills club and, of course, the men will be on the course all day. The tennis courts and the pool at this club won't be ready for use for another week.

The Shoreacres Golf club never has anything very special planned for holidays, either in the way of sports or social events, but it is a favorite club with socialites, just the same. The Sunday buffet luncheons started on May 1 and every week the charming little clubhouse is filled with gay luncheon parties. This club has a beautiful beach, but seldom do the members take advantage of it, for most of them live near the lake on the north shore.

Annual Tourney at Onwentsia.

The Onwentsia club has been open for three weeks, but it won't have its opening dinner dance until June 7, when it will start those Thursday buffet dinner dances that have been so popular since they were inaugurated several years ago. The pool is open and so are the tennis courts, and already the young people are using them daily. The annual match for the George Alexander McKinlock Jr. memorial cup will be played today.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

The sun does its share in making Chicago one of the world's finest summer resorts, but little of the sun, as any sensitive skinned woman can tell you, goes a long way.

Smart Chicagoennes who are sun sufferers will go to the Fair and to the beaches well armed with protectives of one kind and another. They may choose from the offerings of the downtown shops a trim little kit of white glazed pique, in which are tucked a bottle of sunburn cream, product of a famous beauty house that claims to filter out the burning rays, and a jar of rich cream which serves as a soothing, softening emollient particularly beneficial to sunburned, dry and sensitive skins.

The sunburn cream is a great help; occasionally a woman whose skin is paper thin will find that it smarts for the first few minutes following application, but for the rest of womenkind it is a summer boon from heaven.

Something a bit more jaunty in the way of kits is made of cork, shaped like a sporty binocular case, with a cord attached which enables the owner to sling it over the shoulder for convenience. Fitted into it, in addition to the sunburn cream and the cream for sensitive skin, are a can of talcum powder and a lipstick. The lid is fitted with a good sized mirror.

And in both the out of doors girl will find ample room for the ever necessary comb, compact, cigarets and dark glasses. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Young Rider in Horse Show Today

Gloria Walters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Walters, is only ten years old but she rides a full size saddle horse and is entered in two classes, the three gaited and five gaited horses, in the horse show to be held this afternoon on the grounds of the Chicago Trotting club. The show and a program of trotting races will mark the opening of the grounds at River road and North avenue in Melrose Park of the new club which is reviving trotting in Chicago. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Fastidiousness Requires Using Facial Tissues

Guests Especially Should Observe the Rule.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Ouch, but you ought to have heard that week-end hostess berate the departed guests! "She used my guest towels to wipe off the cream, the ill bred this and that," she repeated over and over. "With a box of cleaning tissue right there in the drawer! What did she think the cleansing tissue was for? Decoration?" And so on.

So, don't forget to slip into your overnight bag a supply of cleansing tissue. It en strain the friendship when a guest chooses to use one of the towels hanging in the bathroom to wipe off the cream. The hostess hears from the lady of the washtub how hard that cream is to get out. Besides, it isn't being done to use anything but these clean tissues for face wiping, whether you are a guest or not a guest. They come often of texture that is nicer for face use than is a linen towel, and at such comparatively low cost that every one should have a supply on hand always. But there is still another point in which we see great complexion improvement, and it is never to allow a soiled rag, cloth, puff, or towel to touch the face. Even for the first washoff, when the layer of dirt is deep, let a clean remover be your ironbound rule. There is simply no telling how much facial blemish and worry is due to slapping germ-laden, soiled cloth cream removers onto the face and rubbing it in the way one does when removing a cream.

It's funny that women can be careless on this hygienic point when they are almost fanatic on the subject of cleansing the face with creams. And certain of them wouldn't dare expose the grimy old washcloth they've been using as a cream remover. They'd be ashamed.

The majority of women, however, must be converts to the newer, more hygienic way of removing cleansing cream, or there wouldn't be the terrific sale of these cleansing tissues reported. But the propaganda could be still more widespread.

Another little sanitary item that might be scolded about, so long as we are on the rampage today, is failure to rinse the soap off clean after hand washings. One sees this neglect in the most unexpected places. And one wonders how any one could take up the soiled bar for a second use. These may seem like little things to be crabbing about, but it is avoidance of all causes of blemished skin conditions that saves the skin.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

SAVELY SORIN, the Russian painter who was last in town in 1923, when an exhibit of his portraits was held at the Arts club, has arrived in Chicago, and yesterday afternoon Mrs. William H. Mitchell, the latest of a long list of distinguished subjects to sit for him, gave a cocktail party for him at the Casino club. Guests found a short, heavy-set, keen-eyed man of middle age, rather blunt of manner.

Painter—Cellar-book.

Many tales are told of the slowness with which Sorin paints. Mrs. Mitchell sat for him some seventy-two hours in New York recently, but the portrait is incomplete and he has come to Chicago to finish it. Among those whose portraits he has painted are the duchess of York, Anna Pavlowa, Chaliapin, Mrs. Otto H. Kahn, Mrs. Harry H. Rogers, Prince Serge Obolensky, also his princess, Marcella, daughter of the marchioness of Curzon, Michal Tokin, and innumerable Delaware Du Ponts. Mrs. Harold E. Talbott of New York was a recent sitter.

IN 1906 J. Pierpont Morgan collected, under the tutelage of Mr. Sherry, an important cellar of wine, and it was so notable a collection that he had its contents recorded in a cellar-book. Only a few of these are extant, and one is that which Mr. Morgan gave to a Dr. George C. Williamson. Writing in the first issue of a new English gastronomical quarterly that deals exclusively with wine and food, Dr. Williamson discusses the wines Mr. Morgan was advised to lay down in his cellar.

There is an astounding list of clarets and Madeiras, those being Mr. Morgan's favorites. There are some 3,000 bottles of champagne and 1,000 bottles of the rarest cognac in the world. Château d' Yquem of various vintages was the favored sauterne. The wines of Germany were not well represented, but there was a priceless bin of Steinberg Cabinet, 1862, as well as a superlative Johannisburg and a specially selected Liebfraumilch. There were only about 400 bottles of Burgundy, the rarest being a Romanee Conti, 1865, and a Clos de Vougeot, 1870. There were only about 800 bottles of sherry (which we personally think was a shame) and no port of real interest.

AS to Madeira, the oldest in demijohns was an 1830, but the finest is recorded as having been an 1837 "Imperial" Madeira, imported in 1837 and recorked in 1876. The oldest of all wines in bottles were of the 1774 and 1795 vintages. Of the pre-phylloxera clarets (meaning before the phylloxera bug pest started) there is Château Margaux, Château Latour and Château Lafite running from 1864 to 1878 and post-phylloxera clarets from 1881 to 1888.

As to the cognac, the bins 1824 and 1842 had Mr. Morgan's initials upon every cork and bottle, and to open one of these bottles for a friend was the finest compliment their owner could pay him, we learn. There were a hundred bottles of cognac, dated 1795, and nearly 300 bottles of a brandy from the Tuileries, which had been bottled for Louis Philippe, with "L. P." stamped in a "button" on the shoulder of the bottle.

* *

WE offer also part of the Englishman's final paragraph. "How did Mr. Morgan's cellar fare during the troubled days of prohibition has often exercised my mind upon reading accounts of gangsters' and racketeers' exploits," he concludes. . . . Well, that was one thing most of us didn't have on our minds much, but we would like to know, just out of curiosity, how many bottles are left of that collection laid down in 1906.

Thomas Mann, Nobel Prize Winner for Literature, Visits U. S.

New York, May 29.—[Special.]—Thomas Mann, German author and winner of the Nobel prize for literature in 1929, arrived today with Mrs. Mann on the liner Volendam. Mr. Mann will remain in this country about ten days and on June 6 he will be a guest at a dinner in the Plaza hotel.

Mr. Man, who has been living in Zurich, said he had not been expelled from Germany. He was outside of Germany when Hitler came into power and had not returned to have his passport renewed. The temporary permit issued by the American consul at Zurich stated it had been granted because of "political reasons."

The author will consult with his publishers here on his latest book, "Joseph and His Brothers," which, he stated, "is not a history of the Jews, but a history of mankind in general."

Predicts Clean Film Fight on Dietrich Movie

Reporter Sees Protest Over 'Scarlet Empress.'

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., May 29.—[Special.]—The never dwindling list of new films which divide the public between acclaim and disapproval has been increased by one of the year's most lavishly produced, "Scarlet Empress."

Previewed here it can be said that "Scarlet Empress" beyond doubt will rile those elements demanding cleaner films and that it will displease many advocates of public good taste.

But there is no question about "Scarlet Empress" presenting scenes with sweep and spectacular pageantry.

It seemed questionable to this observer whether parents and any vast number of the American showgoing public would desire to look with such intensity and repeated necessity at so many foreground shots of distorted and unnatural sculptured fixtures grouped about banquet tables.

It may please Director Joseph von Sternberg to have his church patriarch speaks lines in which he insists to the queen that "the church" has "political influence" and that the law should be taken into their hands, but these and some other effects in the film—some visual and others in the dialog—about institutions that so many persons cherish may not please Von Sternberg's audience.

The picture, which stars Marlene Dietrich and which features Sam Jaffee as the mad young czar, and John Lodge [who nearly steals the story], as Count Alexei, shows Miss Dietrich's blonde 8 year old daughter, Maria Sieber, in an early sequence and is declared to be based on incidents from the diary of Catherine II. of Russia.

The theme of several reels is the not commonly discussed one of layettes and baby showers, but in this case everybody in the court listens at the baby showers as the old empress, with semi-biological speeches, tells the young princess about what is expected of her.

The vigorous shots of wild riding Cossacks, clanging bells, galloping sleighs, careening stage coaches, blond and brunet guard officers keeping dates with the queen through her boudoir back door, pennants, peasants and a good shot of Marlene keep the film at a pictorial high pitch.

The "Legion of Decency" campaign, seeking to exert pressure from over the country for cleaner films, continues to make an impression here. Yesterday Warner studios received nine letters from Buffalo, N. Y. The letters protested against dirty films.

The Hollywood headquarters of the Hays office came out in front in two recent jousts with producers who disputed the word of their own arbiters (the Hays is financed and upheld by the Producers' association) about portions that should be censored.

M-G-M kicked and wanted to keep passages in "Tarzan." The studio demanded a "jury trial." The jury, composed of three producers from three other studios, met and brought a verdict that what the Hays office said should come out must come out.

The same thing happened in Universal's recently completed "Little Man, What Now?" In filming Warners' "Du Barry" the pruning was done on a large scale.

On the other hand Frank Capra, who directed "It Happened One Night," "Lady for a Day," "Bitter Tea of General Yen," and other outstanding successes, says: "Sometimes when you give the people a fine, intelligent, clean, well made, and interesting picture that you imagine the 'clean picture' shouters will go for they let it fail. There has not been a finer, more tender, or better made motion picture turned out in some time than Director Frank Borzage's 'No Greater Glory.' It has everything the critics of motion picture smut could ask for. And what does the public do? It lets a fine picture become a boxoffice klunk. That's one reason why the producers don't gamble on more such fine pictures. When they do the public fails to support them."

LONDON, May 29.—(AP)—Viscount Lee of Fareham, prominent figure in the British motion picture industry, at a luncheon at the English speaking union ridiculed the American star system.

The industry in Great Britain falls into the same error, he added.

The qualities of the good picture of the future, he predicted, will include "perfect photography, fine illustrative music, simple, self explanatory drama, and little if any talk."

Carle Milliken, chief assistant to Will Hays, was the principal guest. He described efforts of the Hays organization to improve the moral tone of pictures and warned it will take a long time to achieve the ends sought.

"People won't enter movie houses if they think some one is trying to educate them or improve their morals," Milliken said.

Mae Murray to Return to Stage in Comedy Role

New York, May 29.—(AP)—Mae Murray, star of the silent films, will return to the Broadway stage on June 11 when she takes over the leading feminine rôle in the comedy "The Milky Way." The former Princess David Mdivani replaces Gladys George, who retired from the part to accept a Hollywood contract. It has been nearly two decades since she was featured in the Ziegfeld "Follies" and was a dancing partner to Clifton Webb.

Don't Correct Your Child for Every Mistake

He'll Grow 'Mother Deaf' if You Do.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

After yesterday's article on the importance of the skilful management of your child as you're with him hour by hour, perhaps that sounds like contradictory advice. But it isn't.

You see, there are a great many parents who are so conscientious that they bend over backard. They are eager to have perfect children that they bend over backward. They are so afraid that some small trait like a slap at another child, a bad word brought home, or heedlessness will develop into a bad character trait that they think every small thing must be corrected as soon as it shows itself. They think any behavior that doesn't measure up to their standard must be treated with importance.

O, if they're not this too conscientious type of mother, they're the dominating kind who have to talk to and direct someone all the time—and who get the habit with their children.

Now I know that one of the ways to get best results with your children is to overlook small things as much as possible, and also to refrain from a constant "do this" and "do that," or "do it this way or that way."

For one thing, constant admonition is likely to make your child "mother-deaf." The other point is that there are certain things which practically all children do until: [1] they learn that other children won't stand for them; or [2] that they have unpleasant consequences; or [3] until they get sense enough to know better.

Don't think that dire will be the result unless you train your children and manage your children all the time. Give them a chance to learn by just growing and developing—and to learn some things [not all] by their mistakes.

We have written-in-full booklets on the various behavior difficulties connected with the small child's growth. The No Habit, "Don't Touch," and Obedience are three of them. Any ONE will be sent you on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Good Morning!

That's this picture's big selling point.

The screen separation of these esthetic-countenanced young people—who made "Seventh Heaven" such a delight—brought real sorrow to the multitudes who like their movies sweet and wholesome. They fretted, sulked and pestered Fox with importunities to please, PLEASE let Janet Gaynor and Charlie Farrell play together again.

Fox has obliged.

"Change of Heart" is naïve and cleanly no end. It deals with the affairs, heart and otherwise, of four college graduates who descend on Manhattan [literally, from a plane] to make good.

One [James Dunn] wants to be a crooner. One [Charles Farrell] would practice law. One [Ginger Rogers] is stagestruck, while one [Janet Gaynor] yearns to be a writer.

At the beginning Charlie prefers blonde Ginger to red-headed Janet. But Kathleen Norris, who turned out the sugary yarn, fixed all that, you bet your life, before the last reel.

Miss Gaynor and Mr. Farrell are, as usual, upright and appealing. James Dunn keeps the fires of humor burning with his wise cracks. Ginger Rogers, playing a girl who deserts her friends and tries to get Janet's sweetheart—and, later, husband—away from her, seems a bit out of character. Because Ginger's long suit is being pally-Sally-in-our-alleyish, and you can see she feels like an eel in a lamprey net as the trifling Madge Rountree.

Other acting, direction and dialog should please those who go for this sort of entertainment. And as for the Gaynor-Farrell combination—long may it wave!

See you when?

THE WRONG MAN

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Cara Follette, only daughter of a Canadian business man, anticipates becoming her father's partner. While traveling in Europe, studying languages and making business contacts, she meets Jerry Flint, a poor young English singer. For a brief while romance transcends business in Cara's young life. She decides to stake him to Canada, where she can get him auditions impossible for him to gain abroad. At home Cara's father is about to lose his business to his rival, Redman Harmer, who pays him an unwelcome visit. Harmer has recently returned from Europe, where he saw and fell in love with Cara. He asks Follette for a special opportunity, approved by him, of meeting his daughter. Benjamin Follette and his wife, Anny, had grown apart in the years he was busy becoming successful. Cara returns home later the same night of Redman's visit.

INSTALMENT IX.

HOVERING TRAGEDY.

The dogs had followed Cara in. They hung about her, adoring.

"Well, my girl," Benjamin said in a steady voice. "Nice time of night to come home! I didn't send the car on the chance. Thought you could damn well pay a taxi if you couldn't let me know. You ought to have wired when you left the ship. Ocean Queen, I suppose."

"I wanted to surprise you, and I wanted——"

"What did you want, you young devil?"

"To feel . . . free. For a few days longer—free."

Free? Free? What did she want freedom for? His heart hurt him. "All very well," he grumbled rumblingly, and knew an immense relief to see Anny gathering up her wrap. Anny said clearly:

"You and your father have a lot to talk of, Cara. I'll hear all your adventures in the morning, dear." A caress of Anny's jeweled fingers on her daughter's cheek, and she was gone.

They were alone except for the loving, understanding dogs. The moonlight had defeated the chastened glow from behind the carved Madonna lilies. He could hardly believe in his happiness behind which his tragedy stalked. There were many things to tell her. It was understood between them. Business first! But how begin?

She began it:

"Why did you cable for me to come home, father?"

"Because I wanted you," he said.

His mind began to clear, to function efficiently, to race. He knew that not only months mattered, weeks mattered. In the impasse in which he found himself, days, hours, perhaps minutes, mattered. "I've something to say to you," he began. "I'll say it tonight. You and I never beat about the bush." Yet he "beat about the bush." He could not get started. He faltered badly for almost the first time in his clear cut career. He suffered.

A shoulder was near him. It was not the stalwart shoulder of a son, but the sensitive shoulder of a daughter. He laid his head against it. "I can't fight any longer," he thought, "unless I'm loved."

She turned to him swiftly, human, and girlish. "Father?"

"My little girl." He kept repeating it: "My little girl. My little girl."

Cara was astonished, but not alarmed.

Her father's grizzled head against her shoulder, with his infinite weariness communicating itself to her, was an experience totally new. So she could not have interpreted the fatigue of his soul, but only guessed at the fatigue of his body, saying to herself: "He's worked himself to a standstill. He wants a month at the camp," only that all the new subtleties which had so lately come to her, informed her instantly and truly that in some unexpected way this infallible father called for help. In two weeks her own newly released emotions, rising like sap in the spring, had opened her eyes to a world of emotions and joys and possible sorrows. She was not the daughter who had left this home nearly a year ago. "Father?" she whispered, and he felt and rejoiced in the feel of a butterfly kiss on his head, the shyest of caresses, nevertheless, a caress.

"I don't know how to begin," he said at last.

"Just anyhow, father!"

She could not see the queer smile that touched his lips. He could not begin to tell her yet. He could not shatter the peace of this room, with just the two of them again, and the sweetness and joy of this homecoming.

"Your news first," he temporized. "Shoot!"

"I told you in my letters exactly what I'd done, father. And I meant all I said when I promised you I'd learned a tremendous lot. I quite wished you would cable me to go all out after the contract. I know I could have sold our tractors in Czecho-Slovakia. When I called on the Polinkoff firm I could see they were simply crazy to get the agency. I got them talking of a lower commission basis than we could expect. Of course, they were all a bit amused at first——"

"Never mind," he said, "never mind."

"O, I didn't mind. I was amused, too. In Germany—in Berlin—I met one of the Krupps' lot. And also, as I told you, I spent a day in that aircraft factory out at Essen, and one of the directors will have us on his visiting list this year. Their next year's thousand horsepower——"

"Never mind. Never mind."

"Of course, I've told you everything already in my letters, haven't I? Only there are so many, many things one doesn't put down—indefinite——" she paused.

"Everything," he repeated vaguely. Then he caught at the chance of a postponement of his own news that had to be told tonight. And then he was further ashamed. Because the principle on which he had brought up this daughter was "At once! Do a thing at once; and the harder it is, the quicker you've got to do it!"

"Everything," he repeated again, and coaxed somehow to his aid the ghost of a rallying tone that a jolly father might use to a son. "I don't know so much about that, you young devil. What's all this about hiking in the Tyrol? Wasting your time and my money! Eh?"

"Not your money," she laughed, with a shake in the laughter so that Follette was warned of something surprising to come. "I didn't spend a cent over what you allowed. Brought two dollars and a half back with me!"

"Doesn't hurt you to have to run it close!"

"O! I've no complaints!"

"Better not," rumblingly.

But it was no good. She was not a son. Neither was she ever going to be the foremost woman in industry—a flying figurehead, face set toward great enterprise. Redman Harmer had made him realize it. One of her arms, having gone round his shoulder, stayed there. Her other hand lay on her knee. He glanced at it, small, fine and nervous, very feminine. "Go on," he said, still rallying her, "spill the beans. I won't mind. Tell us something about the Tyrol and why you went there."

"I don't know how you knew that I did go there."

"I'll bet you don't, you young devil. But I'll tell you all in good time. Well?"

"It was spring, father, and so lovely. And I'd worked hard, and done all you told me. I wanted a little real holiday——"

"At your age I never wanted a holiday!" It was the mechanical rebuke of middle age to youth.

"I wanted a little bit of freedom."

"What for, my girl?"

"Well, d'you know now?"

"I know more than I did."

"Well, go on. Go on. What does the girl know?"

"Life isn't all money, father."

He thought of Redman Harmer, and inwardly he quailed. But as long as the moment for revelation kept off, and his girl's arm lay, light, along his shoulders, he knew a curious happiness, depending as it did, solely upon procrastination.

"What is life, Cara, according to these findings?"

"Well," she said, pausing between sentences. "It is sensation. And—and beauty—the kind that needn't cost money. And leisure to think, and thinking, and friends to talk to. And art. Music!"

"All those things cost money. Is that all?" he asked.

"We can all have some foolishness, can't we, father?"

"What foolishness have you brought home? he asked slowly.

and, as usual, it will be open to all members of the club who served in the armed forces of the allies during the world war. The winner each year is given a replica of the cup and his name is engraved on the real cup.

The new baseball diamond that has been laid out on the old grass tennis courts will be used this morning for the first time, and if all the baseball fans who have said they would be there are on hand to play there'll be several nines. Willard Boyden and Carroll H. Sudler Jr. really started the idea of having baseball at the Onwentsia and they have arranged the first game to be played at 11 o'clock this morning.

Baseball Game at Saddle and Cylcle.

Mr. Boyden and Mr. Sudler both have been among the stars of the diamond at the Saddle and Cycle club in town for some time and they will be missed greatly in that club's game this afternoon. The pool at this semi-country club is ready for swimmers today and tonight one of the club's famous buffet suppers will be held, but there will be no music for dancing unless the radio is turned on by some one anxious to make a dancing party of the affair.

The Chicago Golf club in Wheaton had its opening dinner dance last night, but it was a little too cool for the party to be held around the pool, so the tables were laid under the pergola and the orchestra was ensconced in the colorful Casino. The pool and the tennis courts will be in use today and there will be a putting contest for the women golfers while the men are out on the beautiful old course.

The Geneva Golf club is putting in a swimming pool, but it won't be ready for swimmers today, so the only activity around the little club will be golf and tennis. Up at Lake Geneva, where so many Chicagoans summer, the Country club is open, but because Memorial day is in the middle of the week nothing special for today has been planned.

Only a few of the big houses on the lake are open and no private boats are on the lake yet, so this summer resort really hasn't awakened from its winter inactivity. By the end of June it will be a very lively place, however, and especially so at week-ends when almost every house will be filled with guests. The first dinner dance at the club will be early in July.

Plan Benefit for Stein Opera Opening.

Chicago will see and hear [and perhaps understand] "Four Saints in Three Acts" next fall, for it was announced yesterday by Mrs. Earle J. Zimmerman, president of the Vocational Society for Shut-Ins, that that organization has taken over the opening night, Nov. 8, as a benefit. Mrs. Albert F. Madlener Jr. is general chairman of the committee in charge.

The opera for which Gertrude Stein, that literary phenomenon who baffles almost every one with her original and different style of writing, wrote the libretto and Virgil Thompson the music, was given its American première in Hartford, Conn., last winter and then was given in New York and Boston. Everywhere it was pronounced "meaningless" and "incomprehensible" by the laymen but it attracted the most fashionable and discriminating audiences just the same, and on Broadway the audience stood and cheered after the final curtain, so the intelligentsia of Chicago are looking forward to its presentation here with real interest.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos C. Dean of London, formerly of Chicago, arrived here on Monday and are visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. Clarke Dean, 1500 Lake Shore drive. The Amos Deans have been residents of London for a number of years.

The sailor who told us that there were so few entries for the Chicago-Mackinac race that the race might not be held this year was wrong, for Malcolm D. Vail, vice commodore of the Chicago Yacht club, hastened to inform us that the race undoubtedly will have the largest entry list in the history of the club. Mr. Vail said that the governor of Michigan is doing everything possible to make it an exceptional race because Mackinac Island will be celebrating the 300th anniversary of the discovery of the iland by Jean Nicollet when the race is sailed.

Luncheon Tomorrow for Schumann-Heink.

Carleton Smith is giving a luncheon tomorrow at 1:30 at the Arts club for Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, to which he has invited a number of his musically inclined friends. After the luncheon Mr. Smith and Mme. Schumann-Heink will go to the preview of the new exhibition opening to the public in the Art institute Friday.

One of the most delightful summer vacations we have heard of is that planned by Miss Janet Busby and Miss Lucy Miller, who are sailing June 25 on the S. S. Excelsior from Jersey City for a 75 to 85 day trip to the near east. The Excelsior is a freighter, and accordingly will travel wherever business is best. Three ports that Miss Busby and Miss Miller are certain of seeing are Athens, Istanbul, and Constanza. Their one shore trip will be to Bucharest. Miss Busby intends to do a lot of painting on the "cruise" and she should have a grand opportunity of doing so for there will be only thirty-two passengers, and the trip will be rather quiet.

Miss Miller's parents, the Thomas Millers, are spending the summer in Chicago but Miss Busby's mother, Mrs. Leonard A. Busby, and brother Jack, who will be graduated from Hotchkiss next month and who will enter Princeton in the fall, will go to Blowing Rock, N. C., for a summer of golf. It is likely that Mrs. Busby and Miss Busby will be in New York next winter.

Miss Jean Dunbar Will Be Graduate.

Miss Jean Dunbar, daughter of the David Dunbars of Wheaton, is to be graduated next week from the Erskine school of Boston. She will return to Chicago in time to act as bridesmaid for Miss Dorothy Dayton, daughter of the Burt Denmans of Wilmette, who will be married to Beresford Ellsworth Beck on June 12. In July Miss Dunbar will sail for Honolulu to spend the summer with friends on the iland.

The Junior Byron S. Harveys are at home after a fortnight in Santa Fe.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin J. Rosenthal have sailed to meet their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Tartiere, at Ville Franche, and to motor with them to their château at Dammarie-les-Lys. A bit later the Tartieres will sail for the United States and the Rosenthals will go to Biarritz accompanied by Elaine Marie Tartiere.

Schools Announce Commencement Dates.

The University School for Girls has sent cards out for its graduating exercises at 8:30 p. m. Wednesday, June 6, in the school, 1106 Lake Shore drive. The Rev. Theodore C. Hume will make the address.

The Kenwood-Loring school is holding its graduation exercises Friday, June 8, at 8 p. m. in St. James' Methodist Episcopal church.

The little shop that the women's division of the Salvation Army has been running on North State street has been moved to 1240 North Clark street and the name has been changed from the Rummage and Resale shop to Opportunity shop. Mrs. William S. Monroe bestowed the new name on it and she is one of the women who works there regularly. So do Mrs. Charles K. Corsant and Mrs. Loyal Davis, who is chairman of the committee in charge of the shop, the proceeds of which go to the Women's Emergency lodge and the Women's Home and Hospital.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

He Would Spare Disappointment.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am in love with a fellow whom I only saw twice. He promised to see me and didn't show up. Does he care? HELEN."

He would have spared you the embarrassment of a disappointment had he any real feeling for you, don't you think, Helen?

WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rambo Pruyn of 449 Barry avenue announce the marriage of their daughter, Josephine, to Bruce Ellwood Layman, which took place on March 3 in Waukegan. Mr. and Mrs. Layman are at home at 640 Bryant place.

Graceful Neckline Embellishes Frock Cut for Slimness

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Isn't the neckline of this dress pretty? And the skirt has curved seaming to narrow the hipline, and panels to give height and slenderness. Printed silk crêpes will make up beautifully in this design.

The pattern, No. 2738, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, 42, 46, and 48 inches bust measure.

New Handbags in White Take to Soapsuds

Both Cleaning and Budget Problems Solved.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

White bag hunters looking for new summer white hopes that are amenable to washing or easy cleaning can now trot right downtown and find some beauties for prices that will make the buyers goggle with dazed unbelief.

These bags come in a variety of shapes and sizes and styles. You can also get them in quite a few pastel colors, and—wonder of wonders—you can keep them spotless with a daily rub with a damp cloth. If they get decidedly dingy you can apply soap and water with some rather splendid results.

Stunning white linen envelope bags are here, some lined with inky black leather, which is a find. Every one who has struggled with the task of keeping white bag linings free from lipstick spots and other stains will appreciate these models.

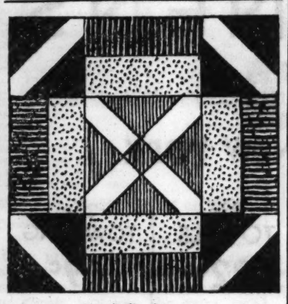
High colored handbags are legion. You can buy some yellows that are about the cheeriest things in town, some lovely pinks and blues and some bright red affairs that will take your breath away. Every sort of fabric has been used for summer bags, even cellophane, and the price tags allow for a bag for every frock or suit in the wardrobe.

There are some effective navy blue and some black thin linen blouses for your white linen suits. They are stitched in white, with short sleeves and a high neckline anchored with a small tailored bow. The smartest women are wearing very dark contrasting blouses with white linen or palm beach street suits of tailored simplicity.

If you have a desire for rubber swim suits, you should see the bathing ensemble consisting of suit, cap, and slippers of printed rubber in a small colorful chintz pattern. It's so tremendously like the real chintz it will fool you at first sight, and another of these low price tags that are being clipped to interesting new stuff is pinned to this outfit.

Fashion photograph . . . a holiday ensemble, a new white silk suit of crinkled crêpe, made with a short boxy jacket of vivid red that matches the red and white striped top to the one piece dress. A belt of woven red and white silk fastened with a red button completes one of the smartest street or spectator sports costumes for summer. From a Chicago shop.

Quilt Bears One of Oldest Known Geometric Designs



Girl's Joy.

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents each, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service Offices, One South Dearborn or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

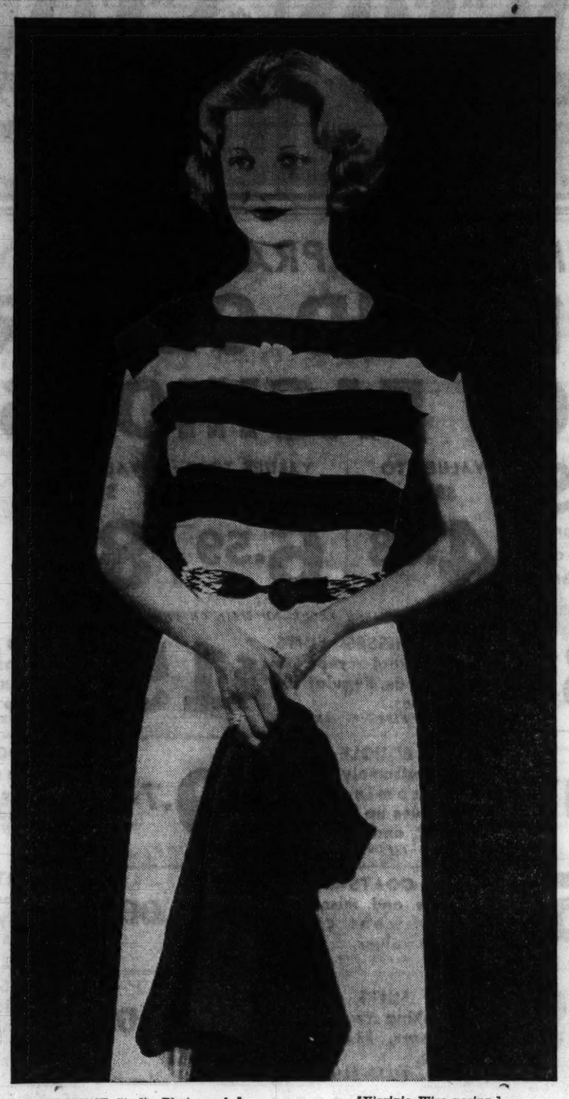
Mr. and Mrs. John J. Carls of 8341 Rhodes avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Virginia, to John O'Connor Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Connor of 7322 Dante avenue.

Mrs. Eli Swayne Stern of Evanston announces the engagement of her daughter, Cecile Dorothy, to Llewellyn Bowen of Wilmette. Miss Stern will be graduated in June from Northwestern university. Mr. Bowen attended the University of Kentucky. The wedding will take place in September.

New England Women Ask Day Devoted to Family Ties

Rockford, Ill., May 29.—(AP)—Introduced by the Milwaukee delegation, a resolution was adopted here today by the National Society of New England Women calling upon President Roosevelt to set aside a day during the summer months on which the people of the United States will endeavor to strengthen family ties. The resolution blames weakened family ties in part for crime and what the society termed a growing tendency toward loose moral conditions.

New Silk in a New Suit



[TRIBUNE Studio Photograph.] [Virginia Wise posing.]

From a Chicago shop. A two piece ensemble of a slim one piece dress made with a striped red and white top, with a matching red silk short jacket. The silk is new and unusual—it is the heavy crinkled crepe that looks like the coarser version of cotton seersucker material. A good traveling or spectator sportswear costume, because wrinkles do not show.

Boredom May Be Cause of Her Sleepiness

When She Nods in Chair He Needs New Line.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

It is disconcerting to get yourself all shaved, and fresh collared, and pressed, and shined to go call on your girl and then have her nod in the chair opposite you along about 10:30. Anyway, Gene says it is.

And what can a young man suggest, under the circumstances, but that the girl go have a physical examination to find out if she's harboring a sleeping sickness germ? That's what Gene suggested, and now the girl won't answer the door to him.

"She has the habit of falling asleep when you're talking to her," Gene explains, "so I told her she must have the sleeping sickness. Even when we go out together to other people's houses, she'll begin to nod or look as if she were miles away."

Another thing about this girl that can't be understood is her impatience with Gene's loss of job. When she is not nodding, we take it, she is filling Gene's ear with tales of the dozens of other young men who have jobs and money to escort her about.

We gather, therefore, that it is a germ of indifference rather than of sleeping sickness that makes the young lady seem so unaware of her caller and escort. We have heard of older people who couldn't fight off the yawns and nods, but when a young woman begins that sort of deadening performance it's a certainty that the company bores her and it had better be leaving, anyway. The wonder is, in this independent era, that Gene's girl would let herself be victimized as often as we gather she has been.

On the other hand, the fault may not be entirely the young lady's. Some of you young men see only the moat in the girl's eye. Now, maybe you're not very entertaining. Maybe you never change your line of conversation and the girl knows by heart what you are going to talk about and what you are going to say about it. So she figures she has time for a brief nap. When she gets back in circulation again she can pick right up where she dropped off.

A FRIEND IN NEED

Buggy Will Benefit Baby.

"Dear Miss Brown: I am the mother of four children, the youngest born a month ago. My husband has been out of work for the last four years. Three of the children have whooping cough and are quarantined, and I would like very much to obtain a buggy so that I could have the baby out in the fresh air. As I am still very weak I am unable to carry the baby in my arms. MRS. R. K."

Icebox Is Urgent Need.

Mrs. M. R. writes as follows:

"We are in dire need of an icebox and are writing to you for assistance. There are five small children in the family, and my little girl of six has just been released from the hospital after an operation for infantile paralysis of the foot. We are receiving relief but have been unable to secure an icebox, and food and milk spoil easily during this warm weather."

Rochas' Evening Frock Demands Reedlike Figure

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The majority of women, even in Paris, keep close to the style pattern of the season. You see them at swank evening affairs wearing vaporous, simple dresses that look similar one to the other.

But at the opera recently a woman wearing the Marcel Rochas evening dress sketched here was more followed than the music of the symphony orchestra. This is a personality style and takes more wearing than most of us can give it. It was stunning for the tall, reedlike creature who had it and got away with it perfectly. The dress, as you see, is simple in its cut. It is made of black sheer crêpe, ribbed with a fine black satin line, and hasn't a particle of color on it. The extraordinary effect of the line is given by the stiffened circular ruffle which borders the train, rises up the sides of the skirt, and makes a tour of the waistline. Only a slim woman could wear it, but for such it is most flattering.

BY MARY MEADE.

Night . . . ailes of streaming flags . . . the hum of waiting thousands . . . an instant of motion picture caught to loose the floodlights of a vast educational playground, and the second year of Chicago's history-building Century of Progress Exposition has opened.

Which is great, say we of the saucepans, if we can only get to it. But with dinners to be cooked and families to be kept in health, Fair or no Fair, how does the mealmaker manage, pray?

So, before we seize our hats and our Baedekers and rush for the grounds, what about a summer plan for meal getting which will let us sprint home half an hour before hungers reach their peaks, and still present a dinner which will convince the folks that mother is still on the job?

We seldom bother with appetizers these Century of Progress nights. But if you do wish a starter, make it a canned tomato juice cocktail, a chilled fruit juice which is already made up in quantity and waiting in the refrigerator, or a blend of tomato and shrimp juices, the latter saved from yesterday's newburg. It should take no longer than the pouring time. Glasses may even be chilled and ready in the refrigerator, and crackers crisped and on dish.

Main courses which like to hustle are notably ones which are grilled, sautéd, or creamed. Broiled minute steaks or chops, pan fried hamburg patties, browned corn beef hash from the can, grilled frankfurters, broiled ham slices, or creamed canned chicken à la king, hardly begin the list of quicktime favorites. Fresh vegetables which need little attention before we pop them into the pot, and one of the macaroni cousins as frequent substitutes for the somewhat lazier potato dishes, continue the idea.

Or do it with whole grilled dinners. Either your oven broiler or a top-stove one will do nobly. One day bring forth hamburger steak in bacon rings, halved bananas and pre-cooked sweet potatoes, all grilled at the same time. The second at-the-Fair day turns up liver and bacon, green peppers served with olive oil and salt and grilled onions, likewise all broiled on the grill.

And, although we don't so often think of it thus, French fried dinners have ways of hustling all their own. Just the time to heat the fat, then one to four minutes of cooking, and the trick is turned. One crunchy hurry-up dinner results when we deep-fat-fry liver [rolled first in flour] and have French toast served with sliced cucumbers. Another happens when veal chops are rolled in egg and crums, then they and banana fritters are fried together. Offer them up with sliced fresh tomatoes for a Century of Progress feast.

For the top-stove cookery enthusiasts, one might have eggs scrambled with whole-kernel canned or fresh corn, and decked out with pan-fried tomatoes. Or jelly omelets, bacon and hashed brown potatoes will likewise come in that 30-minute dinner list if we will boil enough potatoes one day to allow some to cool their heels until the second.

Don't be afraid to be a can-opening cook. It's no disgrace these days. Cakes, cookies, breads, and pies for these particular stepped-up dinners would best come from some well loved and trusted bakery around the corner. These warm nights fish salads, meat salads, vegetable salads, and gelatin fruit salads are dishes which may be mainly prepared in the morning while we are gamboling through the breakfast dishes. Or, if it is suddenly a bit chizzly, and you've already had your share of cold foods, present the family with

CREOLE MACARONI AND MUSHROOMS
2-3 cup broken or elbow macaroni
½ pound mushrooms, sliced
1-3 cup butter
1 tablespoon minced onion
1 tablespoon minced pimiento
1 tablespoon flour
1½ tablespoons minced parsley
¾ cup meat broth or hot water
Salt and pepper to taste

Cook the macaroni in boiling, salted water until tender. Drain. Meanwhile sauté the mushrooms, parsley, onion, and pimiento in the melted butter for 10 minutes. Stir in the flour and cook three minutes longer. Add the hot broth or water, and cook until thickened and creamy. Season with salt and pepper and serve over the hot macaroni. If you wish, sprinkle with Parmesan cheese.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

Mr. Sims is universally acclaimed the greatest living contract and auction player. He is captain of the renowned "Four Horsemen" team of four and has won twenty national championships since 1924.

RESPONDING TO ONE NO TRUMP WITH FOUR-CARD SUITS.

My insistence on strong no trump opening bids makes it much less necessary to seek safety in suits, or to give the enemy vital information for their leads by mentioning suits in the process of arriving at an eventual game contract in no trumps. This applies to four card suits most particularly. I advise the responding hand to mention biddable four card suits only if they are major suits, and then only on distributional grounds.

With a Split Hand.

With a split hand, by which I mean a 4-3-3-3 distribution, do not bid a four card suit at all. The hand offers no inducement for suit play, and will generally play more safely for game in no trumps, the presumption being that the opener also has an evenly distributed hand, so that the same number of tricks are likely to be lost in either declaration. Holding my response would be two no trumps, not two spades. The opener is marked with the jack of spades or four to the ten, and my hand will take three, if not four, tricks in the play. Were the spade holding A Q x x I would pass unless I had a queen or a jack and a ten elsewhere in the hand. I would feel only very slightly more optimistic than with only three cards in the spade suit. With Sp. A J x x, I would need another king in the hand in order to bid two no trumps instead of passing, and even so I would feel uneasy unless a jack or two tens strengthened my hand in addition. There might be a spade finesse. With K Q x x I would need only an outside king, counting on three spade tricks with no finesse to take. These holdings are a little more promising than if one has the same face cards, but not as part of a four card suit, because of the likelihood that the spade division among the hands may be 4-3-3-3, which would yield at least three tricks in the suit, and probably four, if a finesse were either unnecessary or successful. Taking this fractional advantage into consideration, regard your responding hand, when it contains an otherwise biddable four card units, as in the same category as a hand without such suit, and raise or pass on your primary tricks and protective elements, with the slight trend toward optimism suggested above. The soundness of the Sims no trumpers, and your knowledge whether or not your partner shades them, should relieve you of serious worry on close decisions.

Sp.—A K Q x	Di.—x x x

For Tournament Players Only.

If you are playing in a tournament with match point scoring, and your hand should contain a four card suit consisting of four honors, it is advisable to bid the suit, especially a major suit. If game can be made in the suit, the 100 honors will top the score obtainable in no trumps. Realize, however, that you are being technically unsound in doing this with a split hand, and do not persist when your partner fails to raise the suit. Game outweighs honors by hundreds of points. The opener's hand has to be distinctly above a minimum for the game to be equally sure in the suit, and greatly so if a minor suit is involved. With eight trumps between you, however, and no weak spot in the opener's hand, you may be able to retain trump control because the enemy cannot force you in any suit, draw trumps, and play the hand thereafter as in no trumps, perhaps even with a trump left in each hand to take care of tricks which would be lost in no trumps. You are really refusing to accept average on the hand, striving to beat part, and taking a risk to do so. Be guided by your presumable situation in the tournament whether to reach out for tops or to play safe.

33 PILOTS SEEK FAME AND CASH AT INDIANAPOLIS

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., May 29.—An attendance of 90,000 is expected at the Speedway here tomorrow morning for the annual Memorial day 500 mile automobile race. A green flag will be waved for the 33 starters at 11 a. m. Chicago daylight saving time.

LOUIS MEYER.

The race, 200 laps around the two and a half mile brick course, will require about five hours' running time.

Advance ticket sales are 50 per cent ahead of last year, when the gate tallied more than $0,000, but this is not an infallible criterion. The vast majority of the speed fans doesn't buy coupons until the morning of the event, and the number of these eleventh hour arrivals is influenced considerably by the weather. The early forecast was partly cloudy without much change in temperature.

Drivers Get Final Instructions.

Drivers and their mechanics held their prerace meeting this afternoon, receiving instructions on their conduct on the track and in the pits. Emphasis was laid on the details of enforcing the new 45 gallon fuel limit. The gas limitation was invoked by the American Automobile association's contest board for the announced purpose of cutting speed so as to reduce accidents. Three were killed in the 1933 race and two in its preliminaries.

Two of the pilots—Dave Evans and Stubby Stubblefield of Los Angeles—will have to get by on 55 gallons of crude fuel oil. They will steer cars powered by oil burning motors. Evans, two years ago, drove an oil burner the entire 500 miles without a stop on 31 gallons of fuel.

As a further safety measure, prizes for the earlier laps have been eliminated. In previous races, a driver who doubted that his machine was capable of lasting over the entire route, would set a reckless early pace in quest of lap prize money. This would precipitate a stampede. In tomorrow's race, however, there will be no lap prize money at stake until 200 miles have been covered.

It's All for Science.

However, the bulk of the Speedway's gate receipts are from those who view the 500 mile grind as a hazardous undertaking with the lives of the drivers and mechanics in constant danger. Two were killed in practice spins last week.

Speedway officials have issued statements to the effect that the lives of the drivers are risked for the sake of science, for the advancement of automotive engineering. There was much truth in this statement years ago before motor car manufacturers developed research laboratories and proving grounds for testing products under conditions favorable for measuring and recording all influential factors.

The tens of thousands who will fill the grandstands tomorrow won't be there because of any interest in such problems as the relation of maximum stress to the periodicity of strains in breaking an axle. Their interest in broken axles will lie in whether or not such an accident is going to throw some luckless driver into a concrete wall.

Crowd Looks for Thrills.

The crowd wants to see whether or not Louis Meyer, the 1928 and 1933 winner, can again hold his ton of roaring horsepower over the rough bricks on the inadequately banked turns of this two and a half mile track. They want to see whether Kelly Petillo, who starts in the pole position, will again open his throttle to better than 119 miles an hour, the speed at which he qualified.

That's what the crowd wants to see —speed far in excess of a pace consistent with safety. And that's what the thirty-three drivers, contesting for shares in $100,000 prizes, are going to give the customers. The winner's share of the purse is $20,000, but additional money for leadership in various laps and from automobile accessory manufacturers will swell the total to around $40,000.

Practically all of the veteran pilots who are still in the sport will compete. Old timers striving for a share of the prize money include Red [Phil] Shafer of Des Moines, Ia., who will make his tenth attempt to win; Wilbur Shaw, Indianapolis, second a year ago; Ralph Hepburn, and Cliff Bergere, both of Los Angeles; Chet Gardner of Long Beach, Cal., and Dave Evans of Columbus, Ind.

Pete Kreis of Knoxville, Tenn., and Fred Frame of Los Angeles, winner two years ago, will not be beating the rough bricks of the two and one-half mile course. Kreis and Bobby Hahn of Chico, Cal., his mechanic, were killed last week while practicing. Frame was injured slightly in an ac-

Cleveland, Ohio, May 29.—The first place Cleveland Indians this afternoon gave the tail-end Chicago White Sox some inkling as to why the two teams occupy their respective rungs on the American league ladder. Mel Harder and his pals weren't content to accomplish a 5 to 0 whitewashing in the routine way but insisted upon letting our lads look a bit ludicrous in blotting up their second goose-egging of the year.

The Sox would have looked bad even if they hadn't looked funny, for Harder held them to five singles, three by Frenchy Bordagaray, one by Luke Appling, and one by pinch batter Frenchy Uhalt. Such worthies as Al Simmons and Mule Haas did not get the ball out of the scope of the infielders and the others didn't extend the outfielders.

Some Distressing Incidents.

The game was full of distressing incidents from the Chicago point of view. The first Cleveland run—the one that would have been enough for victory—was scored after Bob Seeds had reached third and Bill Knickerbocker had reached first on the latter's strikeout. Catcher Eddie Madjeski let the third strike get past him a dozen feet or so. Then, in the fourth, the Sox apparently tied the score and had a tally in the making when it was discovered that Zeke Bonura had neglected the slight matter of touching third base on a barge from second to home.

Nothing mattered much after the foregoing happened and such things as the veteran Mule Haas' throws to the wrong bases scarcely attracted any notice. The final proof that it wasn't the Sox's day came in the sixth when Gaston gave Kamm an intentional pass to fill the bases that he might get at Pitcher Harder. And Pitcher Harder did naught but sock a double.

Bordagaray opened the game with a single to right, but Haas, Bonura, and Simmons couldn't get the ball out of the infield, so Frenchy expired at third. The Indians' half of the first inning wasn't so futile. Seeds pushed off with a double to center. Knickerbocker missed a third strike but the ball got past Madjeski, Seeds reaching third and Knickerbocker first on the error. Averill hit into a double play, Appling to Bonura, Seeds scoring. Vosmik walked, but Hale filed to Haas.

Bordagaray also got the second hit off Harder, a blooper over Knickerbocker's head, but this time there were two outs in the third inning and Frenchy didn't advance. The inning ended on Haas' tap to Harder.

Two singles and a walk failed to

GOLF CHAMPIONS.

FOLLOWING retirement of Bobby Jones from competition after he won the quadruple crown of 1930, public interest diminished in major golf tourneys. The acknowledged master, the spectacular performer, the popular figure was gone.

Then came Johnny Goodman in the national open last year. Now comes even more spectacularly W. Lawson Little, the Leland Stanford collegian, with his victory in the British amateur—fourth time ever won by an American player and third time by a native born American.

This naming of Goodman and Little does not imply they are the equal of the redoubtable Bobby in playing skill, or have reached the public pedestal on which he stood. It will take years to prove that so far as playing is concerned, fewer years to reach public exhaltation. The point is that major tourneys no longer will be just another tourney.

Little's final effort at Prestwick may not be equaled by him soon, indeed may never be equaled. Possibly, it will be proved that the Californian just happened to be hot on that particular day when he set a course record of 66 and downed the British finalist, 14 and 13, the widest margin in history of the British event.

On the other hand, Little was called by his Walker cup teammates before the tourney the most improved player since 1933 on the invading squad. We may expect him to remain in top flight. Furthermore, whether or not he again approaches his Prestwick 66 in the near future, there is always the possibility he may do so. He has proved he has it in his bag.

Golf experts said when he retired there would never be another Bobby Jones. Many still think so. We repeat it will take years for either Little or Goodman to obtain such distinction. Yet such things have happened in other sports.

In pugilism, there never would be another John L. Sullivan. Along came Jim Jeffries, who finally retired because of absence of suitable opponents. Jeffries was not the natural fighter that the immortal John L. was, but as a finished product he was superior in weight and skill, probably equal in hitting power if he chose to use it. Then came Jack Dempsey, most popular champion since John L. Respective merits of Dempsey and Jeffries still are arguments among those who go in for that sort of thing.

In baseball, there never would be another Ed Delahanty. Then came Ty Cobb, possibly the greatest diamond artist of all time. Yet Ty Cobb, with his ability to do everything well, was eclipsed in popular favor by the slugging Babe Ruth, the greatest turnstile attraction ever to lure customers to the ticket windows.

W. Lawson Little, as stated, is the fourth American player to win the British amateur title. W. J. Travis, way back in 1904, defeated Edward Blackwell for the honor. In 1926, Jess Sweetser beat Alfred Simpson. In 1930, Bobby Jones downed Roger Weathered. R. A. Gardner, Chicago, reached the finals in 1920, then was vanquished by Cyril Tolley.

Little and Goodman admittedly have far to go to reach Jones' peak. But certainly they add spice and color to major tourneys in this country.

AMERICAN DERBY BETTING STARTS; HORSES ON WAY

BY FRENCH LANE.

Wagering started in earnest last night on the outcome of the American Derby to be renewed for the 26th time at the Washington Park race track on Saturday afternoon.

It might have started earlier, but most of the speculators waited until they were fairly certain how the Derby field would line up. They were able to bring the stylish field together on paper last night and for the first time betting odds were in evidence.

The field for what promises to be the most stirring renewal of the $25,000 race in many years shapes up about as follows:

*Cavalcade	1-1	M. Garner
*Time Clock	1-1	No boy
†Prince Pompey	40-1	C. Corbett
†Sir Ten	40-1	No boy
Discovery	4-1	J. Beishak
Patchpocket	20-1	A. Tipton
‡Bien Fait	20-1	E. Arcaro
‡Boy Valet	20-1	C. E. Allen
Mata Hari	8-1	L. Humphries
Singing Wood	10-1	R. Jones
Roustabout	15-1	A. Robertson
Plight	30-1	L. Balaski
Peace Chance	6-1	W. D. Wright

Discovery, Singing Wood on Way.

Discovery and Singing Wood were on their way to Chicago last night in their private express car attached to a fast Pennsylvania passenger train. Cavalcade and his stable companion, Time Clock, will pay the extra fare and come west, leaving New York today, on their private car which will be a part of the equipment of the Twentieth Century Limited. Roustabout and Peace Chance may be passengers in the same private car, although shipping plans for these two had not been received at Washington Park last night.

In the west, Mata Hari, Patchpocket, Sir Ten, Prince Pompey, Plight, Bien Fait, and Boy Valet were awaiting the struggle. Most of them will get their final Derby preps over the Washington Park track today.

Sweitzer Handicap Today.

There was enough going on at Washington Park last night to befuddle almost any racegoer. All this Derby talk was in the air, and to add to the confusion the Robert M. Sweitzer handicap, a dash at a mile and an eighth, is on the card as the headliner for the Memorial Day program this afternoon.

The best handicap horses in Chicago were named for the Sweitzer handicap. The field arranged in the order of post positions, follows:

Clarify	122	No boy	8 to 5
Repaid	104	J. Westrope	20 to 1
Ebony Lady	110	C. Corbett	30 to 1
Mr. Bun	98	No boy	20 to 1
Blessed Event	113	No boy	8 to 5
Frank Ormont	102	No boy	8 to 1
Pot An Brooms	108	L. Balaski	40 to 1
Navanod	108	P. Keester	10 to 1
Aladdin's Dream	106	J. Kacala	20 to 1
Ashen	100	J. King	20 to 1
Glastonbury	109	W. Garner	6 to 1

Blessed Event Is Choice.

This will be Blessed Event's first start in Chicago. He races for the Corsicana stable. On March 10 at Hialeah, under 111 pounds and while racing for Col. Edward R. Bradley, Blessed Event equaled the world's record for a mile and a furlong by running the distance in 1:48 2-5. It tied the mark made by Hot Toddy at Belmont Park in 1929.

As a result of this spectacular performance Blessed Event, along with his running companion, Clarify, was made the overnight favorite in the Sweitzer at 8 to 5.

DILLINGER "SEEN" AT INDIANAPOLIS FOR MOTOR RACE

Indianapolis, Ind., May 29.—Special.)—John Dillinger and three of his henchmen were reported seen in Indianapolis almost on the eve of the 500 mile race at the Indianapolis motor speedway.

PROPPED UP AFTER 15 FURIOUS ROUNDS

Barney Ross Earns a Rest for Winning Welter Title

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 29.—It was "Our Barney" on New York's east side today, just as a decade ago it was our Benny, for Ross, like Leonard, sprang from that tangle of tenements. And it's no belated claim New York has laid on Chicago's Barney Ross, for he won their hearts when he defeated Italian Tony Canzoneri here last September.

Today New York's east side continued to sing the praises of the only boxer who ever has won both the lightweight and welterweight championships. And well it might, for Barney Ross last night in Madison Square Garden's wooden bowl on Long Island ended the Irish spell which Jimmy McLarnin had wielded with malevolent power over every Jewish lightweight since Leonard retired undefeated.

Same Modest Lad.

Despite adulation, Barney Ross, swarthy, black haired champion, today is the same quiet, gentlemanly lad, who five years back fought and won amateur boxing's greatest honor in New York's Madison Square Garden, an intercity Golden Gloves championship. Praised in excess, lauded by all, Barney had a greeting for his friends and a bashful, retiring acceptance of honors almost beyond his comprehension.

Last night after the strain of 15 stirring rounds, Barney relaxed. With members of his family and Chicago friends he paid visits to those New Yorkers who have earned his affection by their loyalty when he held no championship. While Barney was thus engaged, his elated managers, Sam Pian and Art Winch, entertained and discussed plans for the future.

Must Have Complete Rest.

"First, Barney must have a complete rest," Pian remarked. Not unmindful of his promises to the New York athletic commission that Ross must defend his lightweight title within three months against Frankie Klick, Pian was more concerned with the problems entailed by two major titles.

If Barney defends his lightweight title, is the welterweight championship also at stake? Hurried recourse to the marquis of Queensbury rules convinced most that Barney may make the lightweight limit without danger of losing his 147 pound title. But this is subject to reflections by innumerable boxing commissions and undoubtedly will be debated pro and con.

Equally important to Messrs. Pian and Winch was the suspension of Ross by the National Boxing association, of which Edward C. Foster of Rhode Island is president, for failure to honor a contract in Fort Worth, Tex. Pian was most outspoken.

Texas Can Whistle.

"We accepted that fight in Texas with the verbal reservation that if the McLarnin-Ross bout materialized, it would be abrogated," Pian said. "When Barney was given the McLarnin fight, I offered to pay the promoter's expenses and to accept a later date. This wasn't satisfactory, apparently, and now Texas can whistle for a sight of Barney Ross."

A checkup today by Madison Square Garden officials revealed that last night's fight grossed $194,329.67. With deduction of federal and state taxes, the sum is $163,712.71 of which McLarnin's share amounted to $58,936.60. Ross will receive $36,835.38.

Benny Leonard Rejoices.

Benny Leonard, adviser ex-officio, grown paunchy and slightly bald with the years since he once wielded mastery over the world's lightweights, rejoiced in Ross' success. Leonard had seen other Jewish boxers falter before the rushes of Baby Face McLarnin, and he himself had failed in a belated attempt to whip the Irishman.

Barney's Chicago friends today also talked of a reception in the loop which would surpass that tendered the champion when he returned from New York last September. Ald. Jacob Arvey proposes to communicate tomorrow with Mayor Edward J. Kelly and when Barney comes home Friday his city will wait with open arms to greet the world's greatest fighter.

GRIMM CHANGES CUB LINEUP FOR PIRATE GAMES

English May Be Moved to Second Base.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs will be back home today and Dr. Charley Grimm will endeavor to see what can be done about relieving the case of jitters so prevalent for the last two weeks. Part of the prescribed treatment will be a revised lineup this afternoon for the north siders' first double header of the year and the first appearance of Pittsburgh's Pirates this season at Wrigley field. Dr. Grimm will start his new treatment at 1:30 p. m.

One thing the doctor is going to order is another revision of his outfield. Reading from left to right it will be Tiger Klein, Ki Cuyler, and the illustrious Babe Herman. This leaves only bench space for Tuck Stainback, the coast league rookie who started off at a gay pace only to slow down. Stainback not only ceased to hit but developed a sort of hysteria due to worry, and this affected his fielding.

English May Move to Second.

Another portion of the treatment starting today provides for the removal from second base of Augie Galan, also a Coast league graduate. He has been in service because of Billy Herman's injury, but has been so unsteady in his fielding that Dr. Grimm has decided drastic steps are necessary. There is just a slim chance that Billy Herman may be ready today, but if he requires additional rest the second sack berth will be turned over to Capt. Woody English, who has been operating at third. English never has played second, but is willing to try it. This move would permit Stanley Hack to function at third.

Grimm isn't ready to order himself back to first base, but that might come later. The manager, after several attempts to play, has discovered he can't move around as well as he did in his younger days. Grimm's absence, even with allowance for his decline, undoubtedly hurts the defense. At least that's the argument raised by the other infielders. They have learned that Dolph Camilli, Grimm's understudy, can't handle wide throws as the manager handles them. This accounts for some of the numerous errors the infielders were charged with during the last two weeks of panic.

Hitting Also Weak.

There has been much lamenting over the pitching staf, but this isn't the only defect. The pitchers are bad enough, and there is no doubt about that, but there also is a noticeable weakness in the hitting. The Cubs step out and show a powerful attack against the poor pitchers, but they don't do so well when a topnotcher is throwing against them. During their eleven games on the eastern trip they didn't once whip a pitcher with a reputation, and even subsided a few times before throwers they should have annihilated. Pennants are won by beating the good pitchers.

The eastern jaunt netted only four victories against seven defeats. There were only two triumphs in the last nine games. During the month of May the Cubs won 13, while losing 14. This is doubly alarming when you consider that 13 of these 27 games were played at Wrigley field, where they are supposed to be unbeatable. There'll have to be a vast improvement or it won't be long before the White Sox can begin to look forward to a city series with their north side rivals.

Warneke, Malone to Pitch.

Today's pitching chores will be intrusted to Lon Warneke and Pat Malone. Warneke didn't win a game on the eastern trip. The Dodgers beat him on an error when he was involved in an extra inning rescue job. The Giants beat him. The Boston Braves knocked him out, but a late rally saved the decision for Rescuer Root. Malone hasn't started a game since May 3, but he produced some commendable relief work during the late lamented journey.

The Pirates' pitching nominees for this afternoon's games probably will be Bill Swift and Hal Smith, both right handers. The Pirates also will be present for a battle tomorrow,

INDUSTRIES JOIN TRIBUNE'S GOLF SCHOOL AS UNITS

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Individual entries, it developed yesterday, are not the only factors sweeping THE TRIBUNE'S second annual free golf school onto another tremendous enrollment. This was discovered when 450 employés of the Pixley & Ehlers restaurants joined the school, the largest system of group golf instruction ever attempted. These 450, of course, comprising 90 per cent of the Pixley & Ehlers personnel, will not take their lessons on one course, but will attend classes at whichever one of the 18 member courses of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association, sponsor of the plan, is most convenient to them.

Following this batch of new pupils yesterday was still another one of 98 employés of the Hinckley & Schmitt Bottling company. The latter organization also announced that it would hold a special tournament following the school to determine the improvement developed during the course of the lessons. Albert J. Pixley, head of the restaurant firm, stated that he would offer a trophy to the employé making the best showing in the school.

Every One Is Eligible.

Any golfer in the Chicago district—man, woman, boy or girl—may join the school simply by filling out the coupon appearing elsewhere in these pages this morning. Check the course at which you decide to take the lessons, fill it out with your name, address, and age, and mail it to the Golf Editor, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

The next step in becoming a full fledged pupil is to appear at the course you have chosen next Monday night for the general educational lesson which will be given then. From then on, the lessons will be divided into classes for each division—Tuesday night for men, Wednesday night for women, Thursday night for couples, and Friday night for juniors,

TROTTING CLUB OPENS HARNESS SEASON TODAY

Show Events Also Carded on Program.

The Chicago Trotting club will open its season this afternoon with a program of six races at the club's track, North avenue and River road. The session will mark the return of harness races to Chicago after a lapse of 18 years. One hundred and twenty-five horses, valued at $250,000, are quartered at the track now and another hundred head are expected at the spacious barns by the end of next week.

Outstanding among the entries in the opening day's race is Una Signal, by Signal Peter, which will compete in the free-for-all-trot. Pronto Worthy, a Grand Circuit champion last year, also will compete in this event. Una Signal was one of the most consistent trotters of the 1933 season. It has a record of 2:03½.

Other horses in the free-for-all-trot include Malu, a fleet mare from Mount Sterling, Ill.; Shirley, the Ed Vogel entry from Solon Mills, Ill., which has a record of 2:04½, and Happy Harvester, owned by the Livingston Brothers of Elkhorn, Wis.

Dashes Make for Faster Time.

Owners and drivers expect the free-for-all-trot to be decided in 2:05½. They point out that the elimination of the heat system, and the deciding of each winner on a single performance as at the running tracks, will make for faster time. Drivers will press their horses more in an attempt to finish in the money.

For the first time in the history of harness racing, form charts will be provided on the trotters and pacers at the Chicago Trot club meeting.

Show Events on Program.

Chicago's first horse show of the outdoor season will be run in connection with the racing. The competition, which has attracted many of the outstanding show animals in the city, but which is essentially for amateurs, will be held this afternoon and evening, Saturday evening, and Sunday afternoon. The show events will be sandwiched between the races.

DODGERS' RALLY HALTED BY LUQUE; GIANTS WIN, 4-3

New Yorkers Bunch Hits in Early Innings.

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 29.—(AP)—The superb relief pitching of the veteran Adolfo Luque turned back Brooklyn's seventh-inning bid today and enabled the Giants to win the opening game of the series, 4 to 3.

The triumph, coupled with the idleness of St. Louis and Pittsburgh, put the Giants in a threatening position with respect to the league leader. Due to Pittburgh's having played fewer games, they remained one point down to the Pirates in the percentages while the count showed them only a half game to the rear of the first place Cards.

The Giants bunched eight of their eleven hits in the first four innings off Ray Benge, Joe Moore doing most of the damage with a single, double and triple. Leading by four runs, Fred Fitzsimmons pitched shutout ball until the seventh, when a fine rain which fell through most of the game moistened the ball so Fitz could not maintain his knuckle ball grip.

The Dodgers got all three runs in that inning. Jim Bucher, Al Lopez and Jimmy Jordan hit Fitzsimmons for successive singles and one run. Luque took up the task at this point, walked Hack Wilson to fill the bases and yielded Ralph Boyle a hit that drove in two more runs. Then with the bases loaded again he forced Len Koenecke to pop up a foul and fanned Johnny Frederick and went on to hold the Dodgers hitless in the last two innings. Score:

BRAVES, 6; PHILLIES, 4.

Boston, Mass., May 29.—(AP)—The first triple play the Boston Braves have executed this season came in handy for Fred Frankhouse today while he was subduing the Phillies, 6 to 4, for his seventh winning start.

The Phillies out-hit the Braves, 12-9, but the breaks went against Ed Holley, manager Jimmy Wilson's starting pitcher, who has always been highly effective against the tribesmen.

The Braves, thanks to Bill Urbanski's homer into the left field stands in the first inning, had a one run lead when the Phillies started hammering Frankhouse in the second.

Hurst and Haslin hit singles with none out and the Boston outlook was dubious until Frankhouse caught Jeffries' sizzling drive. He snapped the ball to Jordan at first to nail Haslin off the base and Baxter's throw reached Urbanski before Hurst could scramble back to second. Score:

Red Sox Beat Macks, 2-1, in Seven Innings

Philadelphia, Pa., May 29.—(AP)—Johnny Welch, young Boston right hander, pitched the Red Sox out of a tie with the Athletics into sole possession of sixth place as he beat the A's 2 to 1 in a seven inning contest today. The game was halted by rain in the first half of the eighth just after Dick Porter and Rick Ferrell had hit Merrit [Sugar] Cain for home runs that would have increased the Boston lead. Score:

HELEN JACOBS WINS MATCH IN FRENCH TOURNEY

PARIS, May 29.—(AP)—In a day of startling upsets Helen Jacobs, United States champion and one of the favorites for the women's title, came from behind in the final set against Lolette Payot of Switzerland today to gain the semi-finals of the French hard court tennis tournament.

It looked for a time as if Miss Jacobs might follow Fred Perry, H. W. [Bunny] Austin, and George Patrick Hughes out of the tournament as she trailed Mlle. Payot 3-5 in games after dropping the second set, 1-6. Then the American champion rallied to deuce the set and broke through for victory in the 14th game, 8-6.

Tomorrow Miss Jacobs will face Mme. René Mathieu, ranking Frenchwoman who beat her last year. She triumphed over Mme. Mathieu in the Franco-American team series last week.

Perry sprained his right leg in his losing match with Giorgio de Stefani, Italy's Davis cup player, continued despite the injury, and fainted as it came to an end. The scores were 6-1, 1-6, 9-7, 6-2. Austin was put out in the quarter-finals by Christian Boussus, the lefthanded Frenchman, 5-7, 6-2, 6-2, 2-6, 6-1. Hughes was eliminated by Jack Crawford, defending titleholder, 4-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-3.

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

COACH DICK HANLEY of Northwestern university may continue as coach of the East team in the East-West football game at San Francisco next fall in spite of the recent ruling of the Big Ten faculty athletic committee prohibiting conference coaches from participating in post season contests. . . . Hanley has a contract with the Shrine officials for next year and the Big Ten restriction does not insist that existing arrangements be nullified. . . . While he has no time for the modern school of wrestling, Farmer Burns, once a world champion and later the discoverer of Frank Gotch, never misses a show in Omaha. . . . The second season after he pitched for his high school team as a junior, Mel Harder was in a Cleveland uniform.

DICK HANLEY.

Northwestern will not play Michigan in 1935, as predicted in this column several months ago. . . . The reason advanced, however, is inability of the two schools to agree upon a date, and not rough play that the Wolverines accused the Wildcats of committing in last year's game. . . . For 18 years the Big Ten outdoor half mile record has been held by an athlete coached by E. C. Hayes of Indiana. . . . Back in 1916 when nonconference teams were permitted to enter the meet, Hayes, then track coach at Mississippi A. and M., brought a half miler by the name of Earl Scott to the games. . . . The southern runner won the event in the record time of 1:53.2. . . . In the recent meet at Dyche stadium, Hayes, now track coach at Indiana, saw Charlie Hornbostel, his great 880 yard runner, lower Scott's 18 year old mark by three-tenths of a second. . . . The new record is 1:52.9. . . .

George [One Round] Moriarty, American league umpire, apparently is not in favor of ladies' days. . . . Leaving his dressing room at Comiskey park, he remarked to some gals who were waiting to get players' autographs: "Why don't you go home and wash your dirty dishes?" . . . Frank Wetzel, manager of the Omaha Packers, used to run ball clubs for Joe E. Brown, the movie comedian. . . . The Cubs didn't get Wallie Berger because Scout Jack Doyle insisted he was a sucker for a curve ball. . . . Others tried to get the Cub officials to outvote Doyle, but they didn't. . . . Tom Jones, old time fight manager, widely known among Chicago fans, operates an elaborate beer tavern on the outskirts of Los Angeles. . . . Jones is the only man who ever handled three world champions. . . . He had Billy Papke, middleweight; Ad Wolgast, lightweight, and Jess Willard, heavyweight. . . .

Coach Howard Jones of Southern California believes he has another Warburton in a new quarter back named Dave Davis. . . . The California boxing commission is building up a fund for disabled professional fighters by assessing each contestant one per cent of his earnings. . . . Johnny Walsh, University of Wisconsin boxing coach, was a candidate for handsomest man on the campus in a contest sponsored at Madison this year. . . . Paul Runyan, leading money winner on the winter golf circuit, learned to play by chasing balls at 50 cents an hour for Jimmy Norton, professional at the Hot Springs Golf club, and practicing Norton's swings in the barnyard at 3 a. m., while waiting for the milk to be bottled for delivery. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Babe Ruth's 11th home run enabled the Yankees to defeat Detroit. . . . Bud Taylor and Connie Curry fought a ten round draw at Aurora. . . . Eddie Wilson of the University of Chicago won the Big Ten tennis singles championship. . . . Charlie Paddock pulled a tendon as he equaled the world record in the 200 meter run. . . . Harry Kaskey of Chicago, a member of the United States Olympic ice skating team, was declared a professional and barred from further competition by the International Skating union.

Lessons Last One Hour.

No lesson will last more than one hour at any time. Lessons at the six inner courses—Mid-City, Harlem, Big Oaks, Evergreen, Golfmoor, and Chicago Meadows—will begin at 7:30 o'clock each night, while those at the twelve outlying courses—Cog Hill, Westgate Valley, Vernon, Northbrook, Indian Head, Techny Fields, Big Run, Walnut Hills, Oak Hills, Elmgate, Hickory Hills, and Twin Orchards—will commence at 8 p. m. This will allow golfers who wish to go to school at the outlying courses a half hour margin with which to reach them, since the inner courses, as was the case last year, are expected to carry the bulk of the enrollment.

All pupils are requested to bring a driver for all of next week's classes, including the general one Monday night. Employes of THE TRIBUNE and relatives of professionals will be allowed to take the regular lessons, but will not be eligible to compete in the final contests for prizes. All winners of last year's finals are barred entirely.

Teachers Make Plans.

The professionals who will conduct the classes have been taking lessons themselves in an effort to standardize the methods of teaching to be employed during the school, and are more enthusiastic than ever about the approaching school. A majority of them attended a meeting at Northbrook Monday night to complete plans for the lessons. It was decided at this same meeting that five of the courses would definitly give Sunday lessons, beginning at 4 p. m., for all divisions, with a view to giving students unable to attend during the week an opportunity of keeping up with others. These five courses include Vernon, Northbrook, Big Run, Techny Fields, and Chicago Meadows.

The officers of the association are Charles Nash of Vernon, president; Tom Walsh of Westgate Valley, vice president; Ted Moreau of Mid-City, treasurer, and Bill Langford of Mid-City, secretary. Exhibition Golf Match to Open Winnetka Course

The Winnetka park district will open the Skokie play field and golf club, Oak street and Hibbard road, Winnetka, said to be the finest municipal golf course in the country, Saturday. An exhibition golf match will be played by Chick Evans, Robert A. Gardner, George Dawson, and Walter Stelzel, the club's golf instructor.

Chicago Golfers Open Season in Earnest Today

Although the golf season in these parts has been under way for almost two months, today is the day the Chicago district season actually and officially begins. Every member club of the Chicago District Golf association, ruling body in this vicinity, has scheduled either an exhibition match or special events for members for the holiday. In addition, thousands of other golfers, not members of private clubs, will take advantage of the off day to travel out to the daily fee, forest preserve, and municipal courses.

The larger clubs in the district, such as Olympia Fields, Lincolnshire, and Medinah are expected to attract the largest fields of the day. Westmoor will hold an eighteen hole exhibition match starting at 3 p. m., involving Eddie Gayer, Bob MacDonald, Chick Evans, and Mel Smith. Butterfield will play four ball foursomes during the morning round, with 18 holes handicap play, best ball of pairs, scheduled for the afternoon.

Play for the women's golf championship of Chicago will begin on June 26 and end on June 30 at the Evergreen Golf club, 91st street and Western avenue. The tournament is sponsored by the Marquette Park Women's club, which organized it 12 years ago. Last year's title, which she is expected to defend, was won by Josephine Souchek. More than 50 are anticipated in the starting field.

The fifteenth annual junior open championship of the Women's Western Golf association will be held at the Park Ridge Country club on July 9, 10, 11, and 12. It is open to all players under 18 years who never have competed in a W. W. G. A. major tournament. Entries must be sent to Mrs. H. D. Raymond, 1223 Grove street, Evanston, Ill. The entry list for pairings closes July 5. The association's annual Derby, at 72 holes of medal play, will be held at the Beverly Country club, Aug. 20, 21, and 22. Entries, the fee for which is $3, close at 6 p. m. Aug. 15, with Mrs. C. B. Willard, 277 Linden Park place, Highland Park, Ill.

Ralph Chrissie of the Big Run course, newest member of the Chicago Daily Fee association, on 135th street, one mile west of Archer avenue, announced yesterday that he had adopted a new time system for all players. Prospective patrons will be assigned certain hours of play previous to their appearance on the grounds. They will make registrations by phone and will be then told at what hour the course will be available to them.

The new rule has been made necessary by the number of demands for playing time and will enable players to avoid loss of time spent in waiting. A number of Joliet and Lemont players are now registering for courses in THE TRIBUNE Golf school at Big Run.

Sox Make 5 Hits; Lose to Indians, 5 to 0

Bonura Fails to Touch Bag.

Bonura walked on five pitches at the outset of the fourth and reached second on a passed ball. Simmons then sent a grounder which went right through Knickerbocker into short left and Bonura barged home with what appeared to be the tying run. Knickerbocker threw the ball past Hale in returning it to the infield and after the ball had been kicked around for a while Kamm called for it and ran to third with it, whereupon Bonura was called out for missing that base. Zeke not only kept his own team from tying the score but he saved Knickerbocker an error, Appling lined a single to center, Simmons stopping at second, but Dykes lined to Vosmik and Boken flied to Seeds.

The clownish aspects of the Chicago fourth inning saddened Gaston temporarily and he pitched a home run ball to Trosky at the start of the Cleveland fourth, then walked Pytlak. Kamm, however, hit into a double play and Harder flied to Simmons.

Bordagaray Hits Again.

The fourth Sox hit was Bordagaray's third. Frenchy singled to right with two down in the fifth, but Haas again blocked the young man's progress. He popped to Hale.

Hale opened the Indian sixth with a single to center and stopped at third when Trosky bounced a high fly off the nearby right field wall. Pytlak grounded to Bonura and Hale was run down between third and home, Bonura to Madjeski, Trosky reaching third and Pytlak second. Kamm was given an intentional pass, filling the bases. Harder met this strategy by doubling to left, Trosky and Pytlak scoring and Kamm stopping at third. Kamm scored while Dykes was throwing out Seeds. Knickerbocker flied to Haas.

LESLIE TAKES NATIONAL LEAGUE BATTING LEAD

Sam got the hit in three official trips to the plate and his average slid off a point to .379. Harvey Hendrick, meanwhile, had only one time at bat and no hits, going down five points to .375. Joe Vosmik replaced his Cleveland teammate, Billy Knickerbocker, in third place, hitting once in two tries for a two point gain while Knickerbocker hit once in four tries and lost four points. The leader, Rollie Hemsley, hit twice in four attempts, sending his mark up four points to .406.

ADMIRAL TOGO, GREAT JAPANESE HERO, DIES AT 86

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, May 30.—[Wednesday.]—Admiral Heihachiro Togo, 86, Japan's greatest hero, died at 6:35 a. m. today. He had been ill for several weeks with cancer of the throat.

The nation was immediately thrown into the deepest mourning for the aged leader, who won the highest point in the esteem of the Japanese people by destroying the Russian grand fleet in 1905 during the Russo-Japanese war.

The cabinet was called into session shortly after the admiral's death. A state funeral was decided upon, but no date has yet been fixed.

Invalid Wife at Death Bed.

Touching scenes were witnessed at Admiral Togo's death bed. Shortly before he fell into a final coma his invalid wife was carried into the room. She wept silently. Neither was able to speak. Their two sons and several of the nation's highest naval officials were also at the death bed.

Following the admiral's passing he was elevated to admiral of the highest court rank. A few hours before his death Emperor Hirohito elevated him from count to marquis.

It is understood that Togo will be canonized under Shinto rites and that a national shrine will be erected to his memory.

Admiral Togo was known as the "Nelson of Japan," and his victory over the Russians was considered the greatest naval victory since Nelson's victory at Trafalgar. Admirers said it settled the fate of two empires. It gained him a place nearer the sovereign's throne than was held by any other except princes of royal blood, and gained him the nation's highest honors.

Entered Navy at 16.

Born to a samural family of the Satsuma clan on Dec. 22, 1847, he began to train at 12 years as a fighting man, and four years later he went into the navy. At 21 he began eight years of study in England under experts of the British navy.

By 1894 he was a captain and, with his vessel, Naniwa, he sank a Chinese troopship en route to Corea, which precipitated the war with China which meant Corea's annexation by Japan.

Between 1894 and 1904 the Japanese navy was steadily expanded, and Togo, as vice admiral, commanded the main battle fleet which fired the opening shots of the Russo-Japanese war in a night attack by torpedo boats upon Port Arthur on Feb. 8, 1904. This was two days before Japan's declaration of war.

When, on Aug. 10 of that year, the Russians sallied forth from Port Arthur Admiral Togo smashed their ships. The crippled remnants made their way back to the shelter of the land batteries.

The Japanese then blockaded both ports, removing the threat to Japanese transports carrying troops to the Manchurian battlefields. The czar decided to send his Baltic fleet to the Orient to correct this condition.

Sinks Most of Fleet.

The reinforced Russian fleet was dispatched toward Vladivostok, and assembled at Kamranh Bay, Cochin China, for the move. It left there on May 15, 1905, with two routes open to it—one via the open sea east of Japan and the other through the narrow straits between Japan and Corea. The fleet chose the latter route. Japanese scouts informed Togo, and his fleet sighted the Russian vessels on May 27.

He ran up his famous signal: "The fate of the empire depends upon this effort and the men must do their utmost," and the battle was on. Togo's signal has been compared to Nelson's "England expects every man to do his duty."

The battle lasted all day and night. On the morning of May 28 only five Russian ships remained afloat. Three of these were sunk by noon and the other two were captured.

A Strict Disciplinarian.

Throughout the engagement Togo paced the bridge of his flagship, in full danger of the Russian fire. His staf officers at one time tried to persuade him to retire to the safety of the conning tower, but he stayed outside. A minute later the conning tower was blown into the sea by a direct hit.

Togo was known as a commander who, though a strict disciplinarian, won the devotion and confidence of his men. He would visit and send delicacies from his own table to a sailor injured on the ship, it was said.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: What'll It Be, Gents?

LAWYER PLACED ON TRIAL AS AID OF TAX EVADER

Payson Tinkoff, attorney and income tax expert, went on trial yesterday before Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone on charges of aiding William J. Newman, millionaire excavating contractor, in the evasion of income tax payments of approximately $220,000 for the year 1928. Newman has pleaded guilty to tax evasion, and a court hearing on his case is to be held after Tinkoff's trial is ended.

At the opening of the Tinkoff trial yesterday testimony was given by Thomas F. Gayer, a former office manager of the Newman company, that Newman made frequent withdrawals from the company's funds without giving an accounting. It was also testified that Newman's company did $400,000 worth of contracting business for the city in 1928, but recorded only $77,000 on its books.

Gayer said Newman withdrew "a number of checks" ranging from $10,000 to $40,000, without entering them on the books.

After Gayer gave his testimony on the city contracting business, the trial was adjourned until tomorrow when he will continue on the stand. He was the only witness of the opening day.

Tinkoff, when his case was called, had told the court he could not afford to hire counsel. Judge Stone appointed William F. Waugh and his associate, Jacob Goshkin, to represent Tinkoff.

There are two counts in the indictment against Tinkoff, each of which carries as a penalty a maximum sentence of five years and a fine of $10,000.

Newman, according to the prosecutors, has made a settlement offer of $150,000 to cover a general tax claim of approximately $1,000,000 for the years 1924 to 1928, inclusive. The government has accepted the settlement offer, but this fact will have no effect on the criminal case, they said.

W-G-N WORKERS JOIN A. F. OF L. ELECTRIC UNION

First Big Station Here with Affiliation.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Broadcast engineers of W-G-N yesterday became affiliated with Chicago local No. 134 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. Through this action W-G-N becomes the first major Chicago station whose broadcast technicians are identified with the American Federation of Labor. WCFL engineers already belong to the union.

The agreement provides for a six day week of not more than 48 hours as called for in the code of the National Association of Broadcasters. The contract runs until July 1, 1936, and will be automatically renewed annually thereupon unless negotiations are inaugurated 60 days before the expiration of the agreement. Then, if no agreement is reached by conciliation, W-G-N and the union have provided that a new contract shall be drawn by arbitration. New technicians are to be selected from the members of the Chicago local.

Provides for Arbitration.

In the event of differences between the station and union the agreement provides that these shall be adjusted by arbitration. When disagreements cannot be reached by the presidents, or business managers of the organizations concerned by conciliation, the matter is to be referred to a joint board of arbitration. Two members of this board will be chosen by the station and two by the union, and an arbitrator also will be picked if his services are necessary.

Amelita Galli-Curci, the noted operatic soprano, will make her first local radio appearance on Monday, June 18 on NBC's "Contented Hour." Mme. Galli-Curci will sing the lullaby designated by listeners on this program as the most popular. More than 85,000 persons have registered their preference thus far, with Brahms' "Wiegenlied," an easy leader to date.

Dragonette to Take Vacation.

Jessica Dragonette, one of radio's most popular sopranos, will desert the air waves for nine weeks beginning next Friday. This will be her first vacation in more than two years. Olga Albani will take Miss Dragonette's place on the Friday NBC program during the summer. The Countess Albani also will come to Chicago for a guest appearance with Charles Previn on the "Silken Strings" program Sunday, June 17.

Will Rogers will return to the air next Sunday, replacing Irving Berlin. Nearest local outlets are WLW, Cincinnati, and WJR, Detroit. Walter Damrosch and his symphony orchestra will sign off June 11, and Col. Stoopnagle and Budd will leave the radio for the summer on June 5.

WHEAT RESUMES RISE; FUTURES AROUND DOLLAR

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Dollar wheat for future delivery returned to the blackboards yesterday after an absence of nearly a year. The July delivery at Minneapolis touching $1.00⅝ shortly before the market closed and the finish was $1.00½, a net gain of 1 cent for the day. Cash wheat sold above a dollar in several markets on Monday.

There was no letup in the flood of unfavorable weather and crop comments from the American and Canadian northwest. For three days temperatures of around 100 have prevailed in the Dakotas, and no relief in the way of either rain or cooler weather was indicated by the official forecast.

Heavy profit-taking made its appearance in all grains early, many local longs going out of their holdings on account of today's holiday. The offerings, however, were absorbed by a new set of buyers on the break.

Buying Rush Near Close.

Shortly before the close there was a rush of buying based on reports from London that Russia is buying Australian and Argentine wheat for shipment to Vladivostok and that it already had contracted for cargoes totaling 22,500 tons. Of these, the report added, two were bought from Australia and one from Argentina.

It was said these shipments, and probably others to be arranged, are due to widespread crop failure in Russia and to an abnormal increase in wheat consumption in the Vladivostok area because of troops which have been maintained there since the period of Russo-Japanese tension.

Wheat advanced 1¼ to 2⅜ cents from the early low with July and September here at new highs for the season, the latter touching 99 cents at the extreme. The finish was at net gains of ⅝ to 1¼ cents on the active futures, while May was ½ cent lower. Houses with eastern connections sold the latter delivery, but trade was small. July finished at 97¼ to 97½ cents and September at 98⅝ to 98⅞ cents.

Corn Crop Fears Grow.

Apprehension for the new corn crop was expressed in reports from various parts of the belt owing to the continued dry weather. Futures, however, were little affected, closing ⅛ cents higher to ⅛ cent lower with July at 57 to 57⅛ cents.

There was little evidence of any general movement to sell cash corn on the part of the country. Distant deliveries of oats sold at a new high for the season with gains of ⅜ to 1¼ cents, July being 41⅝ to 41⅞ cents. Rye was ⅜ to ½ cent lower with some selling regarded as hedging against foreign grain. Barley was up ⅛ to ⅝ cent for the day.

Grain trade leaders, the department of agriculture and AAA officials minimized the threat of imports of Argentine wheat into the United States. While from a theoretical standpoint the quotations would seem to make this possible, attention was called to the fact that last July wheat futures in Chicago went to around 50 cents per bushel premium over Buenos Aires, compared with around 43 cents at present, and nothing was done regarding bringing in the grain. Reports from the seaboard yesterday indicated there was no interest in wheat from the southern hemisphere.

Russian Purchases Explained.

Purchases of foreign wheat for shipment to Vladivostok by Russia are not an unusual occurrence, according to trade leaders, although recently the demand from the Siberian port has been filled by grain from Russian Black sea ports. Normally, it is claimed, between 3,000,000 and 5,000,000 bushels of wheat, largely Australian, are bought annually, as it is cheaper to secure the wheat from the latter country than to ship it overland from European Russia.

Winnipeg wheat showed a reactionary tendency early, due to profit taking, but closed strong and gained ½ to ¾ cents for the day. Liverpool was ⅝ to 1⅛ cents higher with prices in English currency the highest since early in January. A big export demand was reported for Canadian cash wheat with sales of around 1,000,000 bushels. Winnipeg and Liverpool will be open today as usual.

Expect House to Pass Silver Plan Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—[Special.]—The administration's silver purchase bill, establishing the white metal as a currency on a ratio of three to one with gold, will come into the house tomorrow.

Action of the powerful rules committee accorded the legislation a privileged status today, and by limiting debate to three hours, house chieftains are confident of pushing it to passage by tomorrow night.

Expect Big Majority.

What little opposition the measure stands to encounter is expected to be overwhelmed by the combination of strong silver sentiment in the lower house of congress, the strong silver bloc and the large segment of the Democratic majority which votes for any measure bearing the stamp of presidential approval. Working together, these forces are expected to sweep the silver bill to enactment by a decisive majority.

Explaining the provisions of the measure in its formal report filed today, the house ways and means committee asserted that it "constitutes an important step in aid of recovery and in developing an improved monetary system for this country."

In general, the bill provides for the purchase of silver in foreign and domestic markets by the secretary of the treasury, and for the issuance of silver certificates against the stocks of white metal thus acquired. The treasury would be required to maintain sufficient stocks of silver to cover the certificates outstanding at their face value. Coinage of silver also is provided.

Holders to be Reimbursed.

The President, under the terms of the bill, is authorized to "require the delivery to the mints of silver, no matter who the owner or the holder may be or where the silver may be situated," the committee pointed out. The call for silver, it was said, is to be made in an executive order and the types of silver to be surrendered will be covered by regulation. All silver turned in in accordance with the federal demand is to be coined and the holders reimbursed in silver dollars.

Forecasting Republican opposition to the measure, was a minority report signed by eight minority members of the ways and means committee, protesting the haste with which the Democratic majority forced the legislation through committee.

French Fight Policy.

PARIS, May 29.—(AP)—After considering the effects of the United State silver policy, the French government decided today to defend the currency of Indo-China against devaluation.

The ministry of finance accepted conclusions reached by a special committee named to study "repercussions of silver fluctuations on the economic situation in the far east."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 29.—The first court action under the securities act of 1933 was taken today in federal court when Judge Robert C. Patterson issued a temporary restraining order against C. Morrison Smith & Co., Inc., restraining them from further sales of stock in the Golden Quebec Mines, Ltd., pending a hearing set for June 8.

The action was initiated by the Federal Trade commission. Total sales involved in the action were 45,000 shares at 65 cents a share, or $29,250. Solicitations for the stock purchases had been made by telephone, the complaint alleged.

John T. Callahan, attorney for the commission, in his affidavits, declared the company had attempted to sell the stock by means of "devices which operate as a fraud or deceit on the purchasers of the stock. He further declared that some 200,000 shares of the stock, supposed to be of par value of $1 per share, had been offered, and that "more than $20,000 had been received by the defendant organization."

INSURANCE MEN ADJOURN PARLEY ON COMPENSATION

The executive committee of the national convention of insurance commissioners concluded its meetings yesterday at the Edgewater Beach hotel without finding a solution for the workmen's compensation problem on which it has been working.

George S. Van Schaick, insurance commissioner for New York state and chairman of the subcommittee which has been handling the matter, stated he expects to prepare a report for the annual meeting which will be held in St. Petersburg, Fla., Dec. 4, 5, and 6.

Merton L. Brown, chairman of the executive committee, announced the resignation of R. C. Clark of Vermont from the committee. He will be succeeded by W. A. Sullivan, insurance commissioner of the state of Washington.

Germany Wins Respite Over Paying Debts

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 29.—Germany today succeeded in obtaining a six months' moratorium on her foreign debts, although in polite bankers' language the respite is called a "six months' lag" and not a moratorium, which smacks of extreme financial difficulties.

After four and a half weeks of transfer negotiations the Reichsbank issued a communique embodying its concrete offer to pay interest and amortization on private, state, and municipal debts in the shape of bonds or coupons in the year following July 1, 1934. The bonds are issued by the German Conversionskasse. They are guaranteed by the reich, paying 3 per cent interest and 3 per cent into a sinking fund. They mature Jan. 1, 1945, and are transferable.

Will Cash Part of Coupons.

For coupon holders who prefer cash the Reichsbank undertakes to purchase coupon bonds at any time starting six month after the due date of the respective coupon. The offer is withdrawable on 30 days' notice, depending on the amount of foreign currency held by the Reichsbank. The purchase price is 40 per cent or may be more for the coupon bonds, depending on the Reichsbank's foreign exchange position.

The different delegations split on the treatment to be accorded the Reichsbank offer. The Americans declared they took part in the conference "only on the basis on which it was called, as stated in the communique issued at the close of the January conference calling for 'cessation of separate agreements' and objection to discriminations in favor of creditors of any country." The Americans feel there is "no reservation to the obligations of the Reichsbank."

Best Offer Obtainable.

Laird Bell, representing the Foreign Bondholders' Protective Council of the United States, said:

"This is the best offer creditor delegates from England, France, Holland, Sweden, Switzerland, and the United States could obtain from the Reichsbank. The Foreign Bondholders' Protective Council of the United States necessarily must and does reserve freedom of action with respect to its attitude on the offer upon its submission to American bondholders."

British, Swedish, and French delegations declared their willingness to recommend acceptance of the offer provided "their governments feel all requirements regarding the reich loans, that is to say, the Dawes and Young plan loans, are satisfied and provided the scheme is being operated in such manner as to give nationals of all countries the same deal. If this is not done this group reserves liberty of action for themselves and their governments."

Swiss, Dutch Spurn Offer.

Switzerland politely and Holland bluntly turned down the Reichsbank's offer, thus opening the way for the clearing system they prepared should Germany fail to give them preferential treatment because they are excellent customers.

It was pointed out that the Reichsbank may withdraw its offer to pay cash on bonds if it is short of foreign currency, but these bonds are to replace scrip and Germany hopes they will help increase foreign purchases of German goods the same as scrip did in the last year.

The total amount of interest Germany must pay creditors annually is 500 million gold marks, not including payments on the Dawes and Young plan loans and those covered by the standstill agreement. The Dawes and Young plan loans will be the subject of a special political and financial conference between Germany, England, France, America, and several other nations.

DISLIKED BY U. S. GROUP.

The Foreign Bondholders' Protective Council, Inc., issued a statement from its office in New York last night terming the settlement reached at the Berlin debt conference "most inadequate and unsatisfactory," but added that "this offer is the best that the conference could induce Germany to make."

DR. THORP, REJECTED BY SENATE, TO TAKE SOME OTHER POST

Washington, D. C., May 29.—[Special.]—Dr. Willard Thorp, who failed of confirmation by the senate as director of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce ostensibly because he lacked sufficient business experience, has been prevailed upon by friends of President Roosevelt to remain within the administration.

Although his new responsibilities and title have not yet been clearly defined, Dr. Thorp has been selected by key men in the administration to direct and coördinate the activities of the federal government bearing upon the interests of the consumer.

In this capacity, Dr. Thorp would be immediately associated with Frank C. Walker, executive director of the national emergency council and also secretary of the executive council created as an advisory body on matters of administration policy.

DOLLAR ADVANCES SHARPLY AGAINST POUND AND FRANC

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 29.—The dollar advanced against other currencies in the foreign exchange market here today, rising in terms of gold to 59.42 cents gold value, based on local quotations for French francs. On the basis of new parities of exchange, the dollar rose 0.22 to 100.62.

Sterling declined 1¼ cents on the day, closing at $5.07¾, the lowest price since March 12, 1934, while francs declined 1 point to 6.59¼ cents. Other foreign exchanges declined accordingly, excepting Canadian funds, which rose 1-32 to 100 5-16. Covering of short commitments in the dollar preceding the holiday was a factor, while the return movement of capital to America was reported to be increasing the pressure on gold currencies.

Today's gold statement of the New York Federal Reserve bank showed imports of $347,200 from India. There were no exports and no change in the gold stocks held under earmark for foreign account.

ILLINOIS WILL APPEAL SWITCH RATE DECISION

A petition asking that the Supreme court of the United States reconsider the Chicago district switching rate case is to be filed at once, according to George H. Shafer, rate expert for the Illinois commerce commission. However, Mr. Shafer expressed little hope for success from this effort.

The Supreme court on Monday affirmed the dismissal of a complaint filed with the District court here against an interstate commerce commission order requiring the railroads to raise switching rates in the Chicago district to a level with interstate rates. Both the Indiana and Illinois commerce commissions have been fighting against the rate increases which were ordered put into effect last fall.

LEADING ROADS REPORT RISE IN FREIGHT TRAFIC

Car loadings of a number of railroads for the week ended May 26 moved higher, giving indication that the total for the period will compare favorably with volume recorded in the preceding week. Loadings continue to run substantially ahead of volume in the same week of 1933.

The Illinois Central handled 26,128 cars in the period, compared with 25,059 in the preceding week and with 22,816 in the corresponding week of 1933. Cars hauled by the Rock Island totaled 20,703 compared with 20,474 and 20,129 respectively. The Wabash reported 12,796 cars compared with 11,031 in the corresponding 1933 week.

Dealings in New Armour Stocks Begun

Trading opened yesterday in the new shares of Armour & Co. on a "when, as, and if issued" basis. The prior preferred stock to be created in the proposed reorganization closed on the Chicago Stock exchange at 60⅛, or 2⅛ points above its opening quotation of 58. The proposed new common stock ranged between 6½ and 6¼, and closed at the latter figure.

On the New York Stock exchange the old preferred stock finished at 69⅝, a gain of 1½ points for the day. The class A common closed unchanged at 3.

New Preferred Higher.

The old preferred is equivalent under the terms of the plan to one share of new prior preferred and two shares of new common. The market value yesterday of one share of new preferred and 2 shares of new common was slightly above the quoted value of the old preferred.

The validity of transactions in the new stocks is contingent upon consummation of the reorganization program. Should the plan fail to go through all trades in the new shares are automatically canceled under the rules of the exchange.

Trading in the new preferred stock was light here with only 200 shares changing hands. On the New York curb some 2,900 shares were traded. About 7,000 shares of the new common were traded in both markets.

Conversion Privilege Offered.

The conversion privilege carried by the new preferred stock allows the holder to exchange each share for 6 shares of the new common. The new preferred was worth 60 yesterday, while six shares of the new common were worth only 37½. The option was attached to compensate the preferred holder in some measure for accepting a $6 dividend rate on the new stock against $7 on the old. It runs for the life of the company.

The management has given definite assurance of dividends on the new preferred if the plan is effected and also a dividend on the common late this year if earnings continue at the present rate.

PERMIT TO RUN BUS LINES ASKED BY BURLINGTON

The Burlington Transportation company, a wholly owned subsidiary of the Burlington railroad, yesterday applied to the Illinois commerce commission for authority to operate a bus line from Chicago through western Illinois municipalities to the Mississippi river.

A bus service in coördination with the railroad would operate to two points on the west limits of the state, one just east of Burlington, Ia., and the other at Rock Island. The first service would continue across Iowa to Omaha, Neb., and the second to Davenport, Ia. Russell James, attorney for the railroad, said the contemplated bus service would be supplemental to the rail line service.

AVIATION CORP. LOSES $551,196 IN 1ST QUARTER

The Aviation Corporation of America yesterday reported a loss of $551,196 for the first quarter of 1934, compared with a loss of $57,407 in the first quarter of 1933. Loss from operations before depreciation was $300,006. Depreciation was $264,365. Profit on sale of securities was $26,121.

The company's mail contracts were canceled Feb. 9 along with those of most other private companies. When the awards were given again to private concerns the company discontinued six routes which were not given contracts.

DROUTH FORCES PIGS TO MARKET; PRICES SPREAD

Lambs Dip Sharply; Cattle Higher.

Shipments of drouth hogs caused a wider range of prices yesterday, with weighty kinds selling at premiums, while the over supply of off quality lights were discounted sharply. Top and average prices show the biggest spread in several months.

Yesterday's buying orders for regular commercial channels converged again in the medium and heavy stock, those weighing over 240 pounds getting over the scales at prices strong to 5 cents higher. Most of the light hogs were draggy and weak to 10 cents lower. Lightweight drouth hogs comprised a liberal share of yesterday's run. Many of the lightest weights on the pig order met a semi-demoralized trade. There has been no relief from the drouth in the principal cattle and hog feeding sections, and the movement from much of the cornbelt is likely to continue heavy unless some solution to the feed problem is found.

U. S. Buying Drouth Stock.

The Federal Surplus Relief corporation is confining its buying of hogs to the class of stock forced in by the drouth, but purchases of 3,200 daily are not adequate to relieve the pressure of unfinished light weights. Buyers representing this account are lately among the last to lay out bids, and the attitude of government buyers has for weeks been anything but bullish so far as hogs are concerned.

Buying by the corporation yesterday was done on a weak to 10-cent lower price basis, top for "relief hogs" at $3.30 indicating a 5-cent decline from the previous session. Regular commercial buyers paid up to $3.65, or 5 cents higher than on Monday for their top grades. Including the government purchases, the general average price of hogs for the day at $3.35 showed 5 cents decline.

Out-Movement Heavier.

Notwithstanding the last increase in government buying, which boosted purchases to 15,000 daily at all points, the movement of "relief pork" out of packing houses has been greater than incoming shipments. Current holdings by the FSRC are the smallest this year. On May 19 packers were carrying 14,084,000 pounds of such pork for the relief corporation, a reduction of 11.9 per cent compared with three weeks earlier. At one time in February the government was carrying 66,076,000 pounds of "relief pork."

Lamb prices tumbled 25 to 40 cents yesterday, all classes sharing in the reduction. A scattering of native springers to smaller interests reached $10.75 to $11, but the bulk of top grades sold to larger packers at $10.50 and less. Plainer classes of light throwouts ranged down to $8 in small lots. A shipment of 692 Idaho spring lambs, the first of the season from that state, sold at $10.50, averaging 76 pounds. No aged wooled lambs arrived. Shorn stock from last year's crop of "fed" lambs sold at $8.25 and below.

Cattle Push Higher.

The movement of cattle was not as heavy and, with today being a holiday, some packers were on the market with two days' orders for beef. Prices were strong to 25 cents higher, except in the drouth stock, lacking quality and flesh, which were bought at about steady rates. The clearance in most divisions was better than on the opening day of the week.

A new high of $9.75 was made on medium weight steers to Swift, the highest mark since October, 1932. This was the last time Chicago witnessed $10 steers. Drouth cattle, mostly from the Dakotas, made slow sale, some of the poorest going at $3 to $4. The same two way trend existed in the butcher stock trade, choice cows and heifers ruling strong to slightly higher, while the poorer classes were barely steady.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 29.—Market circulars of brokerage firms during the last week have shown optimism on general business conditions, and pessimism on the outlook for the brokerage business.

One firm's "market letter" stated today, for example, that the Fletcher-Rayburn bill might prove an obstacle to market sponsorship and reduce the volume of transactions materially, but that the "financial district was more bearish on volume than prices." In the past, improvement in business has not failed to stimulate the stock market's activity, and history would seem to indicate that the fear of brokers that trading may not reflect the next wave of prosperity is unjustified.

Submit Reorganization Plan for Cosmopolitan State

The committee for reorganization of the Cosmopolitan State bank, which has been closed since Feb. 17, 1932, has submitted a plan for the reopenig of the bank to the state auditor, it was learned yesterday. Details are not available and probably will not be revealed unless the plan is approved.

MARKETS, BANKS WILL CLOSE TODAY

American commodity and security markets, including the Chicago and New York Stock exchanges and the Chicago Board of Trade, will be closed today, Memorial day. Banks also will observe the holiday. Foreign markets will operate as usual. Normal trading will be resumed tomorrow morning in American markets.

May Rule Stocks

James M. Landis, federal trade commissioner, who is reported as a likely choice of President Roosevelt to head the commission to govern stock exchanges under the new control bill, passage of which is expected within a week.

STOCK CONTROL BILL IS SIGNED BY CONFEREES

Quick Passage Seen as Assured.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 29.—The conference report on the stock exchange regulation bill was signed today. It will be submitted to the senate tomorrow by Chairman Fletcher of the senate committee on banking and currency and to the house, probably Friday, by Chairman Rayburn of the committee on interstate commerce.

The conference group made a number of clarifying amendments today before voting on the motion to report for final action the bill, as agreed on in conference. Little opposition in either branch of congress is expected.

Clarify Credit Provision.

One of the changes voted today was the elimination in the marginal sections of the word "speculative" as used in the subsection relating to the excessive use of credit for speculative purposes.

The sentence which now reads "the excessive use of credit to finance transactions in securities," will in the opinion of the conferees be relieved of a word which might lead to confusion in court and other actions necessary for enforcement.

Another amendment transfers administration of the securities act of 1933 to the new federal securities commission sixty days after the members qualify. The time previously set was ninety days.

One amendment continues in force rules and regulations promulgated by the federal trade commission for the enforcement of the securities act, until the new commission can act.

SEVEN RAILROADS INDICTED BY U. S.; CHARGE REBATING

Newark, N. J., May 29.—(AP)—Indictments charging seven railroads, two lighterage firms, and 16 other companies with violation of the Elkins act and interstate commerce regulations were handed up to Federal Judge William Clark today.

The indictments, 24 in number and each containing several counts, charge the railroad and lighterage companies with absorbing pumping charges for transferring molasses and vegetable oils from tank barges to tank cars for overland shipment, by making rebates to the shipping companies which should have paid the charges.

Railroads indicted are the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, Central Railroad of New Jersey, Erie, Lehigh Valley, New York, Susquehanna and Western, New York Central, and the Pennsylvania. The lighterage firms are the Manhattan Lighterage company and the New York Tank Barge Company, Inc. Defendant shipping firms include the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet company, Jersey City; Capital City Products company, Columbus, O.; Durkee Famous Foods company, Chicago: Theodore H. Davies, Inc., General Foods Sales Company, Inc., New York; McKesson & Robbins, Inc., Bridgeport, Conn.; Werner G. Smith company of Ohio. Defendants are liable upon conviction to fines of from $1,000 to $20,000 on each count in the indictments, Assistant District Attorney Arrowsmith said.

TWO FIRMS RAISE DIVIDENDS, ONE DECLARES EXTRA

Hercules Powder company yesterday declared a quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share, payable June 25 to stock of record June 15. This is an increase of 25 cents over the last dividend paid three months ago. The previous rate had been 37½ cents.

Dictaphone corporation also increased its basis 25 cents with the declaration of a 50 cent dividend, payable June 21 to stock of record June 8. Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines voted its regular monthly payment of 5 cents and an extra dividend of the same amount, payable June 18 to stock of record June 1.

The usual quarterly disbursement of $1.75 was ordered by Wilson & Co. on preferred stock, to apply on accumulations. Anchor Cap company has again postponed its annual meeting to June 4, due to lack of a quorum.

BELIEVES SHIP REVIVAL RESTS ON PRIVATE CAPITAL

BREMEN, Germany, May 29.—(AP)—Karl Lindemann, chairman of the North German Lloyd Steamship company, told the general meeting today that natural competition of a private nature and not government subsidies can put shippng back on a sound basis.

He blamed the company's loss of 28,000,000 marks [$11,000,000] during 1933 on the drop in the value of the United States dollar and the drastically reduced exports of Germany. He estimated that the deficit in 1934 would be 30,000,000 marks [$12,000,000].

BRITAIN TO CHANGE STYLE OF ITS 2 AND 3 CENT POSTAGE STAMPS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 29.—Sir Kingsley Wood, postmaster general, announced today that new two and three cent stamps would shortly be issued by Great Britain. He explained that criticism was frequently made that British stamps remained substantially unaltered.

Minor changes in design are being made—a more solid background displaying the king's head in relief and colors richer in character.

The new stamps are to be printed by the photogravure process. Previously stamps were printed from dyes made at the royal mint. The new process ends the connection between the mint and the postoffice, which dates back to the time when the mint had the sole prerogative of reproducing the likeness of the king's head. No change will be made in the size of the stamps, since this would involve an alteration of the stamp machine, of which there are 9,000 in London alone.

MARKETS' DEATH KNELL?

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Are Wall street and La Salle street doomed as the nation's great speculative centers? Will the next boom find its speculative outlet some place else? Will it be real estate? Commodities? Stocks? Will rigid government regulation, as embodied in the securities act of 1933 and the Fletcher-Rayburn bill, permanently deflate the commodity and stock brokerage business, which provides employment for millions of persons and during boom times is one of the most lucrative of professions?

These are the questions that are itching the minds of hundreds of persons who daily go to the financial district to win their livelihood. The business morale of the stock brokerage business—from board marker to exchange member—today is probably at lower ebb than at any time in the last decade.

Reach Nadir of Gloom.

Not even in the calamitous days of 1929 and 1930, when successive crashes in the stock market were wiping out fortunes and breaking men, did the gloom in the financial district equal that which now holds sway.

To most brokers there is no question that this decline in their business is directly attributable to the government's interference in the business. The feeling is shared by the commodity and the stock brokers alike. At the Chicago Board of Trade members feel that they have been betrayed by the government's action in forcing another regulatory law on them as represented by the commodity exchange bill.

Did as Government Asked.

The Board of Trade incorporated the reforms which it believed the government wanted in its code in the false belief that it would be allowed to operate without further interference, traders declare.

There is an increasing feeling of bitterness among brokers over the whole trend of the administration's reform program. They are being made the victims, they declare, of a great catastrophe, in which they shared along with the rest of the nation.

The conviction that the exchanges are virtually doomed by the government's regulations and proposed control measures is held by many in La Salle street. Many take a fatalistic view and say nothing can be done about it. Others, by far in the majority, are bitter about it, and still hope that a change may come. The situation presents a strange contrast with that which existed in La Salle street five years ago.

Youngsters Warned Away.

The "street" formerly was the magnet which attracted annually thousands of young men from colleges and universities, who saw the opportunity to get in a profitable and respectable business. Today youngsters are told to stay out of the securities field. What should they get into? Politics, perhaps, the cynical broker replies.

The collapse of trading has already had an effect on employment in La Salle street, where the workers in brokerage offices are complaining of the "Roosevelt holidays," the equivalent of the "Scotch holidays" of Wall street.

With the number of customers dwindling and trading at the lowest point since 1924, there no longer is the necessity for the large staffs of the more prosperous days. Consequently, managements which have been trying to hold their forces of workers together are now being forced to discharge some of their employés and to put others on part time. Those who still remain on the pay rolls are getting sharp reductions in their salaries.

STOCKS DECLINE; TRADE LIGHTEST OF LAST DECADE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 29.—Stocks drifted lower today in one of the dullest sessions of the dullest month of the year. Losses ranged from a fraction to a point or so in the active list. Turnover of 379,252 shares was the lowest since June 2, 1924.

Evening up operations against tomorrow's holiday and some profit taking, due to the slight rise negotiated by the main body in two or three recent sessions, were blamed for the reaction, such as it was. Little important news appeared. The Weirton Steel decision denying the government an NRA code injunction against the company, the fresh deadlock in the Toledo strike war, and the upturn in wheat were generally ignored.

Leading Issues Dormant.

Stocks attracting the most attention did so by virtue of what some boardroom wit referred to as their "shyness." American Telephone, for example, did not appear until an hour after the first trading call, and Western Union didn't get its name on the tape until well toward the close of the session. Only 100 shares of Telephone appeared on the tape throughout the session. Several issues ordinarily active were slow in getting under way and most of them were content to daily around their moorings.

Steel, rail motor, and industrial shares were the most active and in the main the weakest. Silver issues were sold rather freely, and U. S. Smelting and American Smelting gave up about a point each. A thin market was disclosed in International Silver as it lost 4⅝ points on its first sale. Gold stocks dipped a little.

Amusements Bright Spot.

Sporadic buying enabled some of the amusement stocks to make a somewhat better showing than the mill run of their fellows. Loew's displayed flashes of activity and succeeded in moving against the trend for a fractional gain.

Railroad freight loading figures showing a slight decline to seasonable trafic brought some selling into the carrier group. Union Pacific and Atchison gave up a point each.

The rally in wheat had no marked effect on the farm implement or mail order divisions. Case recovered most of its early loss, but Sears-Roebuck and Montgomery idled along with the general market. Narrow price changes, with a tendency toward lower levels, were the rule in the oils, chemicals, and foods. Chrysler and General Motors continued to hog what attention was given the motors.

MICHIGAN BELL TO COMPLY WITH RATE CUT ORDER

Detroit, Mich., May 29.—[Special.]—G. M. Welsh, vice president of the Michigan Bell Telephone company, said today the company will comply with the order of the state public commission cutting rates effective with the June billings.

Optional flat rates for Detroit residential service will be $6 per month for individual lines and $4.50 a month for two party lines. Reductions of 25 cents a month will be effective on all rural lines except that no rate shall be cut to less than $1.50 a month. Elimination of the 25 cents charge for hand sets becomes effective after 18 consecutive monthly payments. No refunds will be made.

Make Voluntary Cut.

Topeka, Kas., May 29.—Homer Hock, head of the Kansas public utility commission, today announced a voluntary reduction in monthly extension telephone charges by the Southwestern Bell Telephone company in Erie and 34 other small Kansas communities. The rate was cut from $1.50 to 50 cents.

Stanolind Cuts Trunk Line Charge on Crude 5 Cents

A reduction of 5 cents a barrel in its trunk line tarifs on crude oil from the midcontinent and west Texas fields to refinery points has been made by Stanolind Pipe Line company. The new tarif becomes effective June 21. The company has also reduced the gathering charge on crude oil in Kansas and Oklahoma 5 cents to 10 cents a barrel.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 29. — Bond prices were steady on the Stock Exchange today with United States government long term issues and high grade domestic corporation bonds showing the best strength. Government issues closed up 8-32ds to off 1-32d point on the day with most of the issues within small fractions of their best levels for the year to date. Volume was dull, totaling $9,987,000, par value, against $8,693,000 yesterday.

Best Showing in Rails.

Domestic railroad bonds showed slightly better average strength than did the utilities and industrials today. Of the most active issues Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific adjustment 5s due 2000 closed off ¾. Erie railroad refunding 5s due 1975, unchanged; Missouri Pacific refunding 5s due 1981, up ⅛; New York Central convertible 6s due 1944, up ⅝, and Norfolk & Western consolidated 4s due 1996, up 1¼ points.

Argentine Group Strong.

Bonds of the Argentine group exhibited by far the best strength in the foreign group on news of new financial accomodation for Argentina in London in connection with blocked pesos. Bonds of the group rose fractionally to more than 5 points.

Other Latin American issues were very dull.

In the European section of the list, German loans turned irregularly lower on reports of a six-months' moratorium on all German external issues with the exceptions of the Dawes and Young plan loans. These loans closed off 1¼ and up half a point, respectively.

Ulen & Co.

Investors' Guide: What is the condition of Ulen and company?—Z. J.

Answer: Ulen and company plans, constructs and manages public works in the United States and in foreign countries. Its fees are paid in cash or bonds or both. Earnings come from fees and interest on its bond holdings, plus those from miscellaneous sources.

Principal holdings are bonds of Poland and of Maverick County Water Control district number one, a portion of which are pledged to secure notes payable. H. C. Ulen, president, said on March 7, 1934, that unless Maverick county should be able to obtain federal aid, there was no reasonable prospect of ever realizing interest or principal on the bonds.

Net earnings before extraordinary credits totaled $46,000 in the first quarter of 1934, against loss of $20,000 in the corresponding 1933 period. Including nonrecurring adjustments losses were $23,000 and $10,000.

Total income in 1933 was $1,472,000, against $1,774,000 in 1932. Loss in 1933 was $81,000, against loss of $887,000 in 1932. The marked improvement in 1933 was primarily the result of the absence of a $557,000 provision for write-down of investments in affiliates. Loss in 1931 was $1,595,000, against net income of $1,040,000, or $3.07 per common share, in 1930.

At the close of 1933 current position was far from impressive. Current assets were $832,000 and current liabilities, including $2,018,000 secured notes payable to bank, were $2,214,000. By March 31, 1934, indebtedness had been reduced $300,000. Funded debt was $5,046,000.

Nothing has been paid on the 27,079 preferred shares or the 270,072 common shares since July, 1931. Both classes are quite speculative.

HOLC Procedure.

Investors' Guide: What is the procedure with reference to Home Owners' Loan corporation when a deal is completed and the deed turned over to them? Do they ordinarily require the deed before turning over the bonds? If so, what length of time is required before they make delivery of the bonds and what security do they give you for the deed in the meantime?—W. D.

Answer: Where a mortgage holder has acquired a deed to a property through foreclosure and has negotiated an HOLC loan an authorization bond is exchanged for the deed by the corporation. The authorization bond is similar to an interim certificate. A duplicate of the authorization bond is then sent to Washington by the corporation and the central office sends the definitive bonds to a bank designated by the holder of the bond. The individual is then notified. He exchanges his interim receipt for the actual bonds at the bank and the deal is completed. The procedure usually takes about two weeks.

SENATE TO PUT LIMIT ON TARIF DEBATING TODAY

Democrats Predict Quick Passage of Measure.

Washington, D. C., May 29.—(AP)—The senate headed today toward a limitation of debate on the tarif bill and Democratic leaders let it be known that a large part of the remaining legislation program probably would be scrapped to permit an adjournment by the end of next week or thereabouts.

Tomorrow the senate will restrict debate on the tarif bill and Democratic leaders predicted it would be passed and returned to the house by the end of the week. The house passed it more than a month ago.

Defending the constitutionality of the tarif bill in the first Democratic speech since the day it was taken up ten days ago, Senator Logan of Kentucky told the senate today high tarifs had become a "stench in the nostrils of the civilized world" and the bill would bring about a "revolution" in that policy.

Wants Tarif Out of Politics.

"I know it is wrong for congress to make rates in a tarif bill," he said. "The matter should have been removed from politics many years ago."

He said congress was doing "no unlawful thing when it delegates power to the President to regulate commerce."

"That's all this measure does," he added.

He contended that the constiutional arguments by Senator Borah [Rep., Idaho], and others against the measure were as "unsound" as those of Senator Fess [Rep., O.], on revolution.

Logan and Fess had a long tiff over interpretation of the word "revolution." The Ohioan contended there could be no "revolution within the constitution." Logan disagreed and said Borah and Senator Long [Dem., La.], had "fallen into the same error" in their contentions that the bill delegated the taxing power to the executive.

Raps Long's Attitude.

"If the senator from Louisiana ever finds out what this legislation is about he might change his mind about it," he said.

Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.], in a speech against the measure, said if President Roosevelt used the power provided in the bill to negotiate the tarif reduction agreements it would "destroy the NRA and AAA." If the authority were not exercised, he added, it would "create a threat of destruction and thus curse industry and agriculture with fatal uncertainty."

In an interchange with Borah, Logan said if his personal views could prevail he would wipe out all protective tarifs.

"I'm not much for this bill, but it's all we can do," he said. When he referred to the Hawley-Smoot act of 1930 as the "beginning of destruction," Fess asked whether he would like to see it repealed.

BUTTER FUTURES HIGHER; EGG PRICES IRREGULAR

Butter futures advanced ½c to ⅝c on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange yesterday, an advance of $192 per car for the last two sessions. Eggs closed ⅛c higher to ¼c lower.
